Officials Believe Acquisition Of Airports On Greenland Possible

NORTH ATLANTIC REGION WOULD BE STRONGER THEN

By John H. Hightower

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—High U. S. officials told Denmark's foreign minister today that the Atlantic treaty would provide a "framework" to solve the long-pending problem of American air bases on Greenland

American strategists are known to believe that if American bases in Greenland, Iceland and the Azores—or use of them—can be arranged under the pact it will permanently strengthen defenses of the entire Atlantic area.

But today's talk between state department leaders and Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen provided the first definite information that American officials do in fact feel the treaty will greatly ease the base solution.

Rasmussen, Danish Ambassador Henrix De Kauffmann and other Danish diplomats went to the state department for Rasmussen's second conference on the treaty. He seeks to ascertain the benefits and obligations for Denmark in joining.

Today the Danes saw State Department Counselor Charles E. Bohlen, Assistant Secretary Ernest Gross, John D. Hickerson, chief of the department's European office, and other policy making authorities.

When Rasmussen left he told reporters in response to questions that the group talked about prospects for American military aid to western

Israeli Forces Only Five Miles Away From Tiny Trans-Jordan City; Great Britain Military Officials Say Danger Present

Carter L. Davidson

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—Britain ordered reinforcements today to Aqaba, Trans-Jordan's tiny Red Sea port. Five miles away, across the Gulf of Aqaba, Jewish armored columns are in possesion of the Negev's short Red Sea coastline.

Trans-Jordan, which signed a cease-fire pact for the whole Palestine front yesterday at Rhodes, has informed Britain officially of the Israeli advance to the Red Sea short. Israel says the territory is hers under the United Nations partition arrangement.

Although Israel disclaimed any intention of attacking or transgressing, Britain obviously is viewing the situation as dangerous. The British and their ally, Trans-Jordan, do not recognize the Israeli claim to the southern wedge of the Negev.

The Israeli armored columns had thrust through the bleak southeast desert for a week to reach the coast at Eilat, where the Negev forms a wedge between Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Trans-Jordan and touches the Red Sea for five miles.

Amman quarters accused the Israelis of trying to grab what they want and present the U. N. with an accomplished fact, as they did with the seizure of Arab Beersheba from the Egyptians last October.

In London, the British war office issued this terse statement: "The war ofice announce that the British detachment at Aqaba is being rein-

Railroad Workers Feeling Impact Of Lewis' Orders

(By Associated Press)

More than 36,000 railroad workers felt the impact Saturday of John L. Lewis' order directing his United Mine workers to stay out of the nation's coal pits for the next two weeks.

Lewis has told his 400,000 miners to stay away from the mines starting Monday as a protest against President Truman's appointment of James Boyd as bureau of mines director.

Lewis' surprise move brought a quick reaction from at least five railroads engaged in carrying coal.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced it would furlough 20,000 employes for the duration of the mine shutdown. Other roads that announced layoffs resulting from the mine situation include the Chesapeake & Ohio, 10,000; Norfolk & Wester, 4,500; Louisville & Nashville, 1,500; and the New York Central, 600.

Thousands of other workers in allied industries were expected to feel the pinch as the work stoppage progressed

Operations of the Railway Express Agency were down to a mere trickle in the New York City area where agency officials announced they would lay off 9,000 workers as a result of a slowdown.

Thousands already are idle in a wage and hour dispute between the agency and the A. F. L. Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks Union. The slowdown started Tuesday at a protest against what union spokesmen described as "stalling" by the company in negotiations.

The union is demanding a 40-hour, five-day week and a wage boost of 25 cents an hour. The workers presently are employed 44 hours a week and earn from $1.32 to $1.34 an hour

In Chicago conferences on an agreement on a five-day week for 1,000,000 non-operating railroad workers proceeded. There was no indication of how soon a written agreement might be expected.

In Washington, the C. I. O., through its weekly newspaper, The C. I. O. News, called for "substantial" fourth round wage increases, a slash in corporation profits, and an expanded security program for workers.

"If the country fails to take these corrective steps, a serious depression condition is almost certain to develop," the labor publication said. It added:

"Substantial wage increases will provide a great reservoir of buying power. They will help relieve the piling up of merchandise and the drop in jobs" in the consumer goods industries.

Corporation profit "must be trimmed for the common good," the C. I. O. said.

COUGH SYRUP USE CALLED DANGEROUS

FERRIDAY, La., March 12.—(AP)—E. W. Vogt, secretary of the Louisiana state board of pharmacy, warned today against the sale or consumption of "syrup of eurethane," a cough syrup.

He said he had been notified by the federal food and drug administration, that it was dangerous to blood cell counts and seizure of the product was being made.

The cough syrup is manufactured by Marvin Thompson, Inc., Stanford, Conn).

Vogt said all drug stores should immediately take the syrup off the market. It should not be administered by physicians, pharmacists, hospitals and clinics or taken by consumers, he warned.

Druggists and owners of the syrup should report withdrawals to the company in Stanford, he said.

P. A. FRYE DIES OF HEART STROKE

Executive Secretary Of P.S.C. Succumbs Suddenly At Baton Rouge Home

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP) Col. P. A. Frye, executive secretary of the Louisiana Public Service Commission, died suddenly tonight after a heart attack at his home.

Appointed a colonel by Huey P. Long, Frye had served as director of highways and in several other state offices.

Friends said the state official, preparing to leave home with Mrs. Frye for a special engagement this evening, suddenly complained of feeling ill. He went to his room and died a few minutes later.

Frye, 51, was considered one of the career men of the Louisiana state government. He had served continuously under eight governors of Louisiana since Dec. 15, 1930. The late Gov. Huey P. Long made him a colonel on his staff when the governor was limited to four such appointments, and the title stuck for the rest of Frye's life.

Frye was born in Hattiesburg, Miss., and educated in Mississippi public schools and Mississippi State College, Starkville. He lived in Louisiana all his adult life.

He enlisted in the army in 1918 and was honorably discharged as a sergeant a year later. He began work as a railroad ticket clerk and in the next 10 years he climed through operating and rate departments to become assistant general freight agent.

His service on the Public Service Commission staff then began, while he was technically on leave from his railroad appointment.

He became the commission's chief executive officer and retained the title even when he was drafted for other services to the state government. On Jan. 15, 1945, Gov. Jimmie Davis appointed him director of natural gas conservation, charged with enforcing what was then an officially adopted state policy of restricting the export of natural gas to areas considered to be adequately supplied with other fuels for industrial use. In December, 1946, Governor Davis named him head of the state department of highways.

After less than a year, during which highway procedures were overhauled and various administrative improvements made, Frye returned to his

President Gives Blessing To Conference Called For Compromise Purposes

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—President Truman tonight signalled a settlement of the senate filibuster.

The 12-day talkathion may be at an end.

With his legislative program at an absolute standstill in the senate, Mr. Truman gave his blessing to a conference called for Sunday to work out a compromise.

Any agreement would mean an end to his fight to smash the filibuster. The administration had lost in a test vote. Its only weapon left is to try to wear out the southerners lieutenants from Key West, Fla. where he is vacationing. Senator McGrath (D-R. I.) reported the president is "agreeable to anything that will work out a solution.

The senate recessed abruptly at 7:51 p.m. E. S. T. in the midst of a night session when it was announced that the solution was to be attempted. Leaders of administration Democrats, southern Democrats and Republicans will be in on the Sunday huddle.

Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) told the senate that these groups expected to work out a settlement. This would head off round-the-clock sessions which he had threatened to start Monday to break the filibuster.

Lucas, with a broad smile, warned that no definite agreement had been reached as yet but quickly added that a compromise is possible.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), Dixie leader, and Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska agreed cautiously, apparently wary about the bargaining yet to take place. Invited to the "secret session" Sunday are Lucas and Deputy Democratic Leader Myers (Pa.), Republican Leader Wherry (Neb.) and G. O. P. Senators Salton-

WILLENSKY TAKES MANAGER'S POST

West Monroe Man Is Named To Business Director's Office At N. J. C.

Samuel J. Willensky, Jr., of West Monroe, has been appointed business manager of Northeast Junior College, announced Dean Rodney Cline Saturday. He replaces the late Jewell J. Frey who committed suicide February 19.

Willensky is an alumnus of Ouachita Parish High School, N. J. C. and Louisiana State University, from which he graduated in February as an accounting major in the college of commerce.

On the Baton Rouge campus he was company commander of the R. O. T. C., a member of Scabbard and Blade, military honor fraternity, vice-president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, and a member of the band during part of the time in which he was enrolled at L. S. U.

He did his major work in commerce at Northeast Junior College, where he held membership in the band and was on the staff of the Pow Wow, college newspaper.

Between 1943 and the spring of 1946 Willensky saw military service. Selected for the Army Specialized Training Program, he was stationed at the University of North Dakota, then he transferred to the infantry for active duty. Following his discharge, he enrolled at L. S. U. in the summer of 1946 to continue study leading to the bachelor's degree.

Returning to the local college "seems like coming back home," the new business manager asserted, "despite the changes on the campus and faculty, and a complete turn over in the student body."

Willensky is the son of Mrs. S. J. Willensky, 405 Ludwig Avenue, West Monroe.

75-FOOT FALL ENDS WITH SKINNED KNEE

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP)—A 28-year-old structural iron worker fell 75 feet from a six-story scaffolding, landed in a sand pile and skinned his knee.

Robert Litton, Jr., formerly of Alexandria, described the accident here today. He said he was tearing down scaffolding on an elevator used to haul material to a men's dormitory on the Louisiana State University campus. He said he started to throw down an iron guy rod, saw some workmen below, tried to hold onto it and tippled off.

Litton said he "made a three-point landing" on his head, chest and shoulders in the sand pile. Knocked out briefly, he said he regained consciousness, brushed himself off and was rushed to a hospital for X-rays and examination.

He figures he skinned his knee on a cable as he was falling.

Litton, an army air corps and infantry veteran, said he "had all of it—too much air and too much ground." But he expects to return to work Monday.

Youth Is Convicted But Will Be Freed

Legal Technicality Says Boy Cannot Be Sentenced By Court That Tried Him; Guilty As Accessory After Fact Of Murder

POINTE A LA HACHE, La., March 12.—(AP)—A jury convicted 15-year-old Charles Sartalamacchia today in the slaying of a six-year-old playmate, but he can't be sentenced on the conviction.

Because of a technicality of law, he must be prosecuted again as a juvenile delinquent, or set free.

Charles was charged with murder in the fatal beating of little Fuaides (Boo) Landry last July 23.

The jury found him "guilty as an accessory after the fact of murder"—one of 27 possible verdicts which District Judge Bruce Nunez told the jury it could render on a murder charge.

A murder conviction carries a mandatory death penalty. The accessory conviction normally involves a maximum five-year penitentiary sentence.

But a 1948 law gave juvenile courts jurisdiction over defendants under 17, except in capital crimes or those involving aggravated rape.

District Attorney Leander Perez explained that this meant Charles could be tried for murder like an adult, and electrocuted if convicted. But the district court, which heard the trial, cannot sentence him on the lesser conviction.

Defense Attorney Lawrence Bergeron said a motion would be filed, probably Monday, to have Charles declared a juvenile. Perez said this motion, if granted, would automatically free Charles; but he would be charged immediately as a juvenile delinquent.

Perez said that if convicted as a delinquent, Charles could be sent to a reformatory until he is 21. He will be 16 next Friday.

Meanwhile, Charles was remanded to the Plaquemines parish (county) jail. No bond was set.

As the verdict was read shortly be-

Crippled Bomber Racks Up Record Flight With Bombs

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 12—(AP) A crippled B-36 superbomber landed at Carswell Air Base today with a new distance record for these giant planes.

The great silver ship, with two of its six pusher-type engines dead, touched earth after a 9,600-mile nonstop, non-refueling flight over the nation. For 5,000 miles, the B-36 had carried 10,000 pounds of bombs.

The propellers were motionless as the superbomber came in for a gentle landing at 7:57 a.m., Central Standard Time (8:57 a.m., E. S. T.) It had been airborne 24 hours and 55 minutes since roaring away from Carswell at 12:20 p.m., Central Standard Time (1:20 p.m. E. S. T.) Thursday.

The sensational flight topped by 687 miles the former B-36 record distance flight last Dec. 6-7. That was a dramatic hop from Fort Worth to Honolulu and return ending on Pearl Harbor Day.

The flight failed by 1,936 miles to equal the non-refueling distance record of 11,236 miles. This record was made by the Truculent Turtle, a two-engine navy patrol plane which flew from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 1, 1946.

Carswell base announced the plane had two hours of fuel left when it landed. Maj. John D. Bartlett, project officer for B-36 training for the 77th Bombardment Wing of the Eighth Air Force, ordered the plane down because two engines had failed today and weather was closing in on the field.

The route of the bomber took it northward over Minneapolis; westward to Great Falls, Mont., and southeastward across the nation to Key West, Fla., where President Truman is vacationing.

The B-36, big as three five-room houses, dropped its tremendous load in the Gulf of Mexico at 1:15 p.m., Central Standard Time (2:15 p.m., E. S. T.), yesterday.

Then it headed northwestward, passing over Fort Worth two hours and five minutes later.

It roared northward, past Denver, and at 10:36 p.m., Central Standard Time (11:36 p.m., E. S. T.), last night it sighted Great Falls, Mont., for the second time. An hour and 22 minutes later it throbbed over Spokane and turned southeastward for the long, last lap home.

Over Wyoming the bomber bucked into terrific headwinds. Bartlett said if it had not been for these headwinds and the engine trouble, the plane could have exceeded 10,000 miles.

WIRETAPPING IS UNCOVERED; ONE PRISONER FLEES

POLITICAL DYNAMITE IS SEEN IF STORY REVEALED

By Joe Hall

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—A spectacular plot to learn the secrets of city officials in New York and other cities by tapping their telephone wires was reported today by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

One of two men taken into custody today cooly duped his captors at city hall and escaped through a window while they thought he was in a rest room.

Despite a police net around all exits from Manhattan and the activities of scores of detectives, he remained free many hours later.

The other man, allegedly hired to operate the wire taps, remained in custody.

City hall authorities said he was talking freely, making "startling revelations, naming prominent names and organizaitons in public and business affairs."

There was potential dynamite in the bizarre affair, with a hint from city hall officials that political foes of O'Dwyer may be involved.

Kenneth Ryan, 45-year-old retired city detective and wiretapping expert, was the man who leaped from the city hall window.

O'Dwyer announced early in the morning Ryan had admitted he was hired by an attorney to make wiretaps on the phones of the mayor himself and about 75 subordinate officials.

Police said this attorney also hired Edward Jones, former treasury department agent, the man who allegedly was telling them the story involving prominent persons.

A subpoena was issued for the attorney. Detectives went to his apartment but he was not taken into custody immediately.

The mayor said the wire taps also were to be placed on lines of officials in Chicago and Detroit.

Kenneth Ryan made his break from city hall about 7 a.m. A half hour later, he was reported to have been seen several miles north on West 179th street in Manhattan boarding a taxicab which took him across the George Washington bridge to New Jersey.

New York police quickly asked New Jersey authorities to watch the Allamuchy, N. J., home of Clendenin J. Ryan, a bitter political foe of O'Dwyer.

"It is believed that (Kenneth) Ryan headed for the home of (Clendenin) Ryan to seek financial aid," a city hall spokesman said.

But Clendenin Ryan, reached at his Panther Ledge farm in Allamuchy, declared he did not know the former detective and added: "He's not here."

Clendenin Ryan is a grandson of Thomas Fortune Ryan, the wealthy financier. The younger Ryan announced Thursday establishment of the Good Government Foundation to "expose corruption in public office everywhere."

He said it would function strongly in New York City and eventually would operate throughout the country. He said he was underwriting it for $500,000.

Clendenin Ryan also has been a leader in a budding campaign to defeat O'Dwyer for a second term this fall. The mayor has not announced officially he will run again but he is expected to do so.

On Wednesday Clendenin Ryan went to city hall with a series of questions in a letter which were designed to embarrass the mayor. One asked if Frank Costello, gambling figure, is "the real boss of New York City."

The mayor did not see his caller and commented only, "another crackpot."

Yesterday Ryan went back to city hall, this time to nail on a door a copy of a 1945 grand jury presentment

Lewis has told his 400,000 miners to stay away from the mines starting Monday as a protest against President Truman's appointment of James Boyd as bureau of mines director.

Lewis' surprise move brought a quick reaction from at least five railroads engaged in carrying coal.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced it would furlough 20,000 employes for the duration of the mine shutdown. Other roads that announced layoffs resulting from the mine situation include the Chesapeake & Ohio, 10,000; Norfolk & Wester, 4,500; Louisville & Nashville, 1,500; and the New York Central, 600.

Thousands of other workers in allied industries were expected to feel the pinch as the work stoppage progressed

Operations of the Railway Express Agency were down to a mere trickle in the New York City area where agency officials announced they would lay off 9,000 workers as a result of a slowdown.

Thousands already are idle in a wage and hour dispute between the agency and the A. F. L. Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks Union. The slowdown started Tuesday at a protest against what union spokesmen described as "stalling" by the company in negotiations.

The union is demanding a 40-hour, five-day week and a wage boost of 25 cents an hour. The workers presently are employed 44 hours a week and earn from $1.32 to $1.34 an hour

In Chicago conferences on an agreement on a five-day week for 1,000,000 non-operating railroad workers proceeded. There was no indication of how soon a written agreement might be expected.

In Washington, the C. I. O., through its weekly newspaper, The C. I. O. News, called for "substantial" fourth round wage increases, a slash in corporation profits, and an expanded security program for workers.

"If the country fails to take these corrective steps, a serious depression condition is almost certain to develop," the labor publication said. It added: "Substantial wage increases will provide a great reservoir of buying power. They will help relieve the piling up of merchandise and the drop in jobs" in the consumer goods industries.

Corporation profit "must be trimmed for the common good," the C. I. O. said.

COUGH SYRUP USE CALLED DANGEROUS

FERRIDAY, La., March 12.—(AP)—E. W. Vogt, secretary of the Louisiana state board of pharmacy, warned today against the sale or consumption of "syrup of eurethane," a cough syrup.

He said he had been notified by the federal food and drug administration, that it was dangerous to blood cell counts and seizure of the product was being made.

The cough syrup is manufactured by Marvin Thompson, Inc., Stanford, Conn).

Vogt said all drug stores should immediately take the syrup off the market. It should not be administered by physicians, pharmacists, hospitals and clinics or taken by consumers, he warned.

Druggists and owners of the syrup should report withdrawals to the company in Stanford, he said.

P. A. FRYE DIES OF HEART STROKE

Executive Secretary Of P.S.C. Succumbs Suddenly At Baton Rouge Home

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP) Col. P. A. Frye, executive secretary of the Louisiana Public Service Commission, died suddenly tonight after a heart attack at his home.

Appointed a colonel by Huey P. Long, Frye had served as director of highways and in several other state offices.

Friends said the state official, preparing to leave home with Mrs. Frye for a special engagement this evening, suddenly complained of feeling ill. He went to his room and died a few minutes later.

Frye, 51, was considered one of the career men of the Louisiana state government. He had served continuously under eight governors of Louisiana since Dec. 15, 1930. The late Gov. Huey P. Long made him a colonel on his staff when the governor was limited to four such appointments, and the title stuck for the rest of Frye's life.

Frye was born in Hattiesburg, Miss., and educated in Mississippi public schools and Mississippi State College, Starkville. He lived in Louisiana all his adult life.

He enlisted in the army in 1918 and was honorably discharged as a sergeant a year later. He began work as a railroad ticket clerk and in the next 10 years he climed through operating and rate departments to become assistant general freight agent.

His service on the Public Service Commission staff then began, while he was technically on leave from his railroad appointment.

He became the commission's chief executive officer and retained the title even when he was drafted for other services to the state government. On Jan. 15, 1945, Gov. Jimmie Davis appointed him director of natural gas conservation, charged with enforcing what was then an officially adopted state policy of restricting the export of natural gas to areas considered to be adequately supplied with other fuels for industrial use. In December, 1946, Governor Davis named him head of the state department of highways.

After less than a year, during which highway procedures were overhauled and various administrative improvements made, Frye returned to his

President Gives Blessing To Conference Called For Compromise Purposes

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—President Truman tonight signalled the end of a settlement of the senate filibuster.

The 12-day talkathion may be at an end.

With his legislative program at an absolute standstill in the senate, Mr. Truman gave his blessing to a conference called for Sunday to work out a compromise.

Any agreement would mean an end to his fight to smash the filibuster. The administration had lost in a test vote. Its only weapon left is to try to wear out the southerners lieutenants from Key West, Fla. where he is vacationing. Senator McGrath (D-R. I.) reported the president is "agreeable to anything that will work out a solution.

The senate recessed abruptly at 7:51 p.m. E. S. T. in the midst of a night session when it was announced that the solution was to be attempted. Leaders of administration Democrats, southern Democrats and Republicans will be in on the Sunday huddle.

Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) told the senate that these groups expected to work out a settlement. This would head off round-the-clock sessions which he had threatened to start Monday to break the filibuster.

Lucas, with a broad smile, warned that no definite agreement had been reached as yet but quickly added that a compromise is possible.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), Dixie leader, and Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska agreed cautiously, apparently wary about the bargaining yet to take place. Invited to the "secret session" Sunday are Lucas and Deputy Democratic Leader Myers (Pa.), Republican Leader Wherry (Neb.) and G. O. P. Senators Salton-

75-FOOT FALL ENDS WITH SKINNED KNEE

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP)—A 28-year-old structural iron worker fell 75 feet from a six-story scaffolding, landed in a sand pile and skinned his knee.

Robert Litton, Jr., formerly of Alexandria, described the accident here today. He said he was tearing down scaffolding on an elevator used to haul material to a men's dormitory on the Louisiana State University campus. He said he started to throw down an iron guy rod, saw some workmen below, tried to hold onto it and tippled off.

Litton said he "made a three-point landing" on his head, chest and shoulders in the sand pile. Knocked out briefly, he said he regained consciousness, brushed himself off and was rushed to a hospital for X-rays and examination.

He figures he skinned his knee on a cable as he was falling.

Litton, an army air corps and infantry veteran, said he "had all of it—too much air and too much ground." But he expects to return to work Monday.

BROTHER, WIFE AGAINST BROTHER

Joseph Sartalamacchia and his wife, Almeda, arrive in court at Pointe a La Hache, La., to testify against his 15-year-old brother, Charles, charged with killing Fauldes "Boo" Landry, 6. Almeda told the court she saw Charles kill the little boy. Joseph testified Charles told him he beat the child to death because of jealousy. On top of all that, the mother of Joseph and Charles testified Joseph told her he killed little "Boo" by accident. (AP Wirephoto).

Youth Is Convicted But Will Be Freed

Legal Technicality Says Boy Cannot Be Sentenced By Court That Tried Him; Guilty As Accessory After Fact Of Murder

POINTE A LA HACHE, La., March 12.—(AP)—A jury convicted 15-year-old Charles Sartalamacchia today in the slaying of a six-year-old playmate, but he can't be sentenced on the conviction.

Because of a technicality of law, he must be prosecuted again as a juvenile delinquent, or set free.

Charles was charged with murder in the fatal beating of little Fualdes (Boo) Landry last July 23.

The jury found him "guilty as an accessory after the fact of murder"—one of 27 possible verdicts which District Judge Bruce Nunez told the jury it could render on a murder charge.

A murder conviction carries a mandatory death penalty. The accessory conviction normally involves a maximum five-year penitentiary sentence.

But a 1948 law gave juvenile courts jurisdiction over defendants under 17, except in capital crimes or those involving aggravated rape.

District Attorney Leander Perez explained that this meant Charles could be tried for murder like an adult, and electrocuted if convicted. But the district court, which heard the trial, cannot sentence him on the lesser conviction.

Defense Attorney Lawrence Bergeron said a motion would be filed, probably Monday, to have Charles declared a juvenile. Perez said this motion, if granted, would automatically free Charles; but he would be charged immediately as a juvenile delinquent.

Perez said that if convicted as a delinquent, Charles could be sent to a reformatory until he is 21. He will be 16 next Friday.

Meanwhile, Charles was remanded to the Plaquemines parish (county) jail. No bond was set.

As the verdict was read shortly be-

Crippled Bomber Racks Up Record Flight With Bombs

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 12—(AP) A crippled B-36 superbomber landed at Carswell Air Base today with a new distance record for these giant planes.

The great silver ship, with two of its six pusher-type engines dead, touched earth after a 9,600-mile nonstop, non-refueling flight over the nation. For 5,000 miles, the B-36 had carried 10,000 pounds of bombs.

The propellers were motionless as the superbomber came in for a gentle landing at 7:57 a.m., Central Standard Time (8:57 a.m., E. S. T.) It had been airborne 24 hours and 55 minutes since roaring away from Carswell at 12:20 p.m., Central Standard Time (1:20 p.m. E. S. T.) Thursday.

The sensational flight topped by 687 miles the former B-36 record distance flight last Dec. 6-7. That was a dramatic hop from Fort Worth to Honolulu and return ending on Pearl Harbor Day.

The flight failed by 1,936 miles to equal the non-refueling distance record of 11,236 miles. This record was made by the Truculent Turtle, a two-engine navy patrol plane which flew from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 1, 1946.

Carswell base announced the plane had two hours of fuel left when it landed. Maj. John D. Bartlett, project officer for B-36 training for the 77th Bombardment Wing of the Eighth Air Force, ordered the plane down because two engines had failed today and weather was closing in on the field.

The route of the bomber took it northward over Minneapolis; westward to Great Falls, Mont., and southeastward across the nation to Key West, Fla., where President Truman is vacationing.

The B-36, big as three five-room houses, dropped its tremendous load in the Gulf of Mexico at 1:15 p.m., Central Standard Time (2:15 p.m., E. S. T.), yesterday.

Then it headed northwestward, passing over Fort Worth two hours and five minutes later.

It roared northward, past Denver, and at 10:36 p.m., Central Standard Time (11:36 p.m., E. S. T.), last night it sighted Great Falls, Mont., for the second time. An hour and 22 minutes later it throbbed over Spokane and turned southeastward for the long, last lap home.

Over Wyoming the bomber bucked into terrific headwinds. Bartlett said if it had not been for these headwinds and the engine trouble, the plane could have exceeded 10,000 miles.

WIRETAPPING IS UNCOVERED; ONE PRISONER FLEES

POLITICAL DYNAMITE IS SEEN IF STORY REVEALED

By Joe Hall

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—A spectacular plot to learn the secrets of city officials in New York and other cities by tapping their telephone wires was reported today by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

One of two men taken into custody today cooly duped his captors at city hall and escaped through a window while they thought he was in a rest room.

Despite a police net around all exits from Manhattan and the activities of scores of detectives, he remained free many hours later.

The other man, allegedly hired to operate the wire taps, remained in custody.

City hall authorities said he was talking freely, making "startling revelations, naming prominent names and organizaitons in public and business affairs."

There was potential dynamite in the bizarre affair, with a hint from city hall officials that political foes of O'Dwyer may be involved.

Kenneth Ryan, 45-year-old retired city detective and wiretapping expert, was the man who leaped from the city hall window.

O'Dwyer announced early in the morning Ryan had admitted he was hired by an attorney to make wiretaps on the phones of the mayor himself and about 75 subordinate officials.

Police said this attorney also hired Edward Jones, former treasury department agent, the man who allegedly was telling them the story involving prominent persons.

A subpoena was issued for the attorney. Detectives went to his apartment but he was not taken into custody immediately.

The mayor said the wire taps also were to be placed on lines of officials in Chicago and Detroit.

Kenneth Ryan made his break from city hall about 7 a.m. A half hour later, he was reported to have been seen several miles north on West 179th street in Manhattan boarding a taxicab which took him across the George Washington bridge to New Jersey.

New York police quickly asked New Jersey authorities to watch the Allamuchy, N. J., home of Clendenin J. Ryan, a bitter political foe of O'Dwyer.

"It is believed that (Kenneth) Ryan headed for the home of (Clendenin) Ryan to seek financial aid," a city hall spokesman said.

But Clendenin Ryan, reached at his Panther Ledge farm in Allamuchy, declared he did not know the former detective and added: "He's not here."

Clendenin Ryan is a grandson of Thomas Fortune Ryan, the wealthy financier. The younger Ryan announced Thursday establishment of the Good Government Foundation to "expose corruption in public office everywhere."

He said it would function strongly in New York City and eventually would operate throughout the country. He said he was underwriting it for $500,000.

Clendenin Ryan also has been a leader in a budding campaign to defeat O'Dwyer for a second term this fall. The mayor has not announced officially he will run again but he is expected to do so.

On Wednesday Clendenin Ryan went to city hall with a series of questions in a letter which were designed to embarrass the mayor. One asked if Frank Costello, gambling figure, is "the real boss of New York City."

The mayor did not see his caller and commented only, "another crackpot."

RICHLAND PAVING PROGRAM PLANNED

Contracts To Be Signed April 6; Work To Begin Shortly Thereafter

RAYVILLE, La., March 12 — (Special)—Contracts will be signed April 6 and work will start shortly thereafter on a comprehensive paving and road improvement program in Richland parish, it was announced here today by State Representative A. Douglas Booth, following a series of conferences with Director R. B. Richardson and officials of the state highway department.

The right-of-way has already been cleared on the first section of the Holly Ridge-North road, contracts for which will be let on April 6, Representative Booth pointed out. This will involve the surfacing of three and a half miles of road.

"Improvement of the remainder of the Holly Ridge-North road is also being programmed and will be started after completion of additional work on Routes 208 and 15. It is proposed to hard-surface the entire Holly Ridge-North route for 11 miles along Highway 80 and to the intersections of route 455 leading into Epps," Representative Booth explained.

In addition to the contracts to be let April 6, the highway department is setting up its construction forces to asphalt surface route 15 from the end of the present pavement in Mangham west to the intersection of route 209 at Boughton store. Department forces will likewise asphalt treat route 15 from the end of the present pavement in Mangham west to the intersection of route 890, about one-half mile south of Mangham.

"I am highly gratified that work will be started on the three paving jobs in Richland parish," Representative Booth said. He announced that he would follow the progress of the work and would confer with Director Richardson of the highway department as the work progresses in an effort to have the road improvement program extended to other parts of the parish.

HOLDUP MAN KILLS TWO IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—(AP)—Two men were shot to death and a third critically wounded in the holdup of a state liquor store here late today.

Police said a negro walked into the store (725 South street) shortly after 3 p. m., and shot down the manager and two clerks. He fled on foot.

The dead:

Herman Weintraub, 35, the manager.

Howard R. Robinson, 57, a clerk.

A second clerk, Fielder Jackson, 28-year-old negro, was wounded seriously.

First reports gave no indication of whether there were any patrons in the store or how much money was taken.

Jason Potash, another clerk in the store, told police the intruder walked in, found the cash register open and started to reach in.

Jackson tried to stop him and the man pulled out a gun and shot him. Weintraub started after him and was shot in the chest.

Other clerks fled into the rear of the store, Robinson taking refuge in the bath room. The gunman followed him and shot him in the mouth.

Then, he turned and blazed wildly at the others.

It was not determined whether he took any money.

The shooting was completed so quickly that neighboring merchants weren't aware of it until police arrived.

Potash said he was able to escape by fleeing through a back door and hiding in a garage.

Competition Rough When One Clerk Looks Exactly Like Friend At Next Counter; Mrs. Glenn And Mrs. Beasley Enjoy Confusion

By Bert Hatten
(Of the Morning World Staff)

"Competition sure gets rough when your old customers don't know you from the lady working the next counter," says Mrs. Ola Glenn, who has been employed at the Palace department store for the past four years.

The trouble is, Mrs. Glenn and her friend and co-employe, Mrs. Farrah Beasley, look so much alike that customers and even their manager can't tell them apart. A number of interesting experiences have found basis on the fact that these two ladies have a very close resemblance in appearance.

Probably the most striking incident to come from their being so much alike happened the night Mrs. Glenn was married. Mrs. Beasley, who attended the wedding, was approached by another wedding guest who extended to Mrs. Beasley voluble congratulations and well wishes for a happily married life.

Following Mrs. Beasley's explanation as to the correct identity of the bride, the mistaken guest retired, muttering about "close resemblances."

On one occasion, which Mrs. Glenn was reluctant in revealing, she reported to work one morning and glancing at her image in the mirror spoke to the image, thinking that Mrs. Beasley had beaten her to work.

Mrs. Glenn remarked later, "It isn't so bad when other people mistake me for Farrah, but when I don't know my own self, I must be awful."

Even the office manager, Sam Davis, has a hard time with the pair. He seldom knows which one is which. He usually solves this problem by just coming to the point and asking, "now which one are you, Mrs. Glenn or Mrs. Beasley?"

The two salesladies gave an account of an experience and problem which they met while attending a sales training school in Dallas, Texas. They related how their instructor never learned them apart and often had to retreat to the same method employed by Davis. The instructor, G. E. Nelson, is still reluctant in believing the two women are not sisters or maybe twins.

They declare they are not related and didn't know each other until they started to work at the department store, where Mrs. Beasley has been employed for the past six years and Mrs. Glenn for the past four.

Each admit the confusion is terrific but they enjoy their association and friendship.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—(AP)—Two men were shot to death and a third critically wounded in the holdup of a state liquor store here late today.

Police said a negro walked into the store (725 South street) shortly after 3 p. m., and shot down the manager and two clerks. He fled on foot.

The dead:

Herman Weintraub, 35, the manager.

Howard R. Robinson, 57, a clerk.

A second clerk, Fielder Jackson, 28-year-old negro, was wounded seriously.

First reports gave no indication of whether there were any patrons in the store or how much money was taken.

Jason Potash, another clerk in the store, told police the intruder walked in, found the cash register open and started to reach in.

Jackson tried to stop him and the man pulled out a gun and shot him. Weintraub started after him and was shot in the chest.

Other clerks fled into the rear of the store, Robinson taking refuge in the bath room. The gunman followed him and shot him in the mouth.

Then, he turned and blazed wildly at the others.

It was not determined whether he took any money.

The shooting was completed so quickly that neighboring merchants weren't aware of it until police arrived.

Potash said he was able to escape by fleeing through a back door and hiding in a garage.

AGED JONESBORO WOMAN HONORED

JONESBORO, La., March 12.—(Special)—Mrs. W. H. Martin, affectionately known as "Grandma," by her many friends celebrated her 86th birthday at a family reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. A gorgeous birthday cake all decked in candles and birthday greetings centered the lovely arranged dining table.

This was the first time in ten years that all the children had been privileged to be together and the happiness on the face of their mother made it well worth the effort they made to be there.

Children present were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hughes of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sharp of Corsicana, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ray of Wacahachie, Tex.; Mrs. Alma Jones and Mrs. B. L. Hutto of Dodson; Mr. Bill Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Jap Orren and family of Jonesboro.

Competition Rough When One Clerk Looks Exactly Like Friend At Next Counter; Mrs. Glenn And Mrs. Beasley Enjoy Confusion

By Bert Hatten
(Of the Morning World Staff)

"Competition sure gets rough when your old customers don't know you from the lady working the next counter," says Mrs. Ola Glenn, who has been employed at the Palace department store for the past four years.

The trouble is, Mrs. Glenn and her friend and co-employe, Mrs. Farrah Beasley, look so much alike that customers and even their manager can't tell them apart. A number of interesting experiences have found basis on the fact that these two ladies have a very close resemblance in appearance.

Probably the most striking incident to come from their being so much alike happened the night Mrs. Glenn was married. Mrs. Beasley, who attended the wedding, was approached by another wedding guest who extended to Mrs. Beasley voluble congratulations and well wishes for a happily married life.

Following Mrs. Beasley's explanation as to the correct identity of the bride, the mistaken guest retired, muttering about "close resemblances."

On one occasion, which Mrs. Glenn was reluctant in revealing, she reported to work one morning and glancing at her image in the mirror spoke to the image, thinking that Mrs. Beasley had beaten her to work.

Mrs. Glenn remarked later, "It isn't so bad when other people mistake me for Farrah, but when I don't know my own self, I must be awful."

Even the office manager, Sam Davis, has a hard time with the pair. He seldom knows which one is which. He usually solves this problem by just coming to the point and asking, "now which one are you, Mrs. Glenn or Mrs. Beasley?"

The two salesladies gave an account of an experience and problem which they met while attending a sales training school in Dallas, Texas. They related how their instructor never learned them apart and often had to retreat to the same method employed by Davis. The instructor, G. E. Nelson, is still reluctant in believing the two women are not sisters or maybe twins.

They declare they are not related and didn't know each other until they started to work at the department store, where Mrs. Beasley has been employed for the past six years and Mrs. Glenn for the past four.

Each admit the confusion is terrific but they enjoy their association and friendship.

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—(AP)—During her first visit here this week, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt disclosed the tale of how the late President slept through "Gone With the Wind."

For all her statesmanship, the former first lady is a part of show business, due to her five-times-weekly broadcast on ABC with daughter Anna. So it seemed inevitable that she be given a Hollywood-style cocktail party during her lecture stop here. The scene: Anna's modest apartment, filled with F. D. R. mementoes.

Arriving early, I asked Mrs. Roosevelt about her husband's movie habits.

"Of course, movies were his most practical diversion," she said, "because of the fact that they could be brought to him. That was important because of his incapacity. He liked movies very much and his favorites were the Walt Disney pictures. He loved to watch the animals.

"There was one picture which made him very angry. Let me see—I forget the name of the book and movie; it was about the Civil War."

I supplied the title: "Gone With the Wind."

"Yes, that's it. My husband went to sleep in the middle of it and when he woke up, the picture was still on. He was quite angry. 'No movie has a right to be that long,' he said."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she has seen few movies since leaving the White House. "I know I shouldn't be saying that in Hollywood," she smiled. "But I don't even have time for the theater, which I particularly enjoy."

She added that she has been "pretty busy." Returning home from United Nations meetings in December, she spent some time finishing the second volume of her autobiography at Hyde Park. "I think I have it finished now," she said.

In January, she took off on a lecture tour, "largely one night stands." She is speaking only on the United Nations, since she feels "we should carry the story of the U. N. to the people." She managed to stretch an extra day here to spend with her children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she likes doing the radio show. Except for her two shows here, she records her portions, doing the week's work in an hour and a half. She gets an idea of what she is going to say and records without a script.

What about television?

"No, it's not for me; I hate it. I don't like to do movies or anything like that, you see, I don't photograph very well."

Support Pledge Is Nothing New

The statement by two American Communist leaders that they would support Russia in the event of war is quite different from recent statements by Communist leaders in France and Italy. The words sound about the same, since Moscow announced the text. But the circumstances were not similar.

Thorez and Togliatti spoke in countries where Communists are more numerous than here. They spoke in countries which would be in real danger of speedy Russian occupation if war broke out now. And they spoke to people still suffering from the horror, exhaustion and destruction of the last war.

Their appeal was based on the assumption that many Frenchmen and Italians would prefer Soviet serfdom to battle. It was not, we believe, a safe or reasonable assumption. But at the time it was the best answer that Moscow had for the challenge of the North Atlantic alliance.

The statement of Foster and Dennis was only a faint echo of the others. These men were not silly enough to ask Americans to welcome the Soviet armies as "liberators." They simply said that they would support Russia in any "unjust, aggressive, imperialistic war" brought on by "Wall Street."

Well, everybody knows that's what they would do. They've said so before and they will probably say so again. But one would think that something new had been added.

A presidential press conference made quite a big thing out of Mr. Truman's permitting a direct quote when he called these Communists "traitors." Senator Eastland indignantly proclaimed that he would ask legal provisions "to curb these traitorous agents of a foreign power and to prevent sedition, espionage and treason."

The president of the National Association of Manufacturers called on labor to cooperate with management in driving the Reds out of industry. William Green said the A. F. of L. would take no part in strikes to sabotage American defense. Even Henry Wallace got into the act by saying he was "not in accord" with the Communist statements.

Apropos all the flurry, General Eisenhower said something sensible—as is his custom—in a talk to the New York Bar Association. Speaking of Russian-American relations generally, he said he deplored Americans' tendency to view the international situation "with doubt, fear and even hysteria."

"The 146,000,000 people in this great land," he said, "are the mightiest temporal power that ever existed. Let us look on our problems like a man who knows he is strong no matter how humble he is."

That is sound advice. The Communists in America are traitorous agents of a foreign power. Their aim is sedition, espionage and treason. That is why their party leaders are now on trial. But the American people knew all that before two of those leaders made their latest public declaration of loyalty to Russia. So why all the excitement?

"The greatest temporal power that ever existed" can certainly cope with the danger of domestic communism, which is a real menace even with virtually no popular support. It can cope with communism as it has coped with other dangers and menaces—by action, not by fear and hysteria.

There has already been action against the Communists. But there has also been a lot of hollering, handwriting and breast-beating. There seems little point now in any more of it. The people are now fully aware of the basic facts. Shouted denunciation of the Reds simply wastes time and energy and doesn't hurt the Reds a bit.

But there is a need for action. And the most pressing need, it seems to us, is for a decision by the government. Shall the Communist party be outlawed, all its known officers arrested, and other strong measures taken? Or shall it be allowed to continue, under very close surveillance, as a disgusting but minor menace which is less dangerous in the open?

Many other positive measures depend on that decision. And whatever the decision may be, it can be carried out calmly, confidently, firmly and without emotional fireworks.

Shifting The Blame

Several days ago at a club meeting here in Monroe the statement was made that the movies are largely responsible for juvenile delinquency, with a passing remark tossed in the direction of comic books.

Coincidentally, a day or two later a motion picture industry spokesman said that movies have been made the goat in juvenile delinquency studies.

We'd say he had a point there. More and more youngsters in trouble seem to be giving as their excuse, "I got the idea from the movies"—or maybe "from the comics."

Superficially that may be so in some cases. In others it may be an alibi picked up from the very studies that the movie man mentioned. But juvenile crime is not caused by either movies or comics, or we should have millions of youthful miscreants. The real causes, we still believe, are such things as unhappy home life, poverty and bad environment. Some movies and comic books could stand an elevation of taste, but they aren't the prime villains.

Have Our Cows Been Libeled?

Ever so often we see a batch of statistics to the effect that the Louisiana dairy cow is about the poorest producer in the nation, that any self-respecting goat will give more milk than the average Louisiana dairy cow and that Louisiana dairymen are wasting their feed on such stingy critters. But now it begins to look as though Louisiana dairy cows have been libeled.

The U. S. bureau of agricultural economics has come out with some recent statistics on production by dairy cattle in eight south-central states, including Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. The bureau has listed the average production of different size herds in these states. In the size divisions in which most Louisiana commercial dairies are found, Louisiana either leads the list or is second from the top.

These particular figures do not include the milk production of individual cows kept for a family milk supply; these are listed separately by the bureau. And the bureau does not give recent figures for some of the larger size herds, of which Louisiana has only a few. The totals might change slightly if all cows were included. But Louisiana farmers who make a business of selling milk have nothing of which to be ashamed. They are doing at least as good a job as the dairymen of other states in the region and, apparently, a better job than a lot of their fellow dairymen elsewhere.

The dairy business is progressing, along with all the rest of Louisiana agriculture. We do not doubt that statistics for a few years hence, or even the present year, for that matter, will show Louisiana in an even better position. Better breeding and better feeding are having their effect, and the Louisiana cow, like the old gray mare, ain't what she used to be. The Louisiana cow is a lot better than she used to be.

DOWN SOUTH

"A MAN'S A MAN"

Freedom is not something that certain races want or that certain nations want. Freedom is not something that certain classes of people—rich men or poor men or educated men—want. Freedom is something that the individual wants, regardless of his status. The love of liberty comes from within.

Robert Burns was quite right, then, when he wrote, "A man's a man for a' that." A man's position or wealth or power or influence has nothing to do with his desire for freedom. The pioneer with nothing but an axe and a rifle who carved out a place in the forests of early America loved freedom just as much as the plantation owner who lived in his mansion on the banks of the river.

America was a search for freedom by the individual citizens of America. That is why they set up a government which was always to exist only by "the consent of the governed." That is why they drew up fundamental documents which guaranteed to the individual citizen certain inalienable rights which could not be taken from him, by the government or by anyone else.

People who love freedom must always retain control over their government; they can never let the government gain control over them. A real man does not want his government telling him what to do and when to do it and how to do it; he does not want the government determining how much he can earn and what he can do with his money after he earns it. And this is just as true of the worker in the factory as the president of the bank; it is just as true of the clerk in the store as of the teacher in the schoolroom; it is just as true of one person in America as it is of another.

The spirit of independence on the part of the individual citizen permeated the growth of this nation right on down through the years—until recently! Now there is a growing inclination on the part of the individual to surrender his right to independent action and turn over the provisions for his welfare to his government. If this trend continues, the people of the United States will in the course of time lose altogether the one thing that made this nation great, and the United States of America will set out on the long decline toward oblivion.

This surrender of freedom might be illustrated in many ways. So far as the worker in the factory is concerned, it is well brought to the fore in his efforts to again legalize, to gain government sanction for, the closed shop. Under the closed shop, the worker loses all his rights as an individual. He is no longer his own boss. From then on, he does what his union bosses tell him to do. He must pay dues or he cannot work at all. He is no longer a free man. Regardless of the benefits he may think he is getting from his union membership, he is submitting to a form of slavery that is all the more dangerous because it is so insidious. The only ones who really want the closed shop are the labor leaders—because it gives them control over the workers—and the politicians who want the votes controlled by the labor leaders. There is no place among freedom-loving people for the closed shop.

The surrender of freedom can also be illustrated by the acceptance of subsidies by the people from the government. When the people accept subsidies, they no longer control their government—their government controls them. The farmer, for instance, when he accepts price support for his crops is inevitably headed for the time when he will raise what the government tells him to raise in the amount that the government tells him. He will sell his crops where the government tells him and receive what the government says he can have.

It is a strange thing that we could imagination can a government conour benefit, when by no stretch of the imagination can be government conceivably be as interested in the people as the people are interested in themselves. But so it goes—unless we soon come to our senses!

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

BEFORE THE FOURTH ROUND

The five most highly paid workers in America before the current fourth round in the battle for increased wages are:

Industries	Average Weekly Earnings	Average Hours Worked
Bituminous mining..	$77.87	39.3
Petroleum refining..	74.78	41.0
Newspapers and periodicals.....	73.48	38.2
Anthracite mining...	72.77	38.0
Private construction.	72.07	38.3

In the matter of the hourly rate, the list varies somewhat:

Industries	Average Hourly Earnings	Straight-Time Hourly Rates
Bituminous mining..	$1.976	$1.933
Newspapers and periodicals.....	1.911	1.878
Anthracite mining....	1.905	1.874
Private construction.	1.880	1.848
Petroleum refining...	1.831	1.767

What is proved by these figures is that John L. Lewis has succeeded in making the wage rate for miners the highest and the working hours the lowest for that wage in the country. It is an achievement of labor leadership that explains the power he holds in his industry. With prices falling, as they are, there can be no justification for increased wages in that industry.

The next highest is the printers' scale in the newspaper and periodical industry. Their scale is for hourly earnings: Day, $2.201; night, $2.328; lobster shift, $2.591. For weekly earnings:

Industries	Average Weekly Earnings	Average Hours Worked
Day.....	$82.18	37.3
Night.....	86.66	37.2
Lobster.....	90.61	35.0

Actually the newspaper printers' average scale is higher than the miners; higher than the average for their industry; higher than the average for all manufacturing industries, which is: Average hourly earnings, $1.349; average weekly earnings, $54.12; average hours worked, 40.1. In fact, the printers' weekly wages have increased from an average in 1941 of $46.98 for day workers to $82.18 in 1948 with other shifts in proportion.

Newspapers, on the whole, have not been very profitable enterprises, earning last year about three per cent for some of the larger circulation papers in metropolitan cities. Last year was good in revenue, but the cost of newsprint and of labor being high, profits were not sufficient to be attractive. For next year the outlook is none too hopeful for several important reasons:

1. The price of newsprint is absolutely controlled by an alien cartel supported by the Canadian government. Canada's limitation of newsprint production is a measure of conservation of natural resources; actually it serves to keep the price of newsprint high. An important effort is being made by Americans to free themselves from this cartel by the use of southern pine. A project was afoot to build an American paper industry in Alaska, but nothing came of it. The construction of a newsprint industry is prohibitively expensive.

2. The cost of labor has constantly risen, not only for printers but for all branches of this industry, including in many instances the increased cost of world news coverage. The American newspaper actually gives its readers a superior overage to any in the world and it is expensive. Although some saving is effected by syndication, it does not sufficiently offset the costs of operation.

3. In newspaper circles, it is generally assumed that the retail price has reached its limit. Hereafter any increase in the retail price of the newspaper to the consumer is likely to be affected by the law of diminishing returns.

4. The post office is clamoring for increased rates in second-class mail which will hit hard any newspapers that have a sizeable mailing list. It will hit magnates so hard that many will either have to raise their retail prices or go out of business. This is a problem of the magazines rather than the newspapers.

5. Advertising is always less in a period of falling prices whether such a time be called depression or deflation or a plateau. The American newspaper maintains its independence through advertising.

The importance of this data is that freedom of the press, which is essential to American society, is imperiled by the cost of running a newspaper. This applies not only to existing newspapers but any which it may be desirable to establish as new enterprises.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Diary: I am a fugitive from a sick bed. Despite the doctor's superstition that I should stay in bed, I steal a little time for my work. Things go so-so, and recovery seems to me to be about as fast as a glacier.

My wife returned from her funeral journey to St. Paul after the worst of my illness was over, but there was still plenty of work and worry for her.

Temperature was ten below zero on the day of the funeral. Yet the Lutheran church, in which services were held, was packed to the doors with the friends that Grandma made during her long life in St. Paul, and most of the friends went along to the cemetery for the committal.

My wife admits that, though a native of Minnesota, she doesn't take kindly to the low temperatures any more.

From St. Paul my wife went to Iowa City to visit with Daughter Mary and her family for a few days. She reports that Granddaughter Nancy is as smart and cunning as ever.

After dinner one evening a stranger came to the door of the government shack in which the McKees live. Nancy met him.

"Is your father at home?" asked the visitor.

"Zhonny had to go back to the college to study, so he can learn how to earn some money to get us out of this icky-poo house," replied the youngster, who is four years old.

There are about 200 escalators and a few passenger elevators, in the entire subway system. That number should be doubled with those dimes we pay for a ride.

Nobody ever claimed that R. C. M. H. is the biggest enclosed space in the world, nor the biggest hall. There

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

THE FILIBUSTER

A substantial majority of the press, including some southern editors, favor the termination of senate filibustering on motions to consider bills, as well as on debate on bills themselves, by a two-thirds vote. Minority position is that unlimited debate must be permitted on a motion to consider a bill in order to force the majority to stop and think and compromise on workable legislation rather than try to coerce large minorities with workable laws. Few editors favor the president's suggestion of cloture against filibustering by only a majority vote.

Peoria (Ill.) Journal (Ind.): "Debate upon a bill can be stopped now by a two-thirds vote of the senate. . . . The proposal now . . . being filibustered against would extend that restriction to debate on motions to consider bills as well as to debate upon the bills themselves. It has been ruled that the present restriction does not apply to motions although there is some argument on that question. . . . The filibuster thwarts the desire of the majority. It is a support of regression . . ." Lexington (Ky) Leader (Rep.): "There are times when a filibuster is justified. . . . A large majority may be disposed to follow a given course because of a passing whim on the part of the people. Somewhere there should be a device by which final action on debatable policies of vital moment can be postponed until the people calm down and are able to think soberly. . . . Mr. Truman, in order to get his civil-rights program through congress . . . is turning heaven and earth to have the senate change its long-standing rules."

El Paso (Texas) Times (Dem.): "Why President Truman is so determined to offend the south is beyond understanding. . . . President Roosevelt spoke many times of civil rights and did much in that direction, but he was too smart to bring matters to a showdown. Mr. Roosevelt knew that time is the healer of all wounds and that it would take time for the south to get around to civil rights as advocated by many northerners but not privately practiced by them."

Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times (Ind.-Dem.): "There are those in the south who deplore the fact that its case in the legislative halls of the nation must depend on the talkativeness of a few men in the senate of the United States. . . . The filibuster is a dangerous weapon too readily at hand for those who might seize it for a far less justifiable cause than opposition to civil rights measures."

Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle (Dem.): "If this rule is amended, allowing two-thirds of the senators to cut off debate on any issue, no matter how important, how are we to know that the stage will not have been set for some future dictator or ruthless demagogue to stampede the people's representatives into enacting laws which would be inimical to the welfare of the people whom they represent? . . . We will have come upon dangerous and evil days when the voice of the minority is silenced forever."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "President Truman . . . played right into the hands of the opposition by suggesting that the senate should be able to shut off debate on any motion by a mere majority. . . . Of all legislative bodies none is more jealous of its prerogatives and independence than the United States senate. . . . All this is not to say that the filibuster should succeed. The senate should adopt the new rule. Even then a two-thirds vote will be necessary to close debate. That is ample protection for any minority."

Columbia (South Carolina) Record Indiana-Democrat): "The filibuster is the weapon of the minority to compel the majority to take time enough to think and to compromise instead of forcing down the throats of the minority measures which would have been unpalatable to them or punitive of the states they represent. But Harry S. Truman apparently doesn't know these things and no one among his close advisors has had the wisdom to tell him that compromise, no bull-headedness, has kept both the American republic and the Democratic party alive."

Montgomery (Alabama) Advertiser (Democrat): "The filibuster is likely to be regarded as a form of legislative paralysis or indispensable last-ditch protection for minorities—according to whose ox is being gored. The filibuster is nowadays spoken of as though it were purely a Southern device for obstruction, though as a matter of fact it has had a long history and has been employed by liberals, reactionaries, Southerners and Northerners alike."

HOLLYWOOD, March 12—I hear the exploitation Howard Hughes is plotting for his re-issue of "The Outlaw" will make his former campaign (which roused indignation coast to coast) seem pallid by comparison . . . If Johnny Weismuller has his way you'll be seeing Vicki Draves, the Olympic diving champ, in his "Jungle Jim" thrillers . . . Reconciliation-minded: Janet Blair and Lou Busch, after a month-long "trial separation" . . . Look for Jimmy Durante and his long-time gal friend, Marjorie Little, to swap "I Do's" this spring.

B.'s screen version of "The Glass Menagerie?" Mae has never admitted before that she's old enough to be a mother . . . Haven't the Philip Reed-Patrice Munsel datings, which started as a publicity romance, developed into the real thing? Pals say they're altar-bound.

One-time star Ralph Graves is essaying a comeback via the "Joe Palooka" pictures . . . I'm told that an international playboy, famous for his money and his headline romances, won't be half so rich once he's paid his debts to bookies in the U. S. A. . . . Mabel Todd, the radio and night club comedienne, is hospitalized in Kansas City with a nervous breakdown; doctors are urging her to take a year's rest . . . Robert Walker wants to tour South America before resuming his screen career.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a lightweight week: Paramount's "El Paso" (John Payne-Gail Russell-Sterling Hayden). A slam-bang, mile-a-minute Western melodrama that manages to make sense while dishing out thrills . . . GOOD: Columbia's "The Walking Hills" (Randolph Scott- Ella Raines-William Bishop). An off-the-beaten-path Western which just misses of being hit calibre . . . Warner Brothers' "A Kiss In the Dark" (David Niven-Jane Wyman-Victor Moore-Wayne Morris). Light romantic comedy with plenty of laughs and much good music . . . NOVELTY ATTRACTION: M-G-M's "Tale of the Navajos." So photographically magnificent that its lacks of story will be excused by most audiences . . . SO-SO: Columbia's "Song of India" (Sabu-Gail Russell-Turhan Bey). A ho-hum feature for adults, but the kids will cheer its animal shots . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Jane Wyman in "A Kiss In the Dark."

I'm interested in the report that RKO plans to re-issue at least three of the old Ginger Rogers-Fred Astaire musicals — probably "Top Hat," "Follow the Fleet" and "Flying Down to Rio." I'm going to try to see one of those oldies on the same evening I see the new Rogers-Astaire picture, M-G-M's "Barkleys of Broadway." Comparisons may be odius but I want to find out, once and for all, whether I'm correct or mistaken in my nostalgic belief that the filmusicals of 15 years ago had a verve that is sadly missing in today's song-and-dance colossals.

Speaking of pictures, I'd like to argue for a moment with a certain Hollywood critic who contended in print, the other day, that the success of "Johnny Belinda," "The Snake Pit," "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" and "Red Shoes" offers conclusive proof that the public does not prefer "escapist" screen fare. It seems to me that that term "escapist" needs definition. To my way of thinking, an escapist picture is not, necessarily, fluffy comedy or fanciful romance. It's any picture so absorbing that it completely commands the attention of a person viewing it, taking his mind off his personal troubles and all the humdrum, routine facts of life. If my definition of "escapist" is correct, I defy anyone to show me four pictures which fit better than the quartet cited above.

Shelley Winters' studio bosses, I hear, have requested her to quit discussing her romantic life with the press, and one of my column-writing confreres protests that they are trying to "suppress Shelley's natural exhuberance." Well, I hope, for her sake, that their effort is successful. Off-hand, I could name at least a score of young actresses I've known who have carried exhuberance to such a degree that they've made themselves ridiculous. Miss Winters, with a new romance-report to her credit almost every day, is beginning to appear very silly.

Paul Douglas, commenting on a report that he will be teamed with Rita Hayworth when and if she makes another picture, said he hoped so, "because her publicity is making her the hottest property in pictures." If he's talking about temper, he's probably right. With Rita threatening million dollar lawsuits right and left, it looks like her publicity finally has her sizzling.

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

Nature, stern mother though she be, takes pity and shows mercy to her children when they are too hard-pressed.

"I'm screaming at her all lay long and she doesn't even hear me." That could well be. When a child is exposed time after time, to shouts, yells and shrieks, his nerves are tortured. Strength for daily need, with a margin to spare is supplied us but when the pressure becomes too much and gets beyond even the margin, Nature takes a hand and shuts down shop. Ears besieged with noises become dulled, deaf to the noise.

There is scarcely another mental exercise so fatiguing as listening. The hearing mechanism is delicate and finely adjusted and is soon wearied. You have seen children yawning in school during a lecture, in church during a sermon, and at home during a prolonged session with lessons and parents' admonitions. That means the child no longer is hearing. Nature has cut off communications for the sake of the wearied child.

This holds good in every field of activity. There comes at some time in a period of application the limit of endurance. The weary brain center, the tired nerves, the strained muscles, the aching body must have rest, time out for recuperation. If that is not allowed, Nature will take over and shut off the power and, in extreme cases, consciousness.

Teachers and parents should always be on the alert to detect the first signs of fatigue in the children and change the exercise, the scene, even the temperature of the room if that is necessary. Something to lift the pressure and ease the wearied nerves and muscles is necessary to prevent fatigue that poisons mind and body.

When a lesson is prolonged beyond the limits of the pupils' endurance, and long past the time when it is profitable to their learning, inattention comes to their relief, disorder follows, and what is worse, a dislike of the subject and the teacher is firmly set. Teachers, preachers and parents should keep this fact in mind when engaged in teaching children.

Children cannot hear what is shouted at them for more than an instant. One shout a lifetime, in emergency, is allowed anybody, but shouting as a regular form of address is without reason or use. To get children to listen, speak gently and clearly, and never too much or too involved. Keep well in mind that nature speaks first, loudest and most authoritatively and she will have none of that shouting and shrieking at her children.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus was a great teacher though He conducted no school in the ordinary sense of that word.

A famous adage described the ideal college as a log with Mark Hopkins, eminent college president, at one end and a student at the other. That conception would be very inadequate in our day of great scientific laboratories and observatories, equipped with expensive equipment. But it stressed a necessary quality of all true education, no matter on what scale, or how complicated it becomes. That is the fact that knowledge must become personalized.

The school of Jesus had that basic quality. It was mostly a school in the out-of-doors, a school of companionship and personal contacts, a school in which the Teacher taught by constant example and in which He encouraged every success in emulating that example. It was a school, too, in which the Teacher had infinite patience, as every true teacher must have.

But it was a school of strict discipline and high standards as well. Poor pupils, even in a good school, may be content just to pass or "get by," but Jesus had called His disciples for high purposes. They needed training. The late Dr. A. B. Bruce, an eminent Scottish churchman, wrote a book on what he called "The Training of the Twelve."

What was the teaching and training that the Twelve received from Jesus? I have said that it was teaching and training by example. Jesus said, first of all, "Follow me." He said "Go," only when He had shown the way. The school of Jesus was like some of the schools of today in which knowledge and guidance are combined with experience and practice. Jesus sent the disciples in His school out into the villages, two by two, to practice what they had learned, and to proclaim what they had heard.

When one considers how, even toward the end of His ministry, some of the Twelve were quarreling, one wonders just what the missionaries of the new found Messiah taught the villagers. But they at least had some success, for they returned to Jesus with enthusiasm and wonderment at what they had been able to achieve.

That, also, was a principle in the school of Christ, reviewing what had been done, "checking up." One can see how really fine and efficient are the ways and methods in that unconventional school of the Master, conducted as He went about doing good.

A good school is judged by its results and its product. What a school, then, was that of Jesus, in which humble men became Apostles and spiritual world conquerors!

Support Pledge Is Nothing New

The statement by two American Communist leaders that they would support Russia in the event of war is quite different from recent statements by Communist leaders in France and Italy. The words sound about the same, since Moscow announced the text. But the circumstances were not similar.

Thorez and Togliatti spoke in countries where Communists are more numerous than here. They spoke in countries which would be in real danger of speedy Russian occupation if war broke out now. And they spoke to people still suffering from the horror, exhaustion and destruction of the last war.

Their appeal was based on the assumption that many Frenchmen and Italians would prefer Soviet serfdom to battle. It was not, we believe, a safe or reasonable assumption. But at the time it was the best answer that Moscow had for the challenge of the North Atlantic alliance.

The statement of Foster and Dennis was only a faint echo of the others. These men were not silly enough to ask Americans to welcome the Soviet armies as "liberators." They simply said that they would support Russia in any "unjust, aggressive, imperialistic war" brought on by "Wall Street."

Well, everybody knows that's what they would do. They've said so before and they will probably say so again. But one would think that something new had been added.

A presidential press conference made quite a big thing out of Mr. Truman's permitting a direct quote when he called these Communists "traitors." Senator Eastland indignantly proclaimed that he would ask legal provisions "to curb these traitorous agents of a foreign power and to prevent sedition, espionage and treason."

The president of the National Association of Manufacturers called on labor to cooperate with management in driving the Reds out of industry. William Green said the A. F. of L. would take no part in strikes to sabotage American defense. Even Henry Wallace got into the act by saying he was "not in accord" with the Communist statements.

Apropos all the flurry, General Eisenhower said something sensible—as is his custom—in a talk to the New York Bar Association. Speaking of Russian-American relations generally, he said he deplored Americans' tendency to view the international situation "with doubt, fear and even hysteria."

"The 146,000,000 people in this great land," he said, "are the mightiest temporal power that ever existed. Let us look on our problems like a man who knows he is strong no matter how humble he is."

That is sound advice. The Communists in America are traitorous agents of a foreign power. Their aim is sedition, espionage and treason. That is why their party leaders are now on trial. But the American people knew all that before two of those leaders made their latest public declaration of loyalty to Russia. So why all the excitement?

"The greatest temporal power that ever existed" can certainly cope with the danger of domestic communism, which is a real menace even with virtually no popular support. It can cope with communism as it has coped with other dangers and menaces—by action, not by fear and hysteria.

There has already been action against the Communists. But there has also been a lot of hollering, handwriting and breast-beating. There seems little point now in any more of it. The people are now fully aware of the basic facts. Shouted denunciation of the Reds simply wastes time and energy and doesn't hurt the Reds a bit.

But there is a need for action. And the most pressing need, it seems to us, is for a decision by the government. Shall the Communist party be outlawed, all its known officers arrested, and other strong measures taken? Or shall it be allowed to continue, under very close surveillance, as a disgusting but minor menace which is less dangerous in the open?

Many other positive measures depend on that decision. And whatever the decision may be, it can be carried out calmly, confidently, firmly and without emotional fireworks.

Shifting The Blame

Several days ago at a club meeting here in Monroe the statement was made that the movies are largely responsible for juvenile delinquency, with a passing remark tossed in the direction of comic books.

Coincidentally, a day or two later a motion picture industry spokesman said that movies have been made the goat in juvenile delinquency studies.

We'd say he had a point there. More and more youngsters in trouble seem to be giving as their excuse, "I got the idea from the movies"—or maybe "from the comics."

Superficially that may be so in some cases. In others it may be an alibi picked up from the very studies that the movie man mentioned. But juvenile crime is not caused by either movies or comics, or we should have millions of youthful miscreants. The real causes, we still believe, are such things as unhappy home life, poverty and bad environment. Some movies and comic books could stand an elevation of taste, but they aren't the prime villains.

Have Our Cows Been Libeled?

Ever so often we see a batch of statistics to the effect that the Louisiana dairy cow is about the poorest producer in the nation, that any self-respecting goat will give more milk than the average Louisiana dairy cow and that Louisiana dairymen are wasting their feed on such stingy critters. But now it begins to look as though Louisiana dairy cows have been libeled.

The U. S. bureau of agricultural economics has come out with some recent statistics on production by dairy cattle in eight south-central states, including Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. The bureau has listed the average production of different size herds in these states. In the size divisions in which most Louisiana commercial dairies are found, Louisiana either leads the list or is second from the top.

These particular figures do not include the milk production of individual cows kept for a family milk supply; these are listed separately by the bureau. And the bureau does not give recent figures for some of the larger size herds, of which Louisiana has only a few. The totals might change slightly if all cows were included. But Louisiana farmers who make a business of selling milk have nothing of which to be ashamed. They are doing at least as good a job as the dairymen of other states in the region and, apparently, a better job than a lot of their fellow dairymen elsewhere.

The dairy business is progressing, along with all the rest of Louisiana agriculture. We do not doubt that statistics for a few years hence, or even the present year, for that matter, will show Louisiana in an even better position. Better breeding and better feeding are having their effect, and the Louisiana cow, like the old gray mare, ain't what she used to be. The Louisiana cow is a lot better than she used to be.

"A MAN'S A MAN"

Freedom is not something that certain races want or that certain nations want. Freedom is not something that certain classes of people—rich men or poor men or educated men—want. Freedom is something that the individual wants, regardless of his status. The love of liberty comes from within.

Robert Burns was quite right, then, when he wrote, "A man's a man for a' that." A man's position or wealth or power or influence has nothing to do with his desire for freedom. The pioneer with nothing but an axe and a rifle who carved out a place in the forests of early America loved freedom just as much as the plantation owner who lived in his mansion on the banks of the river.

America was a search for freedom by the individual citizens of America. That is why they set up a government which was always to exist only by "the consent of the governed." That is why they drew up fundamental documents which guaranteed to the individual citizen certain inalienable rights which could not be taken from him, by the government or by anyone else.

People who love freedom must always retain control over their government; they can never let the government gain control over them. A real man does not want his government telling him what to do and when to do it and how to do it; he does not want the government determining how much he can earn and what he can do with his money after he earns it. And this is just as true of the worker in the factory as the president of the bank; it is just as true of the clerk in the store as of the teacher in the schoolroom; it is just as true of one person in America as it is of another.

The spirit of independence on the part of the individual citizen permeated the growth of this nation right on down through the years—until recently! Now there is a growing inclination on the part of the individual to surrender his right to independent action and turn over the provisions for his welfare to his government. If this trend continues, the people of the United States will in the course of time lose altogether the one thing that made this nation great, and the United States of America will set out on the long decline toward oblivion.

This surrender of freedom might be illustrated in many ways. So far as the worker in the factory is concerned, it is well brought to the fore in his efforts to again legalize, to gain government sanction for, the closed shop. Under the closed shop, the worker loses all his rights as an individual. He is no longer his own boss. From then on, he does what his union bosses tell him to do. He must pay dues or he cannot work at all. He is no longer a free man. Regardless of the benefits he may think he is getting from his union membership, he is submitting to a form of slavery that is all the more dangerous because it is so insidious. The only ones who really want the closed shop are the labor leaders—because it gives them control over the workers—and the politicians who want the votes controlled by the labor leaders. There is no place among freedom-loving people for the closed shop.

The surrender of freedom can also be illustrated by the acceptance of subsidies by the people from the government. When the people accept subsidies, they no longer control their government—their government controls them. The farmer, for instance, when he accepts price support for his crops is inevitably headed for the time when he will raise what the government tells him to raise in the amount that the government tells him. He will sell his crops where the government tells him and receive what the government says he can have.

It is a strange thing that we could imagination can a government conour benefit, when by no stretch of the imagination can be government conceivably be as interested in the people as the people are interested in themselves. But so it goes—unless we soon come to our senses!

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

BEFORE THE FOURTH ROUND

The five most highly paid workers in America before the current fourth round in the battle for increased wages are:

Industries	Average Weekly Earnings	Average Hours Worked
Bituminous mining..	$77.87	39.3
Petroleum refining..	74.78	41.0
Newspapers and periodicals.....	73.48	38.2
Anthracite mining...	72.77	38.0
Private construction.	72.07	38.3

In the matter of the hourly rate, the list varies somewhat:

Industries	Average Hourly Earnings	Straight-Time Hourly Rates
Bituminous mining..	$1.976	$1.933
Newspapers and periodicals.....	1.911	1.878
Anthracite mining....	1.905	1.874
Private construction.	1.880	1.848
Petroleum refining...	1.831	1.767

What is proved by these figures is that John L. Lewis has succeeded in making the wage rate for miners the highest and the working hours the lowest for that wage in the country. It is an achievement of labor leadership that explains the power he holds in his industry. With prices falling, as they are, there can be no justification for increased wages in that industry.

The next highest is the printers' scale in the newspaper and periodical industry. Their scale is for hourly earnings: Day, $2.201; night, $2.328; lobster shift, $2.591. For weekly earnings:

Industries	Average Weekly Earnings	Average Hours Worked
Day.....	$82.18	37.3
Lobster.....	90.61	35.0

Actually the newspaper printers' average scale is higher than the miners; higher than the average for their industry; higher than the average for all manufacturing industries, which is: Average hourly earnings, $1.349; average weekly earnings, $54.12; average hours worked, 40.1. In fact, the printers' weekly wages have increased from an average in 1941 of $46.98 for day workers to $82.18 in 1948 with other shifts in proportion.

Newspapers, on the whole, have not been very profitable enterprises, earning last year about three per cent for some of the larger circulation papers in metropolitan cities. Last year was good in revenue, but the cost of newsprint and of labor being high, profits were not sufficient to be attractive. For next year the outlook is none too hopeful for several important reasons:

1. The price of newsprint is absolutely controlled by an alien cartel supported by the Canadian government. Canada's limitation of newsprint production is a measure of conservation of natural resources; actually it serves to keep the price of newsprint high. An important effort is being made by Americans to free themselves from this cartel by the use of southern pine. A project was afoot to build an American paper industry in Alaska, but nothing came of it. The construction of a newsprint industry is prohibitively expensive.

2. The cost of labor has constantly risen, not only for printers but for all branches of this industry, including in many instances the increased cost of world news coverage. The American newspaper actually gives its readers a superior overage to any in the world and it is expensive. Although some saving is effected by syndication, it does not sufficiently offset the costs of operation.

3. In newspaper circles, it is generally assumed that the retail price has reached its limit. Hereafter any increase in the retail price of the newspaper to the consumer is likely to be affected by the law of diminishing returns.

4. The post office is clamoring for increased rates in second-class mail which will hit hard any newspapers that have a sizeable mailing list. It will hit magnates so hard that many will either have to raise their retail prices or go out of business. This is a problem of the magazines rather than the newspapers.

5. Advertising is always less in a period of falling prices whether such a time be called depression or deflation or a plateau. The American newspaper maintains its independence through advertising.

The importance of this data is that freedom of the press, which is essential to American society, is imperiled by the cost of running a newspaper. This applies not only to existing newspapers but any which it may be desirable to establish as new enterprises.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Diary: I am a fugitive from a sick bed. Despite the doctor's superstition that I should stay in bed, I steal a little time for my work. Things go so-so, and recovery seems to me to be about as fast as a glacier.

My wife returned from her funeral journey to St. Paul after the worst of my illness was over, but there was still plenty of work and worry for her.

Temperature was ten below zero on the day of the funeral. Yet the Lutheran church, in which services were held, was packed to the doors with the friends that Grandma made during her long life in St. Paul, and most of the friends went along to the cemetery for the committal.

My wife admits that, though a native of Minnesota, she doesn't take kindly to the low temperatures any more.

From St. Paul my wife went to Iowa City to visit with Daughter Mary and her family for a few days. She reports that Granddaughter Nancy is as smart and cunning as ever.

After dinner one evening a stranger came to the door of the government shack in which the McKees live. Nancy met him.

"Is your father at home?" asked the visitor.

"Zhonny had to go back to the college to study, so he can learn how to earn some money to get us out of this icky-poo house," replied the youngster, who is four years old.

There are about 200 escalators and a few passenger elevators, in the entire subway system. That number should be doubled with those dimes we pay for a ride.

Nobody ever claimed that R. C. M. H. is the biggest enclosed space in the world, nor the biggest hall. There

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

THE FILIBUSTER

A substantial majority of the press, including some southern editors, favor the termination of senate filibustering on motions to consider bills, as well as on debate on bills themselves, by a two-thirds vote. Minority position is that unlimited debate must be permitted on a motion to consider a bill in order to force the majority to stop and think and compromise on workable legislation rather than try to coerce large minorities with workable laws. Few editors favor the president's suggestion of cloture against filibustering by only a majority vote.

Peoria (Ill.) Journal (Ind.): "Debate upon a bill can be stopped now by a two-thirds vote of the senate. . . . The proposal now . . . being filibustered against would extend that restriction to debate on motions to consider bills as well as to debate upon the bills themselves. It has been ruled that the present restriction does not apply to motions although there is some argument on that question. . . . The filibuster thwarts the desire of the majority. It is a support of regression . . ." Lexington (Ky) Leader (Rep.): "There are times when a filibuster is justified. . . . A large majority may be disposed to follow a given course because of a passing whim on the part of the people. Somewhere there should be a device by which final action on debatable policies of vital moment can be postponed until the people calm down and are able to think soberly. . . . Mr. Truman, in order to get his civil-rights program through congress . . . is turning heaven and earth to have the senate change its long-standing rules."

El Paso (Texas) Times (Dem.): "Why President Truman is so determined to offend the south is beyond understanding. . . . President Roosevelt spoke many times of civil rights and did much in that direction, but he was too smart to bring matters to a showdown. Mr. Roosevelt knew that time is the healer of all wounds and that it would take time for the south to get around to civil rights as advocated by many northerners but not privately practiced by them."

Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times (Ind.-Dem.): "There are those in the south who deplore the fact that its case in the legislative halls of the nation must depend on the talkativeness of a few men in the senate of the United States. . . . The filibuster is a dangerous weapon too readily at hand for those who might seize it for a far less justifiable cause than opposition to civil rights measures."

Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle (Dem.): "If this rule is amended, allowing two-thirds of the senators to cut off debate on any issue, no matter how important, how are we to know that the stage will not have been set for some future dictator or ruthless demagogue to stampede the people's representatives into enacting laws which would be inimical to the welfare of the people whom they represent? . . . We will have come upon dangerous and evil days when the voice of the minority is silenced forever."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "President Truman . . . played right into the hands of the opposition by suggesting that the senate should be able to shut off debate on any motion by a mere majority. . . . Of all legislative bodies none is more jealous of its prerogatives and independence than the United States senate. . . . All this is not to say that the filibuster should succeed. The senate should adopt the new rule. Even then a two-thirds vote will be necessary to close debate. That is ample protection for any minority."

Columbia (South Carolina) Record Indiana-Democrat): "The filibuster is the weapon of the minority to compel the majority to take time enough to think and to compromise instead of forcing down the throats of the minority measures which would have been unpalatable to them or punitive of the states they represent. But Harry S. Truman apparently doesn't know these things and no one among his close advisors has had the wisdom to tell him that compromise, no bull-headedness, has kept both the American republic and the Democratic party alive."

Montgomery (Alabama) Advertiser (Democrat): "The filibuster is likely to be regarded as a form of legislative paralysis or indispensable last-ditch protection for minorities—according to whose ox is being gored. The filibuster is nowadays spoken of as though it were purely a Southern device for obstruction, though as a matter of fact it has had a long history and has been employed by liberals, reactionaries, Southerners and Northerners alike."

HOLLYWOOD, March 12—I hear the exploitation Howard Hughes is plotting for his re-issue of "The Outlaw" will make his former campaign (which roused indignation coast to coast) seem pallid by comparison . . . If Johnny Weismuller has his way you'll be seeing Vicki Draves, the Olympic diving champ, in his "Jungle Jim" thrillers . . . Reconciliation-minded: Janet Blair and Lou Busch, after a month-long "trial separation" . . . Look for Jimmy Durante and his long-time gal friend, Marjorie Little, to swap "I Do's" this spring.

Haven't the Philip Reed-Patrice Munsel datings, which started as a publicity romance, developed into the real thing? Pals say they're altar-bound.

One-time star Ralph Graves is essaying a comeback via the "Joe Palooka" pictures . . . I'm told that an international playboy, famous for his money and his headline romances, won't be half so rich once he's paid his debts to bookies in the U. S. A. . . . Mabel Todd, the radio and night club comedienne, is hospitalized in Kansas City with a nervous breakdown; doctors are urging her to take a year's rest . . . Robert Walker wants to tour South America before resuming his screen career.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a lightweight week: Paramount's "El Paso" (John Payne-Gail Russell-Sterling Hayden). A slam-bang, mile-a-minute Western melodrama that manages to make sense while dishing out thrills . . . GOOD: Columbia's "The Walking Hills" (Randolph Scott- Ella Raines-William Bishop). An off-the-beaten-path Western which just misses of being hit calibre . . . Warner Brothers' "A Kiss In the Dark" (David Niven-Jane Wyman-Victor Moore-Wayne Morris). Light romantic comedy with plenty of laughs and much good music . . . NOVELTY ATTRACTION: M-G-M's "Tale of the Navajos." So photographically magnificent that its lacks of story will be excused by most audiences . . . SO-SO: Columbia's "Song of India" (Sabu-Gail Russell-Turhan Bey). A ho-hum feature for adults, but the kids will cheer its animal shots . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Jane Wyman in "A Kiss In the Dark."

I'm interested in the report that RKO plans to re-issue at least three of the old Ginger Rogers-Fred Astaire musicals — probably "Top Hat," "Follow the Fleet" and "Flying Down to Rio." I'm going to try to see one of those oldies on the same evening I see the new Rogers-Astaire picture, M-G-M's "Barkleys of Broadway." Comparisons may be odius but I want to find out, once and for all, whether I'm correct or mistaken in my nostalgic belief that the filmusicals of 15 years ago had a verve that is sadly missing in today's song-and-dance colossals.

Speaking of pictures, I'd like to argue for a moment with a certain Hollywood critic who contended in print, the other day, that the success of "Johnny Belinda," "The Snake Pit," "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" and "Red Shoes" offers conclusive proof that the public does not prefer "escapist" screen fare. It seems to me that that term "escapist" needs definition. To my way of thinking, an escapist picture is not, necessarily, fluffy comedy or fanciful romance. It's any picture so absorbing that it completely commands the attention of a person viewing it, taking his mind off his personal troubles and all the humdrum, routine facts of life. If my definition of "escapist" is correct, I defy anyone to show me four pictures which fit better than the quartet cited above.

Shelley Winters' studio bosses, I hear, have requested her to quit discussing her romantic life with the press, and one of my column-writing confreres protests that they are trying to "suppress Shelley's natural exhuberance." Well, I hope, for her sake, that their effort is successful. Off-hand, I could name at least a score of young actresses I've known who have carried exhuberance to such a degree that they've made themselves ridiculous. Miss Winters, with a new romance-report to her credit almost every day, is beginning to appear very silly.

Paul Douglas, commenting on a report that he will be teamed with Rita Hayworth when and if she makes another picture, said he hoped so, "because her publicity is making her the hottest property in pictures." If he's talking about temper, he's probably right. With Rita threatening million dollar lawsuits right and left, it looks like her publicity finally has her sizzling.

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

Nature, stern mother though she be, takes pity and shows mercy to her children when they are too hard-pressed.

"I'm screaming at her all lay long and she doesn't even hear me." That could well be. When a child is exposed time after time, to shouts, yells and shrieks, his nerves are tortured. Strength for daily need, with a margin to spare is supplied us but when the pressure becomes too much and gets beyond even the margin, Nature takes a hand and shuts down shop. Ears besieged with noises become dulled, deaf to the noise.

There is scarcely another mental exercise so fatiguing as listening. The hearing mechanism is delicate and finely adjusted and is soon wearied. You have seen children yawning in school during a lecture, in church during a sermon, and at home during a prolonged session with lessons and parents' admonitions. That means the child no longer is hearing. Nature has cut off communications for the sake of the wearied child.

This holds good in every field of activity. There comes at some time in a period of application the limit of endurance. The weary brain center, the tired nerves, the strained muscles, the aching body must have rest, time out for recuperation. If that is not allowed, Nature will take over and shut off the power and, in extreme cases, consciousness.

Teachers and parents should always be on the alert to detect the first signs of fatigue in the children and change the exercise, the scene, even the temperature of the room if that is necessary. Something to lift the pressure and ease the wearied nerves and muscles is necessary to prevent fatigue that poisons mind and body.

When a lesson is prolonged beyond the limits of the pupils' endurance, and long past the time when it is profitable to their learning, inattention comes to their relief, disorder follows, and what is worse, a dislike of the subject and the teacher is firmly set. Teachers, preachers and parents should keep this fact in mind when engaged in teaching children.

Children cannot hear what is shouted at them for more than an instant. One shout a lifetime, in emergency, is allowed anybody, but shouting as a regular form of address is without reason or use. To get children to listen, speak gently and clearly, and never too much or too involved. Keep well in mind that nature speaks first, loudest and most authoritatively and she will have none of that shouting and shrieking at her children.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus was a great teacher though He conducted no school in the ordinary sense of that word.

A famous adage described the ideal college as a log with Mark Hopkins, eminent college president, at one end and a student at the other. That conception would be very inadequate in our day of great scientific laboratories and observatories, equipped with expensive equipment. But it stressed a necessary quality of all true education, no matter on what scale, or how complicated it becomes. That is the fact that knowledge must become personalized.

The school of Jesus had that basic quality. It was mostly a school in the out-of-doors, a school of companionship and personal contacts, a school in which the Teacher taught by constant example and in which He encouraged every success in emulating that example. It was a school, too, in which the Teacher had infinite patience, as every true teacher must have.

But it was a school of strict discipline and high standards as well. Poor pupils, even in a good school, may be content just to pass or "get by," but Jesus had called His disciples for high purposes. They needed training. The late Dr. A. B. Bruce, an eminent Scottish churchman, wrote a book on what he called "The Training of the Twelve."

What was the teaching and training that the Twelve received from Jesus? I have said that it was teaching and training by example. Jesus said, first of all, "Follow me." He said "Go," only when He had shown the way.

The school of Jesus was like some of the schools of today in which knowledge and guidance are combined with experience and practice. Jesus sent the disciples in His school out into the villages, two by two, to practice what they had learned, and to proclaim what they had heard.

When one considers how, even toward the end of His ministry, some of the Twelve were quarreling, one wonders just what the missionaries of the new found Messiah taught the villagers. But they at least had some success, for they returned to Jesus with enthusiasm and wonderment at what they had been able to achieve.

That, also, was a principle in the school of Christ, reviewing what had been done, "checking up." One can see how really fine and efficient are the ways and methods in that unconventional school of the Master, conducted as He went about doing good.

A good school is judged by its results and its product. What a school, then, was that of Jesus, in which humble men became Apostles and spiritual world conquerors!

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Ever since the Union of Scotland and England in 1707 the Scots periodically have demanded home rule for their kingdom. (Scotland still is officially a "kingdom"). Now they're at it again.

To the unitiated that would seem mighty tough on Mother England—what with the comparatively recent loss of Eire, Pakistan, India and Burma. And in truth it would be tough if the Kilties were in dead earnest. But I doubt the seriousness of the intent.

I suspect Scotland once more is roughing up the English largely to keep 'em in their place. Of course, if the Scots really wanted independence, they could take it. They're a hardy folk. The Germans in World War I had good reason to name the kilted Highland troops "The Ladies from Hell."

Sure the Scots could walk out of union with England—if they wanted to. But they don't want to, and for a jolly good reason in the parlance of Scotland, and that's pounds, shillings and pence.

You see, while southern Scotland has great industries, the resources of the country as a whole are not all that a Scot could wish. Of course, there is the world's biggest shipyard on the Clyde; there are the big Scotch whisky distilleries and the Loch Ness monster.

The Loch Ness sea serpent is one of the great drawing cards in Scotland. It was first seen in 1933 and has appeared numerous times since.

Scotland is far from wealthy. It costs a lot to maintain a government for a country like that. And so, unity with richer Britain is economically much more sound. At least so it seems to a Scotsman.

The latest home-rule flurry is this: The "Scottish Plebiscite Society" has taken a sample of opinion in one district. Eighty-six per cent of the registered electors voted with this result: in favor of a parliament independent of England—539; in favor of a Scottish parliament to handle purely home affairs—1,595; not in favor of any Scottish parliament—122.

On the basis of this vote the advocates of a Scottish parliament for home affairs may try to put that idea across. However, there seems small likelihood that any great number of Scots will demand separation entirely from England. It doesn't make sense in pounds, shillings and pence.

So Scotland will continue to send her 74 members to the imperial parliament in London. And the British, recognizing the shrewdness of the Scots, will continue to employ Highland brains in economic matters.

On the whole the English-Scottish partnership seems very profitable for both parties.

And, of course, the Queen of England is a Scot.

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

A quiet but carefully planned campaign is underway here to build up official sentiment for full recognition of Spain.

Having failed with the department of state, the Spanish charge d'affaires to the United States is at work on Capitol Hill in an attempt to obtain full recognition of the Franco government—and, more important, a loan for Spain.

The Spanish representative to the United States, Jose F. deLequerica is now at work on southern members of the house and senate. At parties he gives at the building Spain has in Washington—it used to be an embassy when the United States recognized Spain— de Lequerica tells southerners from cotton-growing areas how much Spain needs cotton, and that Spain would jump at the chance to buy huge quantities of it, if only she could borrow the money. Spanish mills are running at only one-third capacity now, he says.

The argument is a persuasive one in light of the huge 1948 cotton corp, which as left a great surplus of cotton on the market.

It has won a number of converts among southern congressmen toward the cotton-needing Franco government.

Members of the United Nations adopted a resolution in 1945, in which it was agreed that none of the members would recognize the Spanish government because of Franco's assistance to Germany and Italy during the war.

The United States has only a charge d'affaires in Spain, and Spain has the same in Washington.

During the Republican-controlled 80th congress, the house approved financial assistance to Spain by the United States, but the senate refused to agree, and the authorization for the funds was killed.

Spain recently attempted to borrow from New York banks, but the banks turned the application down after the Export-Import Bank refused to guarantee that it would back up the loans. Officially, the United States regards Spain as "a bad economic risk."

Spain was successful a few weeks ago in obtaining a $25,000,000 loan from the Chase National Bank of New York. It is not as large a loan as she had previously sought.

Spain's big hope is financial aid from congress—and de Lequerica is hard at work on it.

Senator Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.), believes that it is very difficult for any senator to have the term "filibusterer" used to describe him unless he happens to be a "despised southern Democrat."

Russell told the senate that a Washington newspaper, in reporting on happenings on the floor on March 1, noted that a number of speeches were made in favor of imposing cloture, but that the filibuster did not start until 4:14 p. m., when the senior senator from Georgia arose to oppose the motion.

"If," said Rusell, "we southerners are so bold as to speak at all, it is always a filibuster."

Senator John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Milton R. Young of North Dakota think that Uncle Sam ought to spend all the gas and oil tax money received for road building.

Right now, they contend, the U. S. treasury gets about $100,000,000 a year more in this type of taxes from automobile and truck users than it pays out in road improvement. So the two senators have proposed a bill that would add this $100,000,000 to the amount now spent in federal highway assistance, and they propose that all these additional funds should go to local governments for construction and maintaining rural roads.

They stress that their bill is NOT intended as a substitute for rural road building programs in the various states. The funds offered would be on a 50-50 matching basis between federal and local authorities and this, the senators say, would provide an incentive for more rural road improvements.

Stennis declares that there is no doubt whatever that the nation's gas and oil tax receipts are going up year after year, so there is no way Uncle Sam can lose money by spending these additional funds for rural roads.

"The farmers," he declares, "have been paying the gas tax for many years, yet the greatest portion of them are still without all-weather roads to get to town, to church, to school and to visit their neighbors.

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, March 12.— (AP) — Negroes, I think, have suffered a disastrous blow to any hope that congress will pass any part of President Truman's civil rights program for them in the foreseeable future.

The senate dealt them the blow last night as the climax to a two-weeks' filibuster by southern Democrats not only to block the program but to prevent the senate's even considering it.

It was also a stunning defeat for Mr. Truman and his Democratic party, since both had promised the Negroes a civil rights program. It was a victory for the southern Democrats.

Mr. Truman still can try to snatch victory out of defeat—and that will be explained here—but if he does I think it will mean the longest, most bitter and most exhausting struggle the senate has ever seen.

The strangest part of what's happened in the past two weeks is that no civil rights bill was being discussed at all.

The Trumanites don't have a civil rights bill ready yet to offer congress. But—in the senate, even before a bill can be debated and voted upon, someone must make a motion to bring it up for debate.

And endless debate, the filibuster, can start right there, on the motion to bring it up for debate:

1. There's a senate rule which says a filibuster—on a bill itself—can be stopped if two-thirds of the senate vote for stopping it.

2. But there's no rule for stopping a filibuster on a motion to bring up a bill for debate—by two-thirds vote or anything else.

So the senate can never get around to debating a bill if some group, like the southern Democrats, filibusters on the motion to bring it up.

Therefore, bringing up a civil rights bill at some future date would be useless unless a filibuster on a motion to bring it up could be blocked.

The Trumanites cooked up a new rule, one which would permit a two-thirds vote to end a filibuster on a motion. Then they made a motion to bring up a bill to lay down such a rule.

Immediately, the southerners filibustered against the motion to bring up this bill, which if ever passed, would destroy their filibuster. This went on for two weeks. It couldn't continue forever.

So, with this bill still being filibustered against, the Trumanites tried something else.

They asked Vice-President Barkley, presiding over the senate, to give his opinion on whether two-thirds of the senate could end a filibuster against a motion to bring up a bill. He ruled "yes."

This wasn't final. Last night the whole senate had to vote on whether it thought Barkley was right. It voted "no." This left the Trumanites where they were two weeks ago:

Their motion—to bring up a bill that would allow two-thirds of the senate to stop filibuster on a motion—still is pending.

Which means: There's still no rule to limit a filibuster on a motion to bring up a bill, even a bill to limit a filibuster on a motion to bring up a bill. So the Trumanites can do one of two things:

1. Drop the whole thing. If they do, that seems to be the end of the civil rights program. Why? Because any time in the future that they try to bring up a civil rights bill—that is, make a motion to bring it up—the southerners can start a filibuster which can't be stopped.

2. Or, go right on now, letting the southerners continue their filibuster against the pending motion to bring up the bill to end a filibuster.

If the Trumanites try No. 2, the southerners will be free to filibuster endlessly with the senate helpless to stop them. Where that might end, no one knows.

Unless they all dropped of exhaustion, they could filibuster for weeks and tie up all other work of the senate. Suppose they did drop.

The senators remaining on their feet could approve the motion and debate on the bill would start. Then the senators could filibuster all over again against the bill to permit an end to a filibuster on a motion.

Suppose then two-thirds of the senate stopped this filibuster on the bill itself. What then?

If months from now the Trumanites make a motion to bring up a civil rights bill, the southerns can filibuster on the motion.

If that filibuster is stopped by a two-thirds vote, then they'll filibuster against the bill itself. It'll take still another two-thirds vote to stop them.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Your columnist in charge of the "Curtain Call" has talked to numerous members of other clubs and civic organizations in the Twin Cities, who are, to coin a phrase, more or less orphans like the Little Theatre. The gist of opinion that is becoming increasingly more evident in these conversations, favors a movement for all the heads of the various clubs to get together for a frank discussion of the possibilities and necessary action which would result in a municipal auditorium for Monroe and West Monroe.

The time is ripe—the time is now for a municipal auditorium to materialize to fill the needs of the people. For instance, organizations with large membership such as Town Hall, Civic Music, Little Theatre and others of approximate size, could, if they liked the idea, bring the combined membership to support such a movement and other smaller clubs and civic groups who need an auditorium from time to time could add their strength to the project. We firmly believe that such a movement endorsed by the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce, the city and parish officials would assure success for a tremendous undertaking of this type.

The American Legion is currently supporting through its membership a very worthwhile project in the memorial ball park and it will be followed through to success because of their sincere interest in sports for the town populace.

There seems to be no reason why the combined efforts of 30 or more clubs and organizations could not convince the people of a dire and immediate need for a municipal auditorium. Without an auditorium, civic, cultural and social organizations like Little Theatre find themselves existing under adverse conditions that are not only discouraging to their progress but even a menace to their very existence.

We understand that the Clare Tree Major children's plays that have been brought here for the past 10 years under the sponsorship of the Parker Memorial Sunday School class of the First Methodist Church, are being discontinued because of no place to present them. It seems a shame to see this form of cultural youth fade from the scene because we have not awakened to the needs of our people.

Simply because Little Theatre finds itself hard put to hold together a shelterless group is hardly reason to pose the question alone, but it has become a major problem with others and as Monroe grows it will become an even bigger problem. Anyone interested in discussing the matter in the public forum is invited to do so.

NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—Under a grey sky the big transport berthed at a vast Brooklyn pier hung with many banners.

A crowd of 400 stood silently on the pier to welcome home the 6,785 silent passengers on the ship—sailors done with the sea, soldiers done with war.

An open hatch disclosed a few of the flag-draped coffins that thronged the vessel. It was the Barney Kirschbaum named for the first American sea captain to lose his life in the Second World War.

And then this took place:

An army band played the national anthem. There was a moment of silent prayer.

Tall, gray-haired Col. Edward R. Martin, a chaplain who spent 55 months overseas, spoke briefly. He said the world soon forgot the sacrifices of brave men but that a greater power beyond human understanding "comforts us in our hour of need."

"We must realize," said the chaplain, "that these men gave their lives for freedom—liberty not for one individual nor for one nation, but for the entire world, for all races and creeds, in order that they may call their home their own."

There was a final prayer, and then the sounding of "Taps." As it ended, far down the pier another bugler took up the notes. He sent them back, faint and low, and every echo tore open a human heart. The pier was too small to hold so many old memories.

The band struck up "Onward Christian Soldiers." The honor guard and a detachment of troops marched out in formation. The ceremony was over.

The crowd walked to the edge of the pier and looked down into the open hatch of the vessel.

It happened suddenly. A stout, middle-aged woman sank to her knees and began to sob.

"My baby, oh, my baby!"

She became incoherent:

"I used to wave goodbye to the ships when they sailed. My baby, oh, my baby!"

Her grief ran through the group like a widening surf, wetting the eyes of other mothers, wives, and sisters. Some broke down and their men folks had to lead them away. In a few minutes more than the long pier was empty.

It was dusk. A light wind stirred the long banners—the flags of every state and every fighting unit that saw action overseas. And then men moved aboard the vessel to take off the dead who had made the long voyage home.

This same scene has taken place on this same pier many times in the last two years. But there will be few more such homecomings on this scale.

All but some 20,000 of the 160,000 American dead of World War Two who are being returned have already come back. The main task has been completed in less than half the five years expected.

Soon the faraway battlefields will be tidy again. Or as tidy as a battlefield can be, when the men who fought there have gone back home—where they used to live.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Ever since the Union of Scotland and England in 1707 the Scots periodically have demanded home rule for their kingdom. (Scotland still is officially a "kingdom"). Now they're at it again.

To the unitiated that would seem mighty tough on Mother England—what with the comparatively recent loss of Eire, Pakistan, India and Burma. And in truth it would be tough if the Kilties were in dead earnest. But I doubt the seriousness of the intent.

I suspect Scotland once more is roughing up the English largely to keep 'em in their place. Of course, if the Scots really wanted independence, they could take it. They're a hardy folk. The Germans in World War I had good reason to name the kilted Highland troops "The Ladies from Hell."

Sure the Scots could walk out of union with England—if they wanted to. But they don't want to, and for a jolly good reason in the parlance of Scotland, and that's pounds, shillings and pence.

You see, while southern Scotland has great industries, the resources of the country as a whole are not all that a Scot could wish. Of course, there is the world's biggest shipyard on the Clyde; there are the big Scotch whisky distilleries and the Loch Ness monster.

The Loch Ness sea serpent is one of the great drawing cards in Scotland. It was first seen in 1933 and has appeared numerous times since.

Scotland is far from wealthy. It costs a lot to maintain a government for a country like that. And so, unity with richer Britain is economically much more sound. At least so it seems to a Scotsman.

The latest home-rule flurry is this: The "Scottish Plebiscite Society" has taken a sample of opinion in one district. Eighty-six per cent of the registered electors voted with this result: in favor of a parliament independent of England—539; in favor of a Scottish parliament to handle purely home affairs—1,595; not in favor of any Scottish parliament—122.

On the basis of this vote the advocates of a Scottish parliament for home affairs may try to put that idea across. However, there seems small likelihood that any great number of Scots will demand separation entirely from England. It doesn't make sense in pounds, shillings and pence.

So Scotland will continue to send her 74 members to the imperial parliament in London. And the British, recognizing the shrewdness of the Scots, will continue to employ Highland brains in economic matters.

On the whole the English-Scottish partnership seems very profitable for both parties.

And, of course, the Queen of England is a Scot.

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

A quiet but carefully planned campaign is underway here to build up official sentiment for full recognition of Spain.

Having failed with the department of state, the Spanish charge d'affaires to the United States is at work on Capitol Hill in an attempt to obtain full recognition of the Franco government—and, more important, a loan for Spain.

The Spanish representative to the United States, Jose F. deLequerica is now at work on southern members of the house and senate. At parties he gives at the building Spain has in Washington—it used to be an embassy when the United States recognized Spain— de Lequerica tells southerners from cotton-growing areas how much Spain needs cotton, and that Spain would jump at the chance to buy huge quantities of it, if only she could borrow the money. Spanish mills are running at only one-third capacity now, he says.

The argument is a persuasive one in light of the huge 1948 cotton corp, which as left a great surplus of cotton on the market.

It has won a number of converts among southern congressmen toward the cotton-needing Franco government.

Members of the United Nations adopted a resolution in 1945, in which it was agreed that none of the members would recognize the Spanish government because of Franco's assistance to Germany and Italy during the war.

The United States has only a charge d'affaires in Spain, and Spain has the same in Washington.

During the Republican-controlled 80th congress, the house approved financial assistance to Spain by the United States, but the senate refused to agree, and the authorization for the funds was killed.

Spain recently attempted to borrow from New York banks, but the banks turned the application down after the Export-Import Bank refused to guarantee that it would back up the loans. Officially, the United States regards Spain as "a bad economic risk."

Spain was successful a few weeks ago in obtaining a $25,000,000 loan from the Chase National Bank of New York. It is not as large a loan as she had previously sought.

Spain's big hope is financial aid from congress—and de Lequerica is hard at work on it.

Senator Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.), believes that it is very difficult for any senator to have the term "filibusterer" used to describe him unless he happens to be a "despised southern Democrat."

Russell told the senate that a Washington newspaper, in reporting on happenings on the floor on March 1, noted that a number of speeches were made in favor of imposing cloture, but that the filibuster did not start until 4:14 p. m., when the senior senator from Georgia arose to oppose the motion.

"If," said Rusell, "we southerners are so bold as to speak at all, it is always a filibuster."

Senator John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Milton R. Young of North Dakota think that Uncle Sam ought to spend all the gas and oil tax money received for road building.

Right now, they contend, the U. S. treasury gets about $100,000,000 a year more in this type of taxes from automobile and truck users than it pays out in road improvement. So the two senators have proposed a bill that would add this $100,000,000 to the amount now spent in federal highway assistance, and they propose that all these additional funds should go to local governments for construction and maintaining rural roads.

They stress that their bill is NOT intended as a substitute for rural road building programs in the various states. The funds offered would be on a 50-50 matching basis between federal and local authorities and this, the senators say, would provide an incentive for more rural road improvements.

Stennis declares that there is no doubt whatever that the nation's gas and oil tax receipts are going up year after year, so there is no way Uncle Sam can lose money by spending these additional funds for rural roads.

"The farmers," he declares, "have been paying the gas tax for many years, yet the greatest portion of them are still without all-weather roads to get to town, to church, to school and to visit their neighbors.

The Nation Today

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, March 12.— (AP) — Negroes, I think, have suffered a disastrous blow to any hope that congress will pass any part of President Truman's civil rights program for them in the foreseeable future.

The senate dealt them the blow last night as the climax to a two-weeks' filibuster by southern Democrats not only to block the program but to prevent the senate's even considering it.

It was also a stunning defeat for Mr. Truman and his Democratic party, since both had promised the Negroes a civil rights program. It was a victory for the southern Democrats.

Mr. Truman still can try to snatch victory out of defeat—and that will be explained here—but if he does I think it will mean the longest, most bitter and most exhausting struggle the senate has ever seen.

The strangest part of what's happened in the past two weeks is that no civil rights bill was being discussed at all.

The Trumanites don't have a civil rights bill ready yet to offer congress. But—in the senate, even before a bill can be debated and voted upon, someone must make a motion to bring it up for debate.

And endless debate, the filibuster, can start right there, on the motion to bring it up for debate:

1. There's a senate rule which says a filibuster—on a bill itself—can be stopped if two-thirds of the senate vote for stopping it.

2. But there's no rule for stopping a filibuster on a motion to bring up a bill for debate—by two-thirds vote or anything else.

So the senate can never get around to debating a bill if some group, like the southern Democrats, filibusters on the motion to bring it up.

Therefore, bringing up a civil rights bill at some future date would be useless unless a filibuster on a motion to bring it up could be blocked.

The Trumanites cooked up a new rule, one which would permit a two-thirds vote to end a filibuster on a motion. Then they made a motion to bring up a bill to lay down such a rule.

Immediately, the southerners filibustered against the motion to bring up this bill, which if ever passed, would destroy their filibuster. This went on for two weeks. It couldn't continue forever.

So, with this bill still being filibustered against, the Trumanites tried something else.

They asked Vice-President Barkley, presiding over the senate, to give his opinion on whether two-thirds of the senate could end a filibuster against a motion to bring up a bill. He ruled "yes."

This wasn't final. Last night the whole senate had to vote on whether it thought Barkley was right. It voted "no." This left the Trumanites where they were two weeks ago:

Their motion—to bring up a bill that would allow two-thirds of the senate to stop filibuster on a motion—still is pending.

Which means: There's still no rule to limit a filibuster on a motion to bring up a bill, even a bill to limit a filibuster on a motion to bring up a bill. So the Trumanites can do one of two things:

1. Drop the whole thing. If they do, that seems to be the end of the civil rights program. Why? Because any time in the future that they try to bring up a civil rights bill—that is, make a motion to bring it up—the southerners can start a filibuster which can't be stopped.

2. Or, go right on now, letting the southerners continue their filibuster against the pending motion to bring up the bill to end a filibuster.

If the Trumanites try No. 2, the southerners will be free to filibuster endlessly with the senate helpless to stop them. Where that might end, no one knows.

Unless they all dropped of exhaustion, they could filibuster for weeks and tie up all other work of the senate. Suppose they did drop.

The senators remaining on their feet could approve the motion and debate on the bill would start. Then the senators could filibuster all over again against the bill to permit an end to a filibuster on a motion.

Suppose then two-thirds of the senate stopped this filibuster on the bill itself. What then?

If months from now the Trumanites make a motion to bring up a civil rights bill, the southerns can filibuster on the motion.

If that filibuster is stopped by a two-thirds vote, then they'll filibuster against the bill itself. It'll take still another two-thirds vote to stop them.

phasized. "Letters written merely to satisfy the veterans' curiosity all have to be read, checked with the files and answered; all time-consuming measures."

Monroe storekeepers say that they experienced considerable of a business spurt on Friday and Saturday when the first bonus checks arrived and were cashed. A considerable amount of the money was invested in furniture, some went in payments for goods already bought on credit. Others are said to have made first payments on the purchase of vacant lots. Although the maximum payment was but $250, it came as a windfall and recipients were made happy thereby.

We know of a family in which there are 27 children—think it must be a record for hereabouts. It is the tenant farmer family of Marion Elbert Beasley at Sondheimer. Mr. Sondheimer, 56, is father of 18; his wife, 36, is like himself a native of Mississippi, and she had nine children by a former marriage.

In the past three years five children have been born to this couple which were two sets of twins and a single birth. In the family are twin boys, 18 months of age; two girls, born only a week ago, and one child three years of age.

It used to be that the P.-T. A. furnished a quiet afternoon diversion for ladies who had little else to do. Men were by no means recognized. But in the evolution that time has wrought, it has come to pass that the first letter of the group, the "P" has been found to stand for "dad" quite as much as for mother. In other words in the past few years, men (if they are fathers) have broken into this organization and have today in many groups quite a controlling voice as to what is to be done. This was shown in the P.-T. A. at Sherrouse school inside the past two years when civic improvements were desired in the college area, and men, working through the school's P.-T. A., demanded certain improvements of the city administration then in office, and they got immediate recognition.

One of the P.-T. A. groups here this year, that at Lida Benton school, has for its president a mere man, Wallace Kendall, manager of social security here, who is doing a fine job as P.-T. A. chief. Among other things Mr. Kendall is issuing "The Notebook of Lida Benton P.-T. A. at frequent intervals, which is a multigraphed pink sheet newspaper. It is well written and mechanically excellent. In the latest issue he asks as to whether or not the club shall sponsor Leon Cole in an organ program. He describes Mr. Cole thus: "He could legitimately call himself a concert artist; he has studied, built and played organs of different kinds for many years. He likes to travel (home is in Nashville, Tenn.) and he couldn't take a pipe organ with him—so he switched to a Hammond electric organ and he lugs it around with no more fuss than a man would make in carrying his fiddle."

Winners in the recent literary contests held by the Gulf Coast branch of the National League of American Pen Women are announced thus: Poetry, first place, Mrs. Ethel Green Russell; second place, Mrs. Eulalia McCoy, both women are from Monroe. Mrs. Russell's poem was "To Mary at Easter Time" while Mrs. McCoy's poem was entitled "Portrait." A short story in the juvenile division was submitted by Mrs. Lela Windsor Garnett, of Monroe, who was graded in second place. Her story was entitled "Rainbow's Gold." The contest was held in Jackson, Miss., and was an annual event for the pen women comprising its membership.

NEW PRESS ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

Nearly sixty members of the North Division of the Louisiana Press Association, meeting in a one-day program at the Frances Hotel yesterday, chose three new officers who will serve the association for the next two years. Elected in their late afternoon session, were: (left to right) Jules Fogel, of the Vivian Caddo Citizen, president; R. W. Wagner, of the Jena Times and Olla-Tullos Signal, vice-president, and Roland Huson, of the Jonesville Booster and Catahoula News, secretary-treasurer.

Some substantial progress has been made toward erecting the new home for the W. W. Kelly family, it is announced. The original site donated for the home of this burned-out family was found to be too low to warrant construction and when an SOS call was sent in for a site that would be more suitable, Sid Freeman at once donated a lot on Crosley street, West Monroe. The foundation has been put in thanks to Tom Hicks who moved material free of charge, and to heads of the carpenters and brick mason unions, who have given and are ready to devote time for construction free of cost. Now with good weather, the house will be quickly erected, they assure.

YOUTH

fore noon, the shaggy-haired, bespectacled Charles broke into a wide grin. It contrasted greatly with the solemn expression he had maintained during the five-day trial.

The crowded courtroom remained quiet under the judge's warning against a demonstration.

As he left the room he smiled at his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sartalamacchia.

It was a dramatic trial, in which members of the Sartalamacchia family testified against one another. Charles did not take the stand. But:

His sister-in-law, Mrs. Almeda Sartalamacchia, 21, said she saw him beat little Boo's head against a concrete step.

His brother., Joseph, 22, Almeda's husband, said Charles called him home from work and showed him Boo's battered body.

Mrs. Anthony Sartalamacchia, mother of Joseph and Charles, said her elder son had told her he accidentally killed Boo while swinging at Charles with a chair, after finding Charles on a bed with Almeda.

The case went to the jury last night.

The jurors deliberated four hours, quit about midnight, and came back into court at 10:15 (C. S. T.) for further instructions.

Judge Nunez listed the possible verdicts they might render under a murder charge. They included manslaughter, negligent homicide, various types of asault and conspiracy, and down to acquittal.

It was the first murder trial in nearly 40 years in tihs little trapping and fishing town on the Mississippi river, where an archaic form of Spanish is the principal "native" tongue.

The slaying occurred at Poydras, another river town upriver toward New Orleans.

FIREMEN FIGHT BIG GULF GAS-RED FIRE

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—Professional fire fighters worked over the molten structures of two explosion-wrecked oil wells in the Gulf of Mexico today as a $1,000,000 fire raged unabated.

Flames still towered 150- feet in the air this afternoon.

Shell Oil Oil Company officials said they planned to move a marine rig to the scene and bore relief wells into the burning holes. In this operation, heavy mud would be pumped in to cut off the air and choke the flames. The two wells are owned by the Shell Company.

The blaze started late yesterday after gas began blowing under terrific pressure from a direction hole being drilled from the barge.

The heat generated from the fire melted a flowline through which oil was being produced from another well alongside the first.

Both gas and oil from the wells were burning.

A company official, who estimated the damage at $1,000,000, said a drilling barge, derrick and an oil tanker were destroyed by the fire.

Of the 12 crewmen aboard the rig, only one suffered burns.

REINFORCEMENTS

forced." Britain has a treaty with Trans-Jordan which would require her to go to the aid of King Abdullah's nation if it should be attacked. About 1,000 British troops were sent to Aqaba in January at Abdullah's request.

British informants refused to tell the size of the reinforcements, where they would be sent from or whether Abdullah asked for them.

Aqaba is a strategic spot in the middle east. It is the only access to trade routes for Abdullah's otherwise landlocked kingdom. From Aqaba ships can sail into the Indian Ocean or up to the Suez Canal and into the Mediterranean.

Across the Gulf, troops of Israel are within rifle fire of three of her Arab neighbors, her enemies in the recent Palestine war. These are Trans-Jordan, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

R. H. S. Crossman, a labor member of the British parliament who recently returned from Israel, said the new Jewish state has plans to establish its own port on the Red Sea to aid in economic development of the desert area. It was in this area that King Solomon once built a harbor for Hebrew ships sailing to the orient.

Tel Aviv imposed censorship on the situation. Through the tight veil, Associated Press Corrrespondent James H. Long could send only these 29 words of a dispatch: "Blue and white flag of Israel flaps sodden in chill drizzle of rain over bleak gravelly coast of Eilat across northern tip of gulf from Trans-Jordan fishing port of Aqaba."

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharet (Shertok) told newsmen in Tel Aviv yesterday that Israel regards the Negev coastline as Israeli territory. He said Israel had no intention of attacking Trans-Jordan and added that Aqaba was in Trans-Jordan, not in Israel.

Israel's claim is based on the November, 1947, partition plan of the United Nations assigning the Negev desert area to the Jewish state. Britain and Trans-Jordan never recognized an Israeli claim to a Red Sea outlet. The United Nations partition resolution, although forming a basis for settlements in the Palestine war, never was enforced.

Official sources in Amman have reported that the Jewish column which moved to the Red Sea penetrated Trans-Jordan territory north of Aqaba, and that there had been clashes with Abdullah's Arab Legion.

British Minister of State Hector McNeill told the house of commons yesterday Abdullah's government had reported a frontier clash between Trans-Jordan police and Israeli forces.

Tel Aviv denied reports of clashes.

In Beirut, Lebanon, the impression was prevalent among United Nations staff members that the reports of such engagements were exaggerated. It was pointed out that tiny Israel hardly would want to arouse the power of Britain against her through an attack on an ally of the British.

Beirut dispatches said the belief of Brig. Gen. William Riley of the U.N. staff is that nothing more than an exchange of shots between border patrols had taken place. In this connection it was recalled that U. N. observers two weeks ago thoroughly discredited reports of an Israeli offensive in the same area.

Both Bartlett and Lt. William Grabowski, Bergenfield, N. J., flight engineer, who were on the flight, also made the distance trip on Pearl Harbor Day.

The superbomber, with Capt. Roy R. Showalter, of Mobile, Ala., as pilot and commander and Lt. Clarence E. Horton of San Antonio as co-pilot, carried a crew of only 12 men instead of the usual 15.

Other crewmen were Capt. Earl N. Yaden, London, Ky., bombardier-navigator-radar man; Maj. Joseph A. Brown, Gillespie, Ill., responsible for dropping the bomb load; Master Sgt. John L. Corley, Fort Worth, and Master Sgt. Carl W. Arey, Susquehanna, Pa., flight engineers; Technical Sgt. J. P. Fleming, Weston, Wyo., radio man; and Staff Sgts. Clarence E. Pawkett, San Antonio; P. C. Cothran, Jr., Tampa, Fla., and Albert L. Claggett, Fort Worth, gunners.

The officers and crewmen were tired and unshaven after their long hop. The men had worked in eight-hour shifts. Those off duty slept in the aft compartment bunks.

Since the flight had been kept secret, only wives of several crewmen, a few friends and squadron personnel were on hand to welcome the fliers.

On Feb. 6, Carswell Field sent a B-50 bomber on a non-stop flight around the world. The Lucky Lady II was refueled four times in the air and flew more than 23,000 miles to girdle the globe in 94 hours and one minute.

and a report on legislature by Horace Mangham, of the Rayville Richland.

C. E. Faulk, Sr., former owner of the News-Star and chapter member of the Louisiana Press Association, stressed the progress made by the press organization at the luncheon.

In the afternoon session, Roland Huson, of the Jonesville Booster, conducted a discussion on news-stand and carrier boy circulation. In his speech, Huson suggested that circulation managers increase the price of their newspapers rather than give them away.

It was pointed out that when the new postal rates for papers go into effect, more weeklies will be employing carrier boys.

A round table discussion was presented by Jules Fogel, who forwarded suggestions on the work office for the advertising men, reference works and what is neded, filing cuts and copy proofs, trade journals, mail order catalogs and dealer help file.

The meeting, presided over by Clarence Faulk, was adjourned shortly after 4:30 p. m. following the election of officers.

DENMARK

Europe under the treaty. He said they "also discussed several aspects of the Greenland problem."

He said that he did not expect any immediate solution but was concerned with looking for the facts on which the solution might some day be based.

Actually it was learned that the American representatives emphasized three points:

1. The proposed Atlantic treaty would provide a "framework" for dealing with the base problem in the future.

2. The treaty will be primarily useful to prevent attack. It would array beforehand powerful forces to strike back at any aggressor, so that the attack might never occur.

3. Under the treaty the member nations in North America and western Europe will be able to take all the coopeartive actions necessary to strengthen the defenses of the whole area.

In connection with this latter point informants say that many lines of action are planned.

One of the most immediately important, in the opinion of the state department, is American arms aid to Europe.

Another is development of joint defenses plans for the whole area of America - Atlantic Ocean - western Europe.

A third is establishment of defense facilities—the proposed radar networks, for example—necessary to warn off or meet any attack.

It is in this latter connection that the question of Atlantic bases is regarded as an a urgent one for the alliance administrating. In the maintenance of transportation routes between the two continents and the guarding of the approaches to the Atlantic area, Greenland, Iceland and the Azores are of utmost importance.

During World War II the United States took defense of Greenland under an agreement which still is in force but which the Danes, two years ago, proposed to terminate.

The Danish government was forced to act mainly by Communist critics in parliament. The negotiations have been dragging along ever since while both sides hope that some kind of suitable formula for a solution—which would leave the U. S. in control of the two air bases—would turn up.

The agreement out of today's session seemed to be that the Atlantic pact would do the attack. There was considerable optimism among American authorities that if and when Iceland and Portugal enter the alliance they will take a similar attitude.

Rasmussen said that he would see Secretary of State Acheson again, probably Tuesday, and that meanwhile he would have additional talks Monday with the same officials he saw today. He reported that he may begin his return trip to Copenhagen Tuesday evening.

Rasmussen did not go into detail on what the United States has in Greenland.

Last November when the matter was raised in the parliament at Copenhagen by Communist members, Rasmussen reported that the United States had gradually evacuated all its weather stations in Greenland but that two American airports, a wireless direction finder station, and a depot station were still on the island.

ROME, March 12.—(AP)—Communist-led crowds stormed through downtown Rome for a wild half hour tonight, shouting protests against Italy's adherence to the Atlantic pact.

Jeep-borne riot police quickly got the situation in hand and patrolled the area for hours afterward, alert for new outbreaks. Heavy police guards were thrown around the chamber of deputies and foreign ministry buildings.

Shouting "Peace, peace!" A crowd of 800 to 1,000 leftist youths, many wearing flaming red neckerchiefs, tried to storm into the Palazzo Chigi, the foreign ministry building. Police wielded clubs freely. Traffic was hopelessly snarled as jeeps raced through the area bearing police with drawn tommyguns.

One crowd swarmed into the Piazza Colonna, center of many Communist-led demonstrations, shouting "Down with Sforza." Carlo Sforza, the foreign minister, led the forces favoring alignment with the Atlantic nations. Italy's intention to participate in the Atlantic pact was announced to the chamber of deputies yesterday.

A stone's throw from the Piazza Colonna, the chamber of deputies was in session in Montecitorio Palace. There the deputies continued the bitter debate on the alliance, with Pietro Nenni, the pro-Communist Socialist, leading the attack on the government of Christian Democrat Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

The entire Communist and pro-Communist Socialist representation rose and cheered when Nenni mentioned Russia. Then the anti-Communists rose and shouted, amidst the general tumult, "Viva Italia!" (Long live Italy.) It was some time before Chamber President Giovanni Gronchi could restore order.

Nenni, whose party has been ejected from the Socialist international for refusing to break its Communist ties, charged that the Atlantic treaty is "an effort to destroy the United Nations and the principle of collective security." He said it would lead to war. The statement was greeted with jeers and hisses.

A report from Naples said a group of Communists in that city, headed by Senator Mario Palermo, trooped into the city hall to demand an order of the day against the Atlantic pact. They were opposed by the mayor and a large part of the city council, and after much arguing, they left the hall.

TRUMAN SIGNALS

stall (Mass.) and Knowland (Calif.) and Senators Russell and Byrd (D-Va.) from the Dixie group, as well as Senator Hayden D-Ariz.), chairman of the senate rules committee.

Senator McGrath (D.-R. I.), Democratic national chairman, told reporters that he had talked with President Truman, who is vacationing at Key West, Fla., and that the president voiced no objection to the meeting.

McGrath stressed, however, that no definite proposal for ending the dispute had been given to Mr. Truman. Asked if the president had made any comment, McGrath replied that he had not.

But he added a minute later:

"I'm sure he is agreeable to anything that will work out a solution. He said the president "was pleased we had reached the point where we could all sit down together."

McGrath said he personally is very hopeful that agreement can be reached.

The senate is hung up over an administration effort to force through a rules change whereby two-thirds of senators voting could cut off any debate. This would make it easier to put across the Truman civil rights measures and the southerners balked.

They organized the filibuster to talk it to death. The administration tried to choke them off last night by bringing the issue to a vote and was roundly defeated. So today's session rolled monotonously on with the southerners in the saddle and senators holding frequent huddles trying to reach a basis for agreement.

Leaders would not discuss details of the proposed compromise but it was learned these matters were under discussion:

1. A proposal for a change in cloture (debate limiting) rules to require favorable vote by three-fourths of the senate, or 72 if all 93 voted, instead of two-thirds as has been proposed but this would not apply to a rules change. It is believed southerners would accept this.

2. A counter offer to require that 64 senators be present and vote for cloture instead of a mere two-thirds of those voting.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), a leader of the southerners, told a reporter that they would insist that unlimited debate continue to be permitted on a motion to take up a change in senate rules. That is the basis for the present filibuster.

Wherry told reporters the proposed compromise "has got the earmarks of a solution. If I did not think so, I wouldn't have agreed to a recess until Monday."

Russell, Dixie leader, said his group will "entertain in good faith any reasonable offer of compromise."

"We are not going to trade a good strong horse for a measly little rabbit," he said.

If the Sunday compromise session fails, Russell said southerners are ready to fight it out around the clock "for considerable time."

If the compromise develops as planned, senate leaders are expected to shift action quickly to an extension of rent controls due to expire at the end of this month and numerous other phases of President Truman's legislative program. These have been piling up at the senate's door while the talking went on.

They include:

Extension of the European recovery program to July 1, 1950, with A. A. F. authoritization to spend $5,580,000,000. This has been approved by the senate foreign relations committee.

Extension of the president authority to reduce tariffs under the reciprocal trade program. This is in the senate just as it passed the house.

Repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act and substitution of an administration bill similar to the original Wagner act.

It is assumed that efforts would be abandoned to push civil rights legislation, such as anti-lynch, anti-poll tax, and anti-discrimination or anti-segregation measures. This has been the underlying issue in the lengthy battle over changing the rules.

It was learned that at least three proposals probably will be discussed tomorrow. They were reported to have been offered by Hayden, Wherry and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

McGrath announced his long distance conversation with Mr. Truman following a meeting of Democratic leaders in the office of Senate Secretary Leslie L. Biffle.

McGrath said he wanted to give the president a picture of what was happening so he "wouldn't get his hopes or fears aroused" by what he reads in the newspapers.

Throughout the day, Lucas, Vice-President Barkley and other administration figures had been trying to work out an acceptable formula for closing the long fight.

Meanwhile, Senator Eastland (D.-Miss.) kept the ball rolling for the southerners who are out to smash an attempt to alter the rules against unlimited debate with only a handful of senators in the chamber, he held the floor for five and a half hours talking against the proposed change in rules sponsored by the administration and some Republicans.

The proposed new rule would allow the senate to cut off debate at any time by a two-third vote. Southerners see in it an attempt to put across President Truman's civil rights program.

On Lucas' motion, the senate recessed until noon Monday.

While he said he could not definitely promise a compromise could be reached over Sunday, he appeared very hopeful.

He gave no hint of the nature of the formula.

However, Byrd said the southerners were demanding two assurances:

First, that there continue to be unlimited debate upon a motion to take up any change in senate rules. (That is what is going on now).

Second, that no compromise can be used later to obtain a gag rule through a "bare majority of the senate as advocated by President Truman."

Frequent informal conferences between leaders of the southern Democrats, regular Democratic leaders and Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska indicated that strenuous efforts were under way to compromise and avoid the wearing continuous sessions.

Turning his duties as presiding officer over to a member, Barkley held separate huddles in his office with Senator Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the filibustering southerners, and Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois, representing the administration.

The role of peacemaker was a familiar one to Barkley, who served nearly 22 years in the senate before taking the oath as vice-president last January.

The parliamentary situation was fully deadlocked, the administration soundly licked last night in trying to vote down the filibuster. Senators from both parties were urging a compromise so business could proceed. The session's biggest bills were piling up at the senate's door.

Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, assistant Republican leader, suggested that both sides hold an informal Sunday conference to try to work out a solution.

Lucas indicated later that such a meeting may be held. He told the senate it will know by Monday "if anything can be worked out."

Such a conference presumably would include the floor leaders of both parties, representatives of the southerners, and possibly some members of the rules committee.

But if the compromise efforts fail, Lucas said the senate will be ready with extra stenographers to take down the debate, cots for the members to rest on in the cloakrooms, and whatever else is needed for a showdown.

"We'll try to break up this filibuster," he said.

Senator Russell complained that all the compromises suggested by the southerners have been rejected.

"Every olive branch held out has been met by a bundle of birch switches on our bare backs," he declared.

The parliamentary situation was wedged tighter than ever when Republican Leader Wherry (Neb.) asked for "the yeas and nays" on Lucas' motion to take up a resolution to change the rules to permit two-thirds of the senate to curb debate.

That motion, made by Lucas Feb. 28, is what the southerners have been filibustering against.

Vice-President Barkley ordered the yeas and nays as asked by Wherry. Lucas conceded that as a result of Wherry's maneuver, he would now be unable to withdraw his motion without unanimous consent.

Of course, the motion would be swept off the boards if the senate decided to adjourn some night, instead of "recess," adjournment automatically wipes the calendar clear of any pending business.

The administration suffered a smashing defeat in a test vote last night, but leaders were talking of trying to wear out the southerners by holding continuous sessions next week.

Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, deputy Democratic floor leader, said there is "considerable sentiment for 'round-the-clock sessions next week."

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois announced earlier after a conference with administration Democrats that he would push ahead, at present, with his attempt to bring up a resolution to amend the senate rules so that two-thirds of the members present could cut off any debate.

For two six-day working weeks, since Feb. 28, Lucas was been trying to call up that resolution. His efforts have been blocked by southerners. They argue that such a rules change depriving them of the right of unlimited debate would help shove through President Truman's civil rights program.

That program includes anti-poll tax, anti-lynching and anti-discrimination measures that the southerners strongly oppose.

Lucas and the administration tried a parliamentary short-cut and got licked last night by a smacking 46 to 41 vote. In the view of many lawmakers this doomed not only the proposed rules change but the civil rights program as well.

Joined by 16 other Democrats and 16 Republicans, Lucas had filed a cloture (debate limiting) petition. Vice-President Barkley, who presides over the senate, held the petition in order. Pending before the senate was the motion to take up the rules change proposal. The question before Barkley: Can the senate apply cloture to a motion? He said yes.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), quarterbacking the southern group, appealed from Barkley's ruling. The senate overruled the vice-president, 46 to 41. Twenty-three Republicans and 23 Democrats voted to override.

Previous presiding officers have held that the cloture or debate limiting rule applies only when a measure actually is up for debate. Had Barkley been upheld, then the senate would have proceeded to vote on the question of applying cloture, which requires a two-thirds majority.

The senate's decision left President Truman's lieutenants glum Lucas said shortly after the vote that "in all probability" the civil rights proposals wouldn't be brought up this session as a result. Senator McGrath (D-R. I.), the Democratic national chairman, conceded that the president's program is threatened.

Frye had been discussed as a possible candidate for governor in 1948 before the state administration and its political allies settled on former Gov. Sam H. Jones as their candidate. Frye was mentioned later as a possibility for the 1952 gubernatorial race.

Survivors include his wife and one son, Bob, 19.

Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist Church here tomorrow, followed by burial in Hattiesburg. The exact hours will not be determined until tomorrow, the funeral home in charge said.

Clayton Coleman, assistant secretary of the public service commission, said tonight a series of hearings scheduled to begin Wednesday had been postponed indefinitely because of Frye's death.

It used to be that the P.-T. A. furnished a quiet afternoon diversion for ladies who had little else to do. Men were by no means recognized. But in the evolution that time has wrought, it has come to pass that the first letter of the group, the "P" has been found to stand for "dad" quite as much as for mother. In other words in the past few years, men (if they are fathers) have broken into this organization and have today in many groups quite a controlling voice as to what is to be done. This was shown in the P.-T. A. at Sherrouse school inside the past two years when civic improvements were desired in the college area, and men, working through the school's P.-T. A., demanded certain improvements of the city administration then in office, and they got immediate recognition.

One of the P.-T. A. groups here this year, that at Lida Benton school, has for its president a mere man, Wallace Kendall, manager of social security here, who is doing a fine job as P.-T. A. chief. Among other things Mr. Kendall is issuing "The Notebook of Lida Benton P.-T. A. at frequent intervals, which is a multigraphed pink sheet newspaper. It is well written and mechanically excellent. In the latest issue he asks as to whether or not the club shall sponsor Leon Cole in an organ program. He describes Mr. Cole thus: "He could legitimately call himself a concert artist; he has studied, built and played organs of different kinds for many years. He likes to travel (home is in Nashville, Tenn.) and he couldn't take a pipe organ with him—so he switched to a Hammond electric organ and he lugs it around with no more fuss than a man would make in carrying his fiddle."

Winners in the recent literary contests held by the Gulf Coast branch of the National League of American Pen Women are announced thus: Poetry, first place, Mrs. Ethel Green Russell; second place, Mrs. Eulalia McCoy, both women are from Monroe. Mrs. Russell's poem was "To Mary at Easter Time" while Mrs. McCoy's poem was entitled "Portrait." A short story in the juvenile division was submitted by Mrs. Lela Windsor Garnett, of Monroe, who was graded in second place. Her story was entitled "Rainbow's Gold." The contest was held in Jackson, Miss., and was an annual event for the pen women comprising its membership.

Some substantial progress has been made toward erecting the new home for the W. W. Kelly family, it is announced. The original site donated for the home of this burned-out family was found to be too low to warrant construction and when an SOS call was sent in for a site that would be more suitable, Sid Freeman at once donated a lot on Crosley street, West Monroe. The foundation has been put in thanks to Tom Hicks who moved material free of charge, and to heads of the carpenters and brick mason unions, who have given and are ready to devote time for construction free of cost. Now with good weather, the house will be quickly erected, they assure.

fore noon, the shaggy-haired, bespectacled Charles broke into a wide grin. It contrasted greatly with the solemn expression he had maintained during the five-day trial.

The crowded courtroom remained quiet under the judge's warning against a demonstration.

As he left the room he smiled at his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sartalamacchia.

It was a dramatic trial, in which members of the Sartalamacchia family testified against one another. Charles did not take the stand. But:

His sister-in-law, Mrs. Almeda Sartalamacchia, 21, said she saw him beat little Boo's head against a concrete step.

His brother., Joseph, 22. Almeda's husband, said Charles called him home from work and showed him Boo's battered body.

Mrs. Anthony Sartalamacchia, mother of Joseph and Charles, said her elder son had told her he accidentally killed Boo while swinging at Charles with a chair, after finding Charles on a bed with Almeda.

The case went to the jury last night.

The jurors deliberated four hours, quit about midnight, and came back into court at 10:15 (C. S. T.) for further instructions.

Judge Nunez listed the possible verdicts they might render under a murder charge. They included manslaughter, negligent homicide, various types of asault and conspiracy, and down to acquittal.

It was the first murder trial in nearly 40 years in tihs little trapping and fishing town on the Mississippi river, where an archaic form of Spanish is the principal "native" tongue.

The slaying occurred at Poydras, another river town upriver toward New Orleans.

FIREMEN FIGHT BIG GULF GAS-RED FIRE

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—Professional fire fighters worked over the molten structures of two explosion-wrecked oil wells in the Gulf of Mexico today as a $1,000,000 fire raged unabated.

Flames still towered 150- feet in the air this afternoon.

Shell Oil Oil Company officials said they planned to move a marine rig to the scene and bore relief wells into the burning holes. In this operation, heavy mud would be pumped in to cut off the air and choke the flames. The two wells are owned by the Shell Company.

The blaze started late yesterday after gas began blowing under terrific pressure from a direction hole being drilled from the barge.

The heat generated from the fire melted a flowline through which oil was being produced from another well alongside the first.

Both gas and oil from the wells were burning.

A company official, who estimated the damage at $1,000,000, said a drilling barge, derrick and an oil tanker were destroyed by the fire.

Of the 12 crewmen aboard the rig, only one suffered burns.

forced." Britain has a treaty with Trans-Jordan which would require her to go to the aid of King Abdullah's nation if it should be attacked. About 1,000 British troops were sent to Aqaba in January at Abdullah's request.

British informants refused to tell the size of the reinforcements, where they would be sent from or whether Abdullah asked for them.

Aqaba is a strategic spot in the middle east. It is the only access to trade routes for Abdullah's otherwise landlocked kingdom. From Aqaba ships can sail into the Indian Ocean or up to the Suez Canal and into the Mediterranean.

Across the Gulf, troops of Israel are within rifle fire of three of her Arab neighbors, her enemies in the recent Palestine war. These are Trans-Jordan, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

R. H. S. Crossman, a labor member of the British parliament who recently returned from Israel, said the new Jewish state has plans to establish its own port on the Red Sea to aid in economic development of the desert area. It was in this area that King Solomon once built a harbor for Hebrew ships sailing to the orient.

Tel Aviv imposed censorship on the situation. Through the tight veil, Associated Press Corrrespondent James H. Long could send only these 29 words of a dispatch: "Blue and white flag of Israel flaps sodden in chill drizzle of rain over bleak gravelly coast of Eilat across northern tip of gulf from Trans-Jordan fishing port of Aqaba."

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharet (Shertok) told newsmen in Tel Aviv yesterday that Israel regards the Negev coastline as Israeli territory. He said Israel had no intention of attacking Trans-Jordan and added that Aqaba was in Trans-Jordan, not in Israel.

Israel's claim is based on the November, 1947, partition plan of the United Nations assigning the Negev desert area to the Jewish state. Britain and Trans-Jordan never recognized an Israeli claim to a Red Sea outlet. The United Nations partition resolution, although forming a basis for settlements in the Palestine war, never was enforced.

Official sources in Amman have reported that the Jewish column which moved to the Red Sea penetrated Trans-Jordan territory north of Aqaba, and that there had been clashes with Abdullah's Arab Legion.

British Minister of State Hector McNeill told the house of commons yesterday Abdullah's government had reported a frontier clash between Trans-Jordan police and Israeli forces.

Tel Aviv denied reports of clashes.

In Beirut, Lebanon, the impression was prevalent among United Nations staff members that the reports of such engagements were exaggerated. It was pointed out that tiny Israel hardly would want to arouse the power of Britain against her through an attack on an ally of the British.

Beirut dispatches said the belief of Brig. Gen. William Riley of the U.N. staff is that nothing more than an exchange of shots between border patrols had taken place. In this connection it was recalled that U. N. observers two weeks ago thoroughly discredited reports of an Israeli offensive in the same area.

Both Bartlett and Lt. William Grabowski, Bergenfield, N. J., flight engineer, who were on the flight, also made the distance trip on Pearl Harbor Day.

The superbomber, with Capt. Roy R. Showalter, of Mobile, Ala., as pilot and commander and Lt. Clarence E. Horton of San Antonio as co-pilot, carried a crew of only 12 men instead of the usual 15.

Other crewmen were Capt. Earl N. Yaden, London, Ky., bombardier-navigator-radar man; Maj. Joseph A. Brown, Gillespie, Ill., responsible for dropping the bomb load; Master Sgt. John L. Corley, Fort Worth, and Master Sgt. Carl W. Arey, Susquehanna, Pa., flight engineers; Technical Sgt. J. P. Fleming, Weston, Wyo., radio man; and Staff Sgts. Clarence E. Pawkett, San Antonio; P. C. Cothran, Jr., Tampa, Fla., and Albert L. Claggett, Fort Worth, gunners.

The officers and crewmen were tired and unshaven after their long hop. The men had worked in eight-hour shifts. Those off duty slept in the aft compartment bunks.

Since the flight had been kept secret, only wives of several crewmen, a few friends and squadron personnel were on hand to welcome the fliers.

On Feb. 6, Carswell Field sent a B-50 bomber on a non-stop flight around the world. The Lucky Lady II was refueled four times in the air and flew more than 23,000 miles to girdle the globe in 94 hours and one minute.

and a report on legislature by Horace Mangham, of the Rayville Richland.

C. E. Faulk, Sr., former owner of the News-Star and chapter member of the Louisiana Press Association, stressed the progress made by the press organization at the luncheon.

In the afternoon session, Roland Huson, of the Jonesville Booster, conducted a discussion on news-stand and carrier boy circulation. In his speech, Huson suggested that circulation managers increase the price of their newspapers rather than give them away.

It was pointed out that when the new postal rates for papers go into effect, more weeklies will be employing carrier boys.

A round table discussion was presented by Jules Fogel, who forwarded suggestions on the work office for the advertising men, reference works and what is neded, filing cuts and copy proofs, trade journals, mail order catalogs and dealer help file.

The meeting, presided over by Clarence Faulk, was adjourned shortly after 4:30 p. m. following the election of officers.

Europe under the treaty. He said they "also discussed several aspects of the Greenland problem."

He said that he did not expect any immediate solution but was concerned with looking for the facts on which the solution might some day be based.

Actually it was learned that the American representatives emphasized three points:

1. The proposed Atlantic treaty would provide a "framework" for dealing with the base problem in the future.

2. The treaty will be primarily useful to prevent attack. It would array beforehand powerful forces to strike back at any aggressor, so that the attack might never occur.

3. Under the treaty the member nations in North America and western Europe will be able to take all the coopeartive actions necessary to strengthen the defenses of the whole area.

In connection with this latter point informants say that many lines of action are planned.

One of the most immediately important, in the opinion of the state department, is American arms aid to Europe.

Another is development of joint defenses plans for the whole area of America - Atlantic Ocean - western Europe.

A third is establishment of defense facilities—the proposed radar networks, for example—necessary to warn off or meet any attack.

It is in this latter connection that the question of Atlantic bases is regarded as an a urgent one for the alliance administrating. In the maintenance of transportation routes between the two continents and the guarding of the approaches to the Atlantic area, Greenland, Iceland and the Azores are of utmost importance.

During World War II the United States took defense of Greenland under an agreement which still is in force but which the Danes, two years ago, proposed to terminate.

The Danish government was forced to act mainly by Communist critics in parliament. The negotiations have been dragging along ever since while both sides hope that some kind of suitable formula for a solution—which would leave the U. S. in control of the two air bases—would turn up.

The agreement out of today's session seemed to be that the Atlantic pact would do the attack. There was considerable optimism among American authorities that if and when Iceland and Portugal enter the alliance they will take a similar attitude.

Rasmussen said that he would see Secretary of State Acheson again, probably Tuesday, and that meanwhile he would have additional talks Monday with the same officials he saw today. He reported that he may begin his return trip to Copenhagen Tuesday evening.

Rasmussen did not go into detail on what the United States has in Greenland.

Last November when the matter was raised in the parliament at Copenhagen by Communist members, Rasmussen reported that the United States had gradually evacuated all its weather stations in Greenland but that two American airports, a wireless direction finder station, and a depot station were still on the island.

ROME, March 12.—(AP)—Communist-led crowds stormed through downtown Rome for a wild half hour tonight, shouting protests against Italy's adherence to the Atlantic pact.

Jeep-borne riot police quickly got the situation in hand and patrolled the area for hours afterward, alert for new outbreaks. Heavy police guards were thrown around the chamber of deputies and foreign ministry buildings.

Shouting "Peace, peace!" A crowd of 800 to 1,000 leftist youths, many wearing flaming red neckerchiefs, tried to storm into the Palazzo Chigi, the foreign ministry building. Police wielded clubs freely. Traffic was hopelessly snarled as jeeps raced through the area bearing police with drawn tommyguns.

One crowd swarmed into the Piazza Colonna, center of many Communist-led demonstrations, shouting "Down with Sforza." Carlo Sforza, the foreign minister, led the forces favoring alignment with the Atlantic nations. Italy's intention to participate in the Atlantic pact was announced to the chamber of deputies yesterday.

A stone's throw from the Piazza Colonna, the chamber of deputies was in session in Montecitorio Palace. There the deputies continued the bitter debate on the alliance, with Pietro Nenni, the pro-Communist Socialist, leading the attack on the government of Christian Democrat Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

The entire Communist and pro-Communist Socialist representation rose and cheered when Nenni mentioned Russia. Then the anti-Communists rose and shouted, amidst the general tumult, "Viva Italia!" (Long live Italy.) It was some time before Chamber President Giovanni Gronchi could restore order.

Nenni, whose party has been ejected from the Socialist international for refusing to break its Communist ties, charged that the Atlantic treaty is "an effort to destroy the United Nations and the principle of collective security." He said it would lead to war. The statement was greeted with jeers and hisses.

A report from Naples said a group of Communists in that city, headed by Senator Mario Palermo, trooped into the city hall to demand an order of the day against the Atlantic pact. They were opposed by the mayor and a large part of the city council, and after much arguing, they left the hall.

TRUMAN SIGNALS

stall (Mass.) and Knowland (Calif.) and Senators Russell and Byrd (D-Va.) from the Dixie group, as well as Senator Hayden D-Ariz.), chairman of the senate rules committee.

Senator McGrath (D.-R. I.), Democratic national chairman, told reporters that he had talked with President Truman, who is vacationing at Key West, Fla., and that the president voiced no objection to the meeting.

McGrath stressed, however, that no definite proposal for ending the dispute had been given to Mr. Truman. Asked if the president had made any comment, McGrath replied that he had not.

But he added a minute later:

"I'm sure he is agreeable to anything that will work out a solution. He said the president "was pleased we had reached the point where we could all sit down together."

McGrath said he personally is very hopeful that agreement can be reached.

The senate is hung up over an administration effort to force through a rules change whereby two-thirds of senators voting could cut off any debate. This would make it easier to put across the Truman civil rights measures and the southerners balked.

They organized the filibuster to talk it to death. The administration tried to choke them off last night by bringing the issue to a vote and was roundly defeated. So today's session rolled monotonously on with the southerners in the saddle and senators holding frequent huddles trying to reach a basis for agreement.

Leaders would not discuss details of the proposed compromise but it was learned these matters were under discussion:

1. A proposal for a change in cloture (debate limiting) rules to require favorable vote by three-fourths of the senate, or 72 if all 96 voted, instead of two-thirds as has been proposed but this would not apply to a rules change. It is believed southerners would accept this.

2. A counter offer to require that 64 senators be present and vote for cloture instead of a mere two-thirds of those voting.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), a leader of the southerners, told a reporter that they would insist that unlimited debate continue to be permitted on a motion to take up a change in senate rules. That is the basis for the present filibuster.

Wherry told reporters the proposed compromise "has got the earmarks of a solution. If I did not think so, I wouldn't have agreed to a recess until Monday."

Russell, Dixie leader, said his group will "entertain in good faith any reasonable offer of compromise."

"We are not going to trade a good strong horse for a measly little rabbit," he said.

If the Sunday compromise session fails, Russell said southerners are ready to fight it out around the clock "for considerable time."

If the compromise develops as planned, senate leaders are expected to shift action quickly to an extension of rent controls due to expire at the end of this month and numerous other phases of President Truman's legislative program. These have been piling up at the senate's door while the talking went on.

They include:

Extension of the European recovery program to July 1, 1950, with A. A. F. authoritization to spend $5,580,000,000. This has been approved by the senate foreign relations committee.

Extension of the president authority to reduce tariffs under the reciprocal trade program. This is in the senate just as it passed the house.

Repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act and substitution of an administration bill similar to the original Wagner act.

It is assumed that efforts would be abandoned to push civil rights legislation, such as anti-lynch, anti-poll tax, and anti-discrimination or anti-segregation measures. This has been the underlying issue in the lengthy battle over changing the rules.

It was learned that at least three proposals probably will be discussed tomorrow. They were reported to have been offered by Hayden, Wherry and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

McGrath announced his long distance conversation with Mr. Truman following a meeting of Democratic leaders in the office of Senate Secretary Leslie L. Biffle.

McGrath said he wanted to give the president a picture of what was happening so he "wouldn't get his hopes or fears aroused" by what he reads in the newspapers.

Throughout the day, Lucas, Vice-President Barkley and other administration figures had been trying to work out an acceptable formula for closing the long fight.

Meanwhile, Senator Eastland (D.-Miss.) kept the ball rolling for the southerners who are out to smash an attempt to alter the rules against unlimited debate with only a handful of senators in the chamber, he held the floor for five and a half hours talking against the proposed change in rules sponsored by the administration and some Republicans.

The proposed new rule would allow the senate to cut off debate at any time by a two-third vote. Southerners see in it an attempt to put across President Truman's civil rights program.

On Lucas' motion, the senate recessed until noon Monday.

While he said he could not definitely promise a compromise could be reached over Sunday, he appeared very hopeful.

He gave no hint of the nature of the formula.

However, Byrd said the southerners were demanding two assurances:

First, that there continue to be unlimited debate upon a motion to take up any change in senate rules. (That is what is going on now).

Second, that no compromise can be used later to obtain a gag rule through a "bare majority of the senate as advocated by President Truman."

Frequent informal conferences between leaders of the southern Democrats, regular Democratic leaders and Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska indicated that strenuous efforts were under way to compromise and avoid the wearing continuous sessions.

Turning his duties as presiding officer over to a member, Barkley held separate huddles in his office with Senator Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the filibustering southerners, and Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois, representing the administration.

The role of peacemaker was a familiar one to Barkley, who served nearly 22 years in the senate before taking the oath as vice-president last January.

The parliamentary situation was fully deadlocked, the administration soundly licked last night in trying to vote down the filibuster. Senators from both parties were urging a compromise so business could proceed. The session's biggest bills were piling up at the senate's door.

Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, assistant Republican leader, suggested that both sides hold an informal Sunday conference to try to work out a solution.

Lucas indicated later that such a meeting may be held. He told the senate it will know by Monday "if anything can be worked out."

Such a conference presumably would include the floor leaders of both parties, representatives of the southerners, and possibly some members of the rules committee.

But if the compromise efforts fail, Lucas said the senate will be ready with extra stenographers to take down the debate, cots for the members to rest on in the cloakrooms, and whatever else is needed for a showdown.

"We'll try to break up this filibuster," he said.

Senator Russell complained that all the compromises suggested by the southerners have been rejected.

"Every olive branch held out has been met by a bundle of birch switches on our bare backs," he declared.

The parliamentary situation was wedged tighter than ever when Republican Leader Wherry (Neb.) asked for "the yeas and nays" on Lucas' motion to take up a resolution to change the rules to permit two-thirds of the senate to curb debate.

That motion, made by Lucas Feb. 28, is what the southerners have been filibustering against.

Vice-President Barkley ordered the yeas and nays as asked by Wherry. Lucas conceded that as a result of Wherry's maneuver, he would now be unable to withdraw his motion without unanimous consent.

Of course, the motion would be swept off the boards if the senate decided to adjourn some night, instead of "recess," adjournment automatically wipes the calendar clear of any pending business.

The administration suffered a smashing defeat in a test vote last night, but leaders were talking of trying to wear out the southerners by holding continuous sessions next week.

Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, deputy Democratic floor leader, said there is "considerable sentiment for 'round-the-clock sessions next week."

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois announced earlier after a conference with administration Democrats that he would push ahead, at present, with his attempt to bring up a resolution to amend the senate rules so that two-thirds of the members present could cut off any debate.

For two six-day working weeks, since Feb. 28, Lucas was been trying to call up that resolution. His efforts have been blocked by southerners. They argue that such a rules change depriving them of the right of unlimited debate would help shove through President Truman's civil rights program.

That program includes anti-poll tax, anti-lynching and anti-discrimination measures that the southerners strongly oppose.

Lucas and the administration tried a parliamentary short-cut and got licked last night by a smacking 46 to 41 vote. In the view of many lawmakers this doomed not only the proposed rules change but the civil rights program as well.

Joined by 16 other Democrats and 16 Republicans, Lucas had filed a cloture (debate limiting) petition. Vice-President Barkley, who presides over the senate, held the petition in order. Pending before the senate was the motion to take up the rules change proposal. The question before Barkley: Can the senate apply cloture to a motion? He said yes.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), quarterbacking the southern group, appealed from Barkley's ruling. The senate overruled the vice-president, 46 to 41. Twenty-three Republicans and 23 Democrats voted to override.

Previous presiding officers have held that the cloture or debate limiting rule applies only when a measure actually is up for debate. Had Barkley been upheld, then the senate would have proceeded to vote on the question of applying cloture, which requires a two-thirds majority.

The senate's decision left President Truman's lieutenants glum Lucas said shortly after the vote that "in all probability" the civil rights proposals wouldn't be brought up this session as a result. Senator McGrath (D-R. I.), the Democratic national chairman, conceded that the president's program is threatened.

MALONE REVEALS REDSKIN FOOTBALL SLATE

8-GAME GRIDIRON SLATE ANNOUNCED FOR N.J.C. INDIANS

One Other Road Trip May Be Added; Seven Games Billed At Home

Coach James L. Malone, director of athletics and head coach at Northeast Junior College, yesterday announced the 1949 grid schedule for the N. J. C. Indians. In releasing the schedule, Coach Malone said, it was the "best and the toughest" in his 16-year tenure at the college.

Two changes in opponents were made for this year's slate. Little Rock will replace Copiah-Lincoln, and Carthage, Texas, a newcomer on the Tribes six-state schedule, will take the spot left vacant by the Texas A. and M. Junior College.

Last year the Tribesmen won five, lost three, and tied one, despite the fact that the Indians suffered numerous injuries, with some of the countries highest ranking grid elevens in junior college circles. This year they will face two additional teams that will not give the Indians a place to take it easy.

Little Rock, which fought South Georgia Junior College in the Junior Sugar Bowl game here last December, will meet the N. J. C. Indians at Little Rock, Ark. Little Rock Junior College was a small and speedy team that gave the gridders from Georgia a stiff battle for the Junior Sugar Bowl trophy, notwithstanding the fact that it was the first year in football competition for many years for them. Little Rock will lose very few of their gridders for this year's campaign, and should prove to be tough for the Tribesmen in the "land of opportunity."

Carthage, another new competitor on the Indians' list of games, is a small town about 45 miles southwest of Shreveport in the heart of the oil fields of Texas. The Carthage Junior College eleven has just recently decided to get into the higher brackets of junior college grid competition and last year enjoyed a successful season in the Texas Junior College Conference. The report from that section of the state is that they will be all out for football this coming season. They want their enemies to know that they will give any team on their schedule a rugged battle in their efforts to win.

Kilgore Junior College, always a tough foe for the Tribesman, will come here on September 30, making an early meeting for what will probably prove to be one of the bitterest games on the slate. Last year, the junior colleges from Texas drove a stinging defeat into the Indians to the tune of 27-0 score. This year Malone's gridders will point towards this game to avenge last year's defeat. The Tribe will have the home field in their favor this year.

Relations have not been broken with Copiah-Lincoln, because of the break in this campaign's schedule by the school in Mississippi. Copiah must govern their slates according to a master schedule of all Mississippi junior colleges. Coach Malone explained yesterday that the officials of N. J. C. and Co-Lin could not arrange a game for this coming campaign because of conflicts between the N. J. C. and the master Mississippi schedules.

"It is much to our sorrow that we can't play Copiah-Lincoln this season, because we have always enjoyed our relations with them. You can bet we will have them on next year's schedule," Malone said.

Alabama State Teachers College will appear at Brown Field about a month earlier than last year. On Thanksgiving Day, designated as "Jim Malone Day," the Indians added plenty to the spirit of the day by giving the Teachers their worst defeat of the season. Alabama, being a four year school, will bring back a number of the gridders that tasted the Thanksgviing Day defeat.

East Oklahoma A. and M. will open the season at Brown Field on September 23. The Oklahomans tied the Tribesmen here in the second game of the season last year. They were also considered as a prospect for the Junior Sugar Bowl game until a surprise defeat eliminated them at the "last minute." It was their only defeat of the season except for the 0-0

ALL IN THE FAMILY

LEWISBURG, Pa. (NEA)—The four Rickard brothers are an unusual and versatile group in that they represent Bucknell in five different sports.

During the current school year, David, a freshman, was a guard on the undefeated frosh football team.

John, of the Junior class, represents the wrestling team in the 155-pound class, and is on the soccer team.

Sam, of the graduating class, was the hero of the soccer team which won the Middle Atlantic States Soccer Conference championship. He is a tennis letterman.

On top of that, the freshman football team, varisty wrestling and soccer aggregations, all finished their campaigns with the top records in the history of the respective sports at Bucknell. The track team was undefeated in dual meets.

Attending Piedmont, Calif., High School, the Bison athletes reside with their parents in Lewisburg. Their father, Samuel H. Richard, Jr., was a Baptist Missionary to India for about 20 years. With the exception of Sam, the brothers were born in India where all lived for about 10 years.

The Richards of Bucknell are a remarkable set of brothers.

The SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12—(NEA)—After all these years, Connie Mack says he will let his son, Earl, run the Athletics on the field. . . . The only manager the A's have ever had will sit in the dugout, but promises not to make suggestions or second guess until the game has been played . . . But, as Jimmy Dykes, back as a coach, points out, the Old Man will still wave that celebrated scorecard. . . . Casey Stengel, strange to the Yankees, will take a good look at Bobby Brown on the left side of the infield, before trying Golden Boy at first base. . . . Chatting with Frankie Crosetti, you get the idea that if one of the truly great shortstops had his way, Brown would get a whirl at shortstop . . . "He was making all the plays and batting .340 last season when Bucky Harris took him out," asserts Crosetti, who, by the way, is ready to spell Phil Rizzuto again, although officially listed as a coach.

Earl Mack

Things are so strictly military at the former Vero Beach Naval Air Base camp that the Dodgers call it Zero Beach. . . . A big bloke runs through the barracks at 7 a.m. blowing a whistle, and shouting, "Rise and shine! Bacon and eggs!" . . . Hal Schumacher, who business with pennant-winning Giants was stifling them, is around peddling, of all things, bats . . . All the Red Sox at Sarasota agree that all tall and left-handed Maury McDermott has to do is get the ball over the plate . . . The White Sox in Pasadena may have something in Outfielder Gus Zernial, who had 40 home runs and 46 doubles batting .322 through 186 games with the Hollywood Coasters last term.

Despite Ken Keltner's fine season with the Indians in 1948, Flip Rosen is expected to give the well-seasoned Milwaukeean a knock-down-and-drag-'em-out battle for the third basing job . . . The young Jewish star had 25 home runs, 29 doubles, drove in 110 runs, batting .327 through 127 games with Kansas City . . . The Tigers thought so much of Center Fielder Johnny Groth a year ago that they let him play another year in the minors . . . General Manager Billy Evans didn't want to run the risk of rushing the kid. . . Jack Graham may make a strong bid for the Browns' first basing assignment, even though he played 85 games in the outfield for the San Diego Padres to 53 at first base. . . STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 12.—(AP)—Things you hear here. . . . Bo McMillin, who left Indiana U. for a $30,000 job with the Detroit Lions, may be looking over the college field again after only one season with the pros. . . . Bo is said to be one of the 55 applicants for the Syracuse University job. . . . So is his assistant, Lou Zarza. . . . Dick Harlow, a former president of the Intercollegiate Boxing Association, declined an invitation to be a guest at the current tournament here because of his health. . . . Instead he went to the Duke University Hospital and reports are that the setback may keep him from his "advisory" coaching at Western Maryland and from tutoring the eastern all-star team next fall. . . . The Phillies "Omelets," who staged daily infield drills at Clearwater, Fla., line up with President Bob Carpenter at shortstop; Bob's cousin, John Carpenter, at first; "Pop" Ashburn, Ritchie's dad, at second; Publicitor Babe Alexander at third and Frank Yeutter, veteran baseball writer, catching. . . . Observers say they've set baseball clear back to Abner Doubleday's time.

The White Sox have dropped Luke Appling's nickname of "The Tired Man" in favor of "The Talking Man." Luke is gabby as all getout this spring. . . . Looks like Penn State will get Avatus Stone, sought-after Washington schoolboy basketballer, Although Red Auerbach, the Washington Cap's coach, tried to detour him to Columbia. . . . Joe Louis and Harry Mendel are in Miami trying to line up a Willie Pep-Sandy Saddler fight. Harry didn't think it funny when his New York friends asked to be remembered to the boys at Gulfstream. . . . Horace Wade, one of the more important boys at Gulfstream, has been named racing secretary for Hazel Park, the new Detroit Association. . . . Although Penn State's spring football practice is scheduled to start Monday, some observers here are surprised at the lack of enthusiasm in the preparations.

Foot Fault

Horace Ashenfelter, Penn State distance running star, missed most of the indoor season because of a broken bone in his right foot. . . . And he just recently remembered how it happened. . . . Horace, a phys ed student, attended a football coaching class last November. . . . During an idle moment, he picked up a loose football and kicked it. . . . He felt a twinge of pain then, but didn't think anything of it, even when he learned the bone was broken. . . . That's what happens when a two-miler tries to kick a football as far as he could run with it.

SCREEN WESTERN STAR TO HANDLE LAYE-HEART SET

Ex-Champ Faces Hooded Villain In Main Go; Corbett Battles Parker

It'll be a big night at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night when the former world's middleweight champion celebrates his tenth anniversary as the Twin City promoter.

"Sunset" Carson, the cowboy movie star from Hollywood, will be a featured attraction of the night's program as the screen's western actor and hero of the "small fry" makes a personal appearance to referee the night's main event between Charlie Laye, former world's light heavyweight champion, and Purple Heart, one of the hooded brothers currently touring the southern mat circuit.

Carson, who held "shot 'em up" roles in such westerns as "Days of Buffalo Bill," "Rough Riders of Cheyenne," "Billy, The Kid," "Dead Line," "El Paso Kid," and "Sunset Carson Rides Again," only recently completed his latest picture, "Rio Grande," before starting his national tour refereeing wrestling matches. He broke into pictures as youthful actor with the late Tom Mix, once hero of the western movie-goers.

The Purple Heart (we don't know which) accepted the match with Laye only when he learned Carson would be on hand to referee, Kallio said.

Actually Laye, whose tag team won over a Purple Heart combination here last week when the masket villains were disqualified, asked for the match.

"I don't like the way they operate in these tag scraps," Laye complained to Kallio. "When you get one of them in trouble, the other always jumped in untagged to aid him. I'd welcome the chance to get hold of either of them one at a time."

"I don't believe I want to come back here anymore," Kallio quoted one of the Hearts as saying when approached with Laye's challenge. "Your referees don't seem to know what wrestling is. They disqualify a wrestler without any reason. Wrestling is a man's game and the boys you have been having as referees should have stayed at home."

But when Kallio informed Purple Heart that "Sunset" Carson would be on hand to referee the main event, the masked villain was all for coming back.

"Well, we'll just have to get some other wrestlers," Kallio told Purple Heart when he first refused the match. "But I'm not worried. I can get wrestlers now without any trouble. I started promoting here when wrestling was practically dead in this section and put on my first match right next door where the bowling alleys are now located on March 15, 1939—ten years ago next Tuesday night. For this date I'll get something special and already have Sunset Carson as referee."

That's when Purple Heart changed his tune.

"Is Carson going to be here? Well, I'll just take that match. He always

SOFTBALL EASING INTO RECREATION

Hesketh Planning More Leagues Than Ever For Summer's Program

The Monroe Recreation department, with its winter program of basketball now in the playoff stage in the various leagues, begins turning its attention to the summer softball program, anticipating more leagues than ever and another banner season.

Jack Hesketh, recreation director, last night outlined the proposed leagues for softball as follows:

The City League, an old standby and the Twin Cities' major circuit with no age limitations on players.

The Senior League, open to boys 19 years old and under.

The Junior League, open to boys 15 years old and under.

The Midget League, a circuit for youths 13 years old and under.

The Civic Club League, organization of civic clubs of the Twin Cities.

Industrial League, circuit in which member teams will draw their talent from employees of plants, stores or other business houses sponsoring teams.

Girls' League, the city's "big league" for girls and women with no age restrictions or talent.

Junior Girls' League, for girls 15 years old and under.

Senior Girls' League, for girls 19 years old and under.

A Grammar School League, for boys in the sixth and seventh grades in school.

In addition, Director Hesketh said the department was planning at least two baseball leagues for boys, one for talent 15 and under, and the other for boys 18 years old and under.

In lining up the many leagues, Director Hesketh is tackling a full summer of work, but he declared, "The Recreation department is ready to sponsor any wholesome recreation that the public desired. If additional summer recreation is desired we'll try to accommodate."

Tony Savage, coach of the Fort Worth Rangers of the U. H. Hockey League, shot a 64 on the golf course in Texas recently.

ACTOR-REFEREE

"Sunset" Carson, famed Western cowboy star of the film world, will make a personal appearance in Monroe Tuesday night as referee of the main event on Promoter Gus Kallio's weekly wrestling show here. Kallio said Carson, currently touring the nation, would referee a scramble between Charlie Laye, former world's light heavyweight champion, and one of the masked Purple Heart brothers. Carson says he won't need his movie guns to keep the wrestlers in line.

Oak Grove Host To North Louisiana Boxing Tourney Beginning Thursday

Five Teams Already Listed As Entries For Two-Day Annual Event

OAK GROVE, La., March 12—(Special)—The annual North Louisiana District Boxing Tournament for high school scrappers will open here Thursday and continue through Friday with five teams already listed as challenging for the district crown.

James L. McKenzie, Oak Grove boxing coach, announced entries have already been received from Leesville, Forest, Mer Rouge, Bernice, and Oak Grove High Schools.

The Oak Grove Tigers are defending team champions, having won the district crown for the past two seasons. But Coach McKenzie has only three mittman back from his stellar 1948 club, and he sees trouble ahead for his charges in their efforts to reclaim the championship.

Leesville promises good entries in Gerald Norris, 90 pounds; Guy Stone, 105; B. A. Gill, 112; Currie Grant, 135; Coburn, 145; Bill Beavers, 155; and Ed Nessmith, 165.

Forest is expected to show up with such good boys as Williamson, 90; Jack Jones, 98; Savage, 105; Church, 112, and district runner-up last spring; Beebe, 126; Bolton or Ainsworth, 135; and McNair, 165.

Mer Rouge is heavily backing Williamson, a 112-pounder; Rollinson at 135, and Blood, 98.

So far, Bernice has not tipped its hand as to the talent to be sent here, and Oak Grove is pinning its hopes on a trio of veteran titlists and a crop of new talent.

Bill McKoin, 118, and Clarence Cook, 145, are also strong Bengal contenders. McKoin won the district 105-pound title last spring. Cook was state 135-pound champion in 1947, runner-up for the 145-pound crown at the state meet last year, and runner-up for the welter title in the Camellia Bowl.

Other Oak Grove entries will be Earl Pardon, 90; Jerry Rhodes, 98; Jerry Harpe, 105; Ben McFarlin or Marlan Lewis, 126; Jim Hopkins, 135; Joe Hampton or Sonny Danley, 155; and Don Stevens, 165.

Obstruction Clause Most Vital Of New Regulations—Stewart; Rules Changes Favoring Batter

By Dan Daniel

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12—(NEA)—Making a tour of National League camps to explain adopted changes in the playing rules of baseball, Umpire Bill Stewart offered some interesting official slants.

"In so far as the sports pages are concerned, the most important thing the rules committee accomplished was the adoption of the regulation under which the catcher may not quit his box until the pitcher actually has released the ball while he is issuing an intentional pass," Stewart said.

"But to us umpires, and to baseball in general, the most vital change concerns the obstruction rule.

"Under the old code, a base runner who was tripped was entitled to advance no farther than the next bag. Now it is up to the umpire to say how many bases the victim should get.

"He may even send the runner all the way around and give him a homer.

"Let me explain.

"Say the Giants are playing Brooklyn. Mize drives the ball to the right center angle and, as he rounds first base, is tripped.

"In the past, I could have sent him no farther than second base, an obvious injustice.

"Now I will be allowed to judge how far the runner would have gone if he had not been obstructed.

"Sure, it makes more work for the umpire. But then, that's what the umpire is there for."

Stewart said that hereafter, if the pitcher is on the rubber with a runner on base, and he drops the ball accidentally, a balk will be called.

If the hurler stands immediately behind the rubber without possession of the ball, and by his handling of the rosin bag gives a runner and the batter the impression that he is getting ready to pitch, he will be guilty of a balk.

In short, the campaign against the hurler, and in favor of the batter, again has been strengthened, just when the pitcher is in direct need of help.

The rules committee eliminated a difference between the National and American leagues on foul balls struck by thrown impedimenta.

Henecforth, the batter will get three bases in both circuits.

Last year the National League announced its refusal to go along with the American League penalty of three bases, and ruled that a foul ball impeded by a thrown glove or cap was to be ignored.

The American League ruling, now universal, was set up in 1947 by Cal Hubbard, when Fred Sanford, Yankee pitcher then with the Browns, hurled his glove at a foul rolling off third base.

Stewart said that he had recommended to Ford Frick adoption of the American League rule under which the pitcher must take his sign while he is on the rubber.

"In our circuit the hurler usually gets the sign when he is far behind the rubber, and this leads to a lot of unnecessary loss of time," Bill explained.

"Ball players dislike umpires who are lawyers, but the two leagues want closer adherence to the rule, and will get it."

MISSISSIPPI ALUMNI TO HONOR L. S U. COACHES

CANTON, Miss., March 12.—(AP)—The coaching staff of Louisiana State University will be honored at a barbecue sponsored by the school's Mississippi alumni here April 23.

Mike Monsour, president of the Mississippi chapter, said Head Coach Gaynell Tinsley, Line Coach Norman Cooper, Assistant Line Coach J. Satterfield, Backfield Coach Ed McKeever, Freshman Coach "Red" Swanson and Scout Ed Walker all have accepted invitations.

Monsour said baseball and basketball Coach Harry Rabenhorst, Track Coach Al Moreau, Swimming Coach Hickey Higgenbotham, and Boxing Coach A. Owens also will be honored.

Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore, former L. S. U. head coach, has indicated he will be present, Monsour said.

THREE GRAMMAR TEAMS WANT SOFTBALL LEAGUE

The grammar schools of Crosley and Millsaps in West Monroe and Selman Field in Monroe are preparing to compete in grammar school softball leagues being organized for boys from the seventh grade down, it was announced last night by Jack Hesketh, recreation director of Monroe.

Hesketh said the softball leagues would operate similar to the Grammar Football League last year. One circuit will be formed for boys from the seventh grade and under, and another for kids from the sixth grade and under.

The grammar teams plan to begin playing sometime in April or early May.

WES A. WISE JOINS BASEBALL NETWORK

Wes A. Wise, 20-year-old former student at Northeast Junior College, was assigned last week to the Liberty Broadcasting System to assist Gordon McClendon, "the ole Scotchman," in baseball broadcasts.

Wes, probably remembered more by his friends here for his record programs on KNOE, left a week ago yesterday for Dallas, Texas where he joined McClendon, owner of radio station KLIF, in Dallas.

A native of Shreveport, Wes, only twenty-years-old, was an announcer at KNOE for four years. He attended Northeast Junior College.

Wes will assist McClendon in bringing play-by-play discriptions of minor league baseball games to over 250 radio stations on the Liberty network.

JOHNNY MIZE AIMING FOR HOME RUN CROWN

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 12—(AP)—Johnny Mize, big New York Giant first baseman, who has been a poor spring hitter, plans to get off to a quick start in an attempt to win the home run crown this year.

Mize is pushing the ball to right field more than ever. "I'm hitting to right more than ever before," Mize said. "That's the way I planned it. I'm not getting any faster. If I can hit them in the seats, I won't have to run those bases so fast."

TITLE PLAYOFFS IN 5 CAGE LOOPS HERE THIS WEEK

Games In Progress On Five Successive Nights, Beginning Tomorrow

Championship playoffs in the Twin Cities in five basketball leagues will be in full swing this week. Games will be in progress Monday and Thursday night in the Ouachita parish high school gymnasium, Tuesday and Friday nights at Louisiana Training Institute, and Wednesday night at Northeast Junior College.

All leagues are in the semi-final stage except the Girls' League which can possibly conclude its season Wednesday night.

Louisiana Business College and Southern Bell Telephone are battling it out on the girls' finals with L. B. C. holding a one-game edge in the two-of-three playoff. An L. B. C. win Wednesday would assure the business students the title, but a Southern Bell triumph would prolong the series until the following week.

Second games in the City League, major men's circuit of the Twin Cities, are also scheduled for Wednesday night at N. J. C. with Nicholas Motors facing Louisiana Business College and Red Shield Club tangling with Aron's Pharmacy. Nichols and Red Shield won the openers Friday night.

If Nichols and Red Shield win again Wednesday, they will tangle in the first battle of the title finals Friday night. Otherwise the deciding semi-finals will be played Friday.

The Senior League's semi-finals open Tuesday night with Studebaker meeting Bakal's and Lee-Rogers clashing with Red Shield.

Junior League and semi-finalists turn out for their second games tomororw night with Key Club meeting Spatafora and Calvert's Drugs facing Boys of Woodcraft. Spatafora and Calvert's won the openers last week. The league's finals or deciding semi-final games are billed for Thursday.

Opening playoff game in the Midget League will send Calvert's Drugs against Boys of Woodcraft tomorrow night, and the second semi-final game, between Red Shield and St. Matthew's, is scheduled for Tuesday night.

The week's schedule as announced by Jack Hesketh, Monroe recreation director:

Tomorrow's Games

Junior—Key Club vs. Spatafora, 6:30; Calvert's vs. B. O. W., 8 p.m.

MALONE REVEALS REDSKIN FOOTBALL SLATE

8-GAME GRIDIRON SLATE ANNOUNCED FOR N. J. C. INDIANS

One Other Road Trip May Be Added; Seven Games Billed At Home

Coach James L. Malone, director of athletics and head coach at Northeast Junior College, yesterday announced the 1949 grid schedule for the N. J. C. Indians. In releasing the schedule, Coach Malone said, it was the "best and the toughest" in his 16-year tenure at the college.

Two changes in opponents were made for this year's slate. Little Rock will replace Copiah-Lincoln, and Carthage, Texas, a newcomer on the Tribes six-state schedule, will take the spot left vacant by the Texas A. and M. Junior College.

Last year the Tribesmen won five, lost three, and tied one, despite the fact that the Indians suffered numerous injuries, with some of the countries highest ranking grid elevens in junior college circles. This year they will face two additional teams that will not give the Indians a place to take it easy.

Little Rock, which fought South Georgia Junior College in the Junior Sugar Bowl game here last December, will meet the N. J. C. Indians at Little Rock, Ark. Little Rock Junior College was a small and speedy team that gave the gridders from Georgia a stiff battle for the Junior Sugar Bowl trophy, notwithstanding the fact that it was the first year in football competition for many years for them. Little Rock will lose very few of their gridders for this year's campaign, and should prove to be tough for the Tribesmen in the "land of opportunity."

Carthage, another new competitor on the Indians' list of games, is a small town about 45 miles southwest of Shreveport in the heart of the oil fields of Texas. The Carthage Junior College eleven has just recently decided to get into the higher brackets of junior college grid competition and last year enjoyed a successful season in the Texas Junior College Conference. The report from that section of the state is that they will be all out for football this coming season. They want their enemies to know that they will give any team on their schedule a rugged battle in their efforts to win.

Kilgore Junior College, always a tough foe for the Tribesman, will come here on September 30, making an early meeting for what will probably prove to be one of the bitterest games on the slate. Last year, the junior colleges from Texas drove a stinging defeat into the Indians to the tune of 27-0 score. This year Malone's gridders will point towards this game to avenge last year's defeat. The Tribe will have the home field in their favor this year.

Relations have not been broken with Copiah-Lincoln, because of the break in this campaign's schedule by the school in Mississippi. Copiah must govern their slates according to a master schedule of all Mississippi junior colleges. Coach Malone explained yesterday that the officials of N. J. C. and Co-Lin could not arrange a game for this coming campaign because of conflicts between the N. J. C. and the master Mississippi schedules.

"It is much to our sorrow that we can't play Copiah-Lincoln this season, because we have always enjoyed our relations with them. You can bet we will have them on next year's schedule," Malone said.

Alabama State Teachers College will appear at Brown Field about a month earlier than last year. On Thanksgiving Day, designated as "Jim Malone Day," the Indians added plenty to the spirit of the day by giving the Teachers their worst defeat of the season. Alabama, being a four year school, will bring back a number of the gridders that tasted the Thanksgviing Day defeat.

East Oklahoma A. and M. will open the season at Brown Field on September 23. The Oklahomans tied the Tribesmen here in the second game of the season last year. They were also considered as a prospect for the Junior Sugar Bowl game until a surprise defeat eliminated them at the "last minute." It was their only defeat of the season except for the 0-0

Although Penn State's spring football practice is scheduled to start Monday, some observers here are surprised at the lack of enthusiasm in the preparations.

Foot Fault

Horace Ashenfelter, Penn State distance running star, missed most of the indoor season because of a broken bone in his right foot. . . . And he just recently remembered how it happened. . . . Horace, a phys ed student, attended a football coaching class last November. . . . During an idle moment, he picked up a loose football and kicked it. . . . He felt a twinge of pain then, but didn't think anything of it, even when he learned the bone was broken. . . . That's what happens when a two-miler tries to kick a football as far as he could run with it.

The Poughkeepsie Regatta is slated for June 25 this year.

SCREEN WESTERN STAR TO HANDLE LAYE-HEART SET

Ex-Champ Faces Hooded Villain In Main Go; Corbett Battles Parker

It'll be a big night at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night when the former world's middleweight champion celebrates his tenth anniversary as the Twin City promoter.

"Sunset" Carson, the cowboy movie star from Hollywood, will be a featured attraction of the night's program as the screen's western actor and hero of the "small fry" makes a personal appearance to referee the night's main event between Charlie Laye, former world's light heavyweight champion, and Purple Heart, one of the hooded brothers currently touring the southern mat circuit.

Carson, who held "shot 'em up" roles in such westerns as "Days of Buffalo Bill," "Rough Riders of Cheyenne," "Billy, The Kid," "Dead Line," "El Paso Kid," and "Sunset Carson Rides Again," only recently completed his latest picture, "Rio Grande," before starting his national tour refereeing wrestling matches. He broke into pictures as youthful actor with the late Tom Mix, once hero of the western movie-goers.

The Purple Heart (we don't know which) accepted the match with Laye only when he learned Carson would be on hand to referee, Kallio said.

Actually Laye, whose tag team won over a Purple Heart combination here last week when the masket villains were disqualified, asked for the match.

"I don't like the way they operate in these tag scraps," Laye complained to Kallio. "When you get one of them in trouble, the other always jumped in untagged to aid him. I'd welcome the chance to get hold of either of them one at a time."

"I don't believe I want to come back here anymore," Kallio quoted one of the Hearts as saying when approached with Laye's challenge. "Your referees don't seem to know what wrestling is. They disqualify a wrestler without any reason. Wrestling is a man's game and the boys you have been having as referees should have stayed at home."

But when Kallio informed Purple Heart that "Sunset" Carson would be on hand to referee the main event, the masked villain was all for coming back.

"Well, we'll just have to get some other wrestlers," Kallio told Purple Heart when he first refused the match. "But I'm not worried. I can get wrestlers now without any trouble. I started promoting here when wrestling was practically dead in this section and put on my first match right next door where the bowling alleys are now located on March 15, 1939—ten years ago next Tuesday night. For this date I'll get something special and already have Sunset Carson as referee."

That's when Purple Heart changed his tune.

SOFTBALL EASING INTO RECREATION

Hesketh Planning More Leagues Than Ever For Summer's Program

The Monroe Recreation department, with its winter program of basketball now in the playoff stage in the various leagues, begins turning its attention to the summer softball program, anticipating more leagues than ever and another banner season.

Jack Hesketh, recreation director, last night outlined the proposed leagues for softball as follows:

The City League, an old standby and the Twin Cities' major circuit with no age limitations on players.

The Senior League, open to boys 19 years old and under.

The Junior League, open to boys 15 years old and under.

The Midget League, a circuit for youths 13 years old and under.

The Civic Club League, organization of civic clubs of the Twin Cities.

Industrial League, circuit in which member teams will draw their talent from employees of plants, stores or other business houses sponsoring teams.

Girls' League, the city's "big league" for girls and women with no age restrictions or talent.

Junior Girls' League, for girls 15 years old and under.

Senior Girls' League, for girls 19 years old and under.

A Grammar School League, for boys in the sixth and seventh grades in school.

In addition, Director Hesketh said the department was planning at least two baseball leagues for boys, one for talent 15 and under, and the other for boys 18 years old and under.

In lining up the many leagues, Director Hesketh is tackling a full summer of work, but he declared, "The Recreation department is ready to sponsor any wholesome recreation that the public desired. If additional summer recreation is desired we'll try to accommodate."

Tony Savage, coach of the Fort Worth Rangers of the U. H. Hockey League, shot a 64 on the golf course in Texas recently.

ACTOR-REFEREE

"Sunset" Carson, famed Western cowboy star of the film world, will make a personal appearance in Monroe Tuesday night as referee of the main event on Promoter Gus Kallio's weekly wrestling show here. Kallio said Carson, currently touring the nation, would referee a scramble between Charlie Laye, former world's light heavyweight champion, and one of the masked Purple Heart brothers. Carson says he won't need his movie guns to keep the wrestlers in line.

Oak Grove Host To North Louisiana Boxing Tourney Beginning Thursday

Five Teams Already Listed As Entries For Two-Day Annual Event

OAK GROVE, La., March 12—(Special)—The annual North Louisiana District Boxing Tournament for high school scrappers will open here Thursday and continue through Friday with five teams already listed as challenging for the district crown.

James L. McKenzie, Oak Grove boxing coach, announced entries have already been received from Leesville, Forest, Mer Rouge, Bernice, and Oak Grove High Schools.

The Oak Grove Tigers are defending team champions, having won the district crown for the past two seasons. But Coach McKenzie has only three mittman back from his stellar 1948 club, and he sees trouble ahead for his charges in their efforts to reclaim the championship.

Leesville promises good entries in Gerald Norris, 90 pounds; Guy Stone, 105; B. A. Gill, 112; Currie Grant, 135; Coburn, 145; Bill Beavers, 155; and Ed Nessmith, 165.

Forest is expected to show up with such good boys as Williamson, 90; Jack Jones, 98; Savage, 105; Church, 112, and district runner-up last spring; Beebe, 126; Bolton or Ainsworth, 135; and McNair, 165.

Mer Rouge is heavily backing Williamson, a 112-pounder; Rollinson at 135, and Blood, 98.

So far, Bernice has not tipped its hand as to the talent to be sent here, and Oak Grove is pinning its hopes on a trio of veteran titlists and a crop of new talent.

Bill McKoin, 118, and Clarence Cook, 145, are also strong Bengal contenders. McKoin won the district 105-pound title last spring. Cook was state 135-pound champion in 1947, runner-up for the 145-pound crown at the state meet last year, and runner-up for the welter title in the Camellia Bowl.

Other Oak Grove entries will be Earl Pardon, 90; Jerry Rhodes, 98; Jerry Harpe, 105; Ben McFarlin or Marlan Lewis, 126; Jim Hopkins, 135; Joe Hampton or Sonny Danley, 155; and Don Stevens, 165.

Obstruction Clause Most Vital Of New Regulations—Stewart; Rules Changes Favoring Batter

By Dan Daniel

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12—(NEA)—Making a tour of National League camps to explain adopted changes in the playing rules of baseball, Umpire Bill Stewart offered some interesting official slants.

"In so far as the sports pages are concerned, the most important thing the rules committee accomplished was the adoption of the regulation under which the catcher may not quit his box until the pitcher actually has released the ball while he is issuing an intentional pass," Stewart said.

"But to us umpires, and to baseball in general, the most vital change concerns the obstruction rule.

"Under the old code, a base runner who was tripped was entitled to advance no farther than the next bag. Now it is up to the umpire to say how many bases the victim should get.

"He may even send the runner all the way around and give him a homer.

"Let me explain.

"Say the Giants are playing Brooklyn. Mize drives the ball to the right center angle and, as he rounds first base, is tripped.

"In the past, I could have sent him no farther than second base, an obvious injustice.

"Now I will be allowed to judge how far the runner would have gone if he had not been obstructed.

"Sure, it makes more work for the umpire. But then, that's what the umpire is there for."

Stewart said that hereafter, if the pitcher is on the rubber with a runner on base, and he drops the ball accidentally, a balk will be called.

If the hurler stands immediately behind the rubber without possession of the ball, and by his handling of the rosin bag gives a runner and the batter the impression that he is getting ready to pitch, he will be guilty of a balk.

In short, the campaign against the hurler, and in favor of the batter, again has been strengthened, just when the pitcher is in direct need of help.

The rules committee eliminated a difference between the National and American leagues on foul balls struck by thrown impedimenta.

Henecforth, the batter will get three bases in both circuits.

Last year the National League announced its refusal to go along with the American League penalty of three bases, and ruled that a foul ball impeded by a thrown glove or cap was to be ignored.

The American League ruling, now universal, was set up in 1947 by Cal Hubbard, when Fred Sanford, Yankee pitcher then with the Browns, hurled his glove at a foul rolling off third base.

Stewart said that he had recommended to Ford Frick adoption of the American League rule under which the pitcher must take his sign while he is on the rubber.

"In our circuit the hurler usually gets the sign when he is far behind the rubber, and this leads to a lot of unnecessary loss of time," Bill explained.

"Ball players dislike umpires who are lawyers, but the two leagues want closer adherence to the rule, and will get it."

MISSISSIPPI ALUMNI TO HONOR L. S U. COACHES

CANTON, Miss., March 12.—(AP)—The coaching staff of Louisiana State University will be honored at a barbecue sponsored by the school's Mississippi alumni here April 23.

Mike Monsour, president of the Missisippi chapter, said Head Coach Gaynell Tinsley, Line Coach Norman Cooper, Assistant Line Coach J. Satterfield, Backfield Coach Ed McKeever, Freshman Coach "Red" Swanson and Scout Ed Walker all have accepted invitations.

Monsour said baseball and basketball Coach Harry Rabenhorst, Track Coach Al Moreau, Swimming Coach Hickey Higgenbotham, and Boxing Coach A. Owens also will be honored.

Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore, former L. S. U. head coach, has indicated he will be present, Monsour said.

THREE GRAMMAR TEAMS WANT SOFTBALL LEAGUE

The grammar schools of Crosley and Millsaps in West Monroe and Selman Field in Monroe are preparing to compete in grammar school softball leagues being organized for boys from the seventh grade down, it was announced last night by Jack Hesketh, recreation director of Monroe.

Hesketh said the softball leagues would operate similar to the Grammar Football League last year. One circuit will be formed for boys from the seventh grade and under, and another for kids from the sixth grade and under.

The grammar teams plan to begin playing sometime in April or early May.

WES A. WISE JOINS BASEBALL NETWORK

Wes A. Wise, 20-year-old former student at Northeast Junior College, was assigned last week to the Liberty Broadcasting System to assist Gordon McClendon, "the ole Scotchman," in baseball broadcasts.

Wes, probably remembered more by his friends here for his record programs on KNOE, left a week ago yesterday for Dallas, Texas where he joined McClendon, owner of radio station KLIF, in Dallas.

A native of Shreveport, Wes, only twenty-years-old, was an announcer at KNOE for four years. He attended Northeast Junior College.

Wes will assist McClendon in bringing play-by-play discriptions of minor league baseball games to over 250 radio stations on the Liberty network.

JOHNNY MIZE AIMING FOR HOME RUN CROWN

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 12—(AP)—Johnny Mize, big New York Giant first baseman, who has been a poor spring hitter, plans to get off to a quick start in an attempt to win the home run crown this year.

Mize is pushing the ball to right field more than ever. "I'm hitting to right more than ever before," Mize said. "That's the way I planned it. I'm not getting any faster. If I can hit them in the seats, I won't have to run those bases so fast."

TITLE PLAYOFFS IN 5 CAGE LOOPS HERE THIS WEEK

Games In Progress On Five Successive Nights, Beginning Tomorrow

Championship playoffs in the Twin Cities in five basketball leagues will be in full swing this week. Games will be in progress Monday and Thursday night in the Ouachita parish high school gymnasium, Tuesday and Friday nights at Louisiana Training Institute, and Wednesday night at Northeast Junior College.

All leagues are in the semi-final stage except the Girls' League which can possibly conclude its season Wednesday night.

Louisiana Business College and Southern Bell Telephone are battling it out on the girls' finals with L. B. C. holding a one-game edge in the two-of-three playoff. An L. B. C. win Wednesday would assure the business students the title, but a Southern Bell triumph would prolong the series until the following week.

Second games in the City League, major men's circuit of the Twin Cities, are also scheduled for Wednesday night at N. J. C. with Nicholas Motors facing Louisiana Business College and Red Shield Club tangling with Aron's Pharmacy. Nichols and Red Shield won the openers Friday night.

If Nichols and Red Shield win again Wednesday, they will tangle in the first battle of the title finals Friday night. Otherwise the deciding semi-finals will be played Friday.

The Senior League's semi-finals open Tuesday night with Studebaker meeting Bakal's and Lee-Rogers clashing with Red Shield.

Junior League and semi-finalists turn out for their second games tomororw night with Key Club meeting Spatafora and Calvert's Drugs facing Boys of Woodcraft. Spatafora and Calvert's won the openers last week. The league's finals or deciding semi-final games are billed for Thursday.

Opening playoff game in the Midget League will send Calvert's Drugs against Boys of Woodcraft tomorrow night, and the second semi-final game, between Red Shield and St. Matthew's, is scheduled for Tuesday night.

The week's schedule as announced by Jack Hesketh, Monroe recreation director:

Tomorrow's Games

Junior—Key Club vs. Spatafora, 6:30; Calvert's vs. B. O. W., 8 p.m.

MY REQUEST COPS NEW ORLEANS HANDICAP

ISIGNY FINISHES 2ND IN $25,000 RACING FEATURE

Three Rings Wins At Gulfstream; Provocative Scores At Oaklawn

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—B. F. Whitaker's My Request carried top weight of 125 pounds to an easy victory today in the $25,000,-Added New Orleans Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

J. J. Amiel's Isigny was second and Miss Request, stablemate of the winner, was third.

My Request, four-year-old son of Requested, was given perfect timing by Jockey Claude Erickson. Away in a tangle, he was sent between horses as the 11 starters raced to the first turn in the mile and a sixteenth event.

Shooting ahead as he led the field into the backstretch, My Request opened a lead of two lengths.

Erickson then took his mount in hand, even when Fantasy Farm's Grand Entry stepped up with a brave challenge that got within a length of the leader as the horses entered the home stretch.

My Request came on away and had a lead of five lengths going into the final sixteenth. At that time Isigny, which had been far back early in the running but closed an immense gap, came with a gallant challenge. It was too late to threaten the winner, however.

Miss Request bore in on the first turn, improved her position steadily and finished in a fine performance.

My Request won $20,150. The Whitaker entry paid $3.20, $2.40 and $2.20 in the $2 mutuels. Isigny paid $5.80 and $3.40.

Total attendance was 10,500, second largest day of the season, track officials said, and betting amounted to $392,908.

AT GULFSTREAM.

MIAMI, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Mrs. E. L. Hopkins' Three Rings, four-year-old gelded son of Blue Larkspur, today won the $7,500 Horning Handicap, feature race of the Gulfstream Park program.

Lord Grillo was second and Big Dial was third. Three Rings covered the mile and a furlong in 1:50 4/5 and returned $4.60, $3.00 and $2.30 in the $2 mutuels.

Eight horses went postward with Three Rings the favorite at $1.30 for $1. Three Rings won by half a length.

Agrarian-U, scored by a neck in the Anniversary Handicap, sixth event on today's program. Favored Bug Juice was second and Columa third.

Agrarian-U ran the seven furlongs in 1:23 2/5 and returned $11.30 for $2 in the mutuels.

AT OAKLAWN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 12.—(AP)—Provocative, Mrs. Emil Denemark's candidate for the Arkansas and Kentucky derbies, raced to a three-length victory over Enforcer, his entry mate at Oaklawn Park today in the second running of the $5,000-Added Southland Handicap.

Pomps Gal finished third, a head back of Enforcer, while Quick Tiger, paired with Pomps Gal, was last in the four-horse field, three-quarters of a length farther back.

An estimated crowd of 10,000 saw Provocative make the mile and a sixteenth trip in 1:43.4.

The Denemark entry paid $2.60 straight. There was no place or show betting. Only $19,036 was wagered on the race.

ROBINSON THINKS HE'LL BE HAPPIER WITH WASHINGTON

ORLANDO, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Eddie Robinson says he's happier with the lowly Washington Senators than he was with the World Champion Cleveland Indians.

"Don't make this a sob story," said personable Eddie who was traded to Washington last December with Ed Klieman and Joe Haynes for Mickey Vernon and Early Wynn.

"I think Lou Boudreau is one of the greatest players in the game," he said, "He got us in there last year. That was an experience I'll never forget as long as I live.

"But I do think I'll be happier with Washington, being sure I'll play every day. Just knowing that they'll leave me in here is going to help. It sort of destroys your confidence if you think the manager has the idea that anybody can play first base.

"I'm not criticizing Lou because I was glad to do anything that would help the club—anything that Boudreau wanted was all right with me. But it would get me down when fellows who were not first basemen—like Johnny Berardino and Wally Judnich—would play instead of me.

"I went into a little slump and I was out for six days. Berardino played. Then I got a couple of pinch hits and I was back. After a series in the Yankee Stadium, they took me out and put in Judnich. Toward the end, Judnich was in there most of the time but I finished up the last six against Detroit and played the series."

In the playoff game with the Boston Red Sox, Robinson was replaced as first base starter by Allie Clark, an outfielder who never played first.

"That was all right," said Robinson, "I know Lou wanted to get every bit of his right handed bating power into the lineup to shoot at the left field wall at Fenway Park. I was in there as soon as we got a safe lead and I played the whole series."

Broken Crown is the name of a two-year-old race horse sired by Jack High out of Up The Hill. A full brother is named Pail of Water.

game played here against the Indians.

McNeese Junior College will be here on November 4, to duplicate the resounding beating given the Tribe at Lake Charles last season.

The open date on the Indians' schedule is pending until further notice. It has not been decided as to what the N. J. C. officials will do with the blank date.

Northwest Mississippi Junior College will take over the vacant spot on Thanksgiving left open by Alabama State Teachers. The N. J. C. Indians won the season's opener from the Mississippians, 7-0.

Through the efforts of the officials of the two local high schools and N. J. C. officials, there will not be a conflicting date on college and high school schedules. Last year the college had two games conflicting with high school dates.

This is the order in which the Indians will meet their opponents this year:

Sept. 23—East Oklahoma A. and M., here.

Sept. 30—Kilgore Junior College, here.

Oct. 7—Open.

Oct. 15—Alabama State Teachers (Livingston), here.

Oct. 20—Carthage, Tex., Junior College, here.

Oct. 27—Louisiana State College "B," here.

Nov. 4—McNeese Junior College, here.

Nov. 12—Little Rock Junior College, there.

Nov. 24—Northwest Mississippi Junior College (Thanksgiving), here.

draws a big crowd anywhere he appears, and I do love crowds."

The Purple Heart brothers settled among themselves just which one would be here to meet Laye. "Either one of us can beat him," said Purple Heart No. 1, so designated because he was the first to show here. No. 1 is the choice to face Laye.

Laye also said he would ask a 75-25 split of the gate for the match, but hinted that if the crowd is as big as expected that he will challenge Purple Heart at ring time to wrestle winner-take-all.

For the semi-final event, beginning at 8 o'clock, Kallio has lined up the old veteran, Allen "Sailor" Parker, still one of the best showmen in the business, and Joe Corbett.

The Parker-Corbett scramble will be over an hour time limit route, while the main event will have a 90-minute time limit. Both matches will go two falls to win, and Bill Barney, West Monroe, has been engaged to referee the curtain-raiser.

FOUR-BALL TITLE DUEL SCHEDULED TODAY AT MIAMI

Demaret-Worsham And Kelser-Palmer Teams Bow Out In Semi-Finals

MIAMI, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., battled their way into the finals of the $100,000 Miami International Four-Ball Golf Tournament today with defending champions Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Alexander and Cooper staged a spectacular stretch drive to beat Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Herman Keiser, St. Andrews, Ill., one up.

Middlecoff and Ferrier eliminated Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., two and one.

Trailing one down at the end of the 32nd hole, Alexander took a change on the long par five 15th, drove over a wooded area, and sank a six-foot putt for a two under par three evening the match. On the next hole he sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie two to move his team into the lead. The match ended on the 36th hole.

Slammin' Sammy Snead and his partner, Lloyd Mangrum, early favorites who drew practically all the gallery of 2,000 for the first two days, went out of the 144-hole event at the halfway point yesterday.

Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Mangrum, Niles, Ill., stylist, lost to Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., 2 and 1, to the dismay of the crowd that followed every hole they played.

Defending Champions Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., scored a 2 and 1 victory yesterday over Tony Penna, Cincinnati, and Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C. Leading 2-up after 27 holes, Ferrier and Middlecoff saw their margin wiped out when Penna chipped in on the 29th and Heafner cagled the 30th. Ferrier pulled the game out of the fire on the 33rd and 34th.

MOORE, DICKINSON IN ORLEANS FINALS

NEW ORLEANS, March 12—(AP)—Joe Moore, Jr., and Gardner Dickinson, Jr., tangle again tomorrow in the 36-hole finals of the New Orleans Country Club's 12th annual Invitational golf tourney.

Moore, from San Antonio, Texas, is defending the title he won from his former Louisiana State University teammate last year.

This is the third straight year Dickinson, medalist this year, has participated in the tourney finals. He won the crown from Alpheus Winter in 1947.

Moore played smooth golf today. He eliminated Raymond Salmen, 4 and 2, and then took Bob Rosburg, former junior national titleholder of Los Angeles, 2 and 1.

Morgan and Fottrell, co-medalist in the National Amateur last year, gave Dickinson some unpleasant moments before losing 2 and 1. Gardner went above par for the first time in the tourney as he played against tricky winds.

In quarter-finals, Rosburg took Al Triche, of L. S. U., 3 and 2.

HOUTTEMAN'S CONDITION REPORTED 'ABOUT SAME'

LAKELAND, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Art Houtteman, the Detroit Tigers' big righthand pitcher whose skull was fractured in a serious traffic crash Thursday night, was "about the same" today and doctors grew optimistic over his condition.

Three Boys Signed At Baseball Tryout Camp Here; 4th Undecided

John Smith, David McKenzie Of Monroe Contracted With John Tarver

Three contracts were signed by young baseball talent of this area and a pact was offered to a fourth at the conclusion of a baseball tryout camp conducted here yesterday by the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas League.

The camp was directed by Ed Head, manager of the Asheville, N. C., club of the Brooklyn Dodger system of which the Cats are also a member.

Prospects signed were announced last night by Head as John Tarver, Winnsboro; David McKenzie, Monroe, and John Smith, Monroe. A fourth contract was offered Charles Ruggs, Farmerville, but the Union parish youth declined to sign until he has the approval of his parents.

The two Monroe boys, Smith, 18-year-old outfielder, and McKenzie, a 20-year-old righthanded pitcher, have been assigned to the Paducah, Ky., club, and Tarver, an 18-year-old left-handed hurler, will go to Sheboygan, Wis.

Smith, a former Neville High School athlete, played for the American Legion Junior baseball club here two years ago, and last year performed in the outfield for the Columbia Ramblers of the semi-pro North Central Louisiana League.

McKenzie was only recently discharged from the navy, and Tarver is one of Coach John Nicosia's products of American Legion Junior baseball at Winnsboro.

There is still a possibility that Ruggs, 17-year-old righthanded chunker for Coach "Doc" Elliott's Farmerville Legion club the last two seasons, may yet decide to accept a contract. Head said Ruggs wanted the approval of his mother before signing. He said the other boys had obtained their parents' consent.

Head, aided in operation of the tryouts by Bob Tarleton, chief Fort Worth scout, and Bill Bagwell, ex-professional ball player of Choudrant, last night said they were mighty pleased with the results of the tryouts.

"Finding four boys with such possibilities as Ruggs, Smith, Tarver, and McKenzie in one group is really more than we bargained for," Head declared. "Usually directors of such tryout camps feel fortunate if they can find one player out of every hundred."

Head, who will leave here tonight on his way to the Dodger system's spring training camp at Vero Beach, Fla., last night said a very brief tryout session would be held this morning at Casino Park for the benefit of athletes from Northwestern State College who had earlier notified him they would not be able to make the Saturday appointment but desired to make the showing Saturday morning. He said he would hold a brief session for the late arrivals at 9:30 a. m.

SYRACUSE EASILY TAKES COLLEGIATE FISTIC EVENT

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 12.—(AP)—Syracuse breezed to its eighth team championship in the Intercollegiate Boxing Association championships tonight, carrying off three individual championships enroute.

The orange-clad boxers piled up 24 points in the scoring for the Edward J. Neil Memorial trophy, emblematic of the team title. The trophy was named in honor of the former Associated Press boxing expert and war correspondent who was killed during the war in Spain.

Penn State edged out Virginia, 1948 team winner, for second place when Chuck Drazenovich beat out Marty Crandell of Syracuse in the concluding bout to retain his heavyweight title.

Penn State collected 14 points to Virginia's 13. Other team scores were Army eight points and Catholic University five. Western Maryland failed to score.

77 OF 113 DERBY CANDIDATES CAN RUN TRIAL RACE

35 Blue Grass Classic Eligibles Will Get Tuneups Elsewhere

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 12.—(Special)—Seventy-seven of the 113 three-year-olds nominated for the Diamond Jubilee Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs on Saturday, May 7, also are eligible for the $10,000 added Derby Trial Stakes which will be run on the preceding Tuesday.

The outstanding absentee from the Derby Trial is Clifford Mooer's Old Rockport, winner of the Santa Anita Derby during the California winter season. Old Rockport was an arrival in Kentucky this week, and while he is not eligible to the Trial it is not unlikely that he will be started at Churchill Downs prior to the "Run For The Roses."

Most of the other 35 eligibles to the Derby which were not named for the Trial are horses which will be given their pre-Derby tests at tracks distant from Churchill Downs. They include a number of Californna and Canadian-owned candidates as well as other colts whose performance at New York at Maryland tracks will determine whether they will be shipped to Louisville to compete for America's greatest turf prize.

Olympia, winner of Hialeah's Flamingo Stakes, was named for the Trial as was his stablemate, Ocean Drive. Other Derby Trial eligibles are:

Blue Peter, Harbourton, Mills Bennett, Certify, Jacks Town, King Afton, Palestinian, Count-A-Bit, Fighting Louie, Bare All, Full Speed, Going Away, Rookwood, Bel King, De-Luxe, Ponder, Whirl Home, Forker, Algasir, Carry Message, Petey Cotter, Commodore Lea, Roundeleer, Flower Bed, On the Eye, Provocative, Air Attack, Engle Man, Capot, Repentance, Wine List, Bolero, Castile, Kit Carson, Shakeme, Pharan, Colonel Mike, Johns Joy, Curandero, Swap Out, Taran, Mail From Home, Lextown, Mr. Biddoo, Solar Lad, Irish Wit, Superb Command, The Poet, Halt, Sport Page, Polly Lass, Mirabeau, Admiral Lea, Teammate, Repetition, Raucous, Senecas Coin, Pansho Supreme, Duplicator, Illuminable, Bar Sinister, Stone Age, Vinita Toney, Bleury Street, Roman Bout, Mr. Smug, Wellsab, Ourquest, Prince Quest, Royal Answer, Wide Request, Angel of War, Fuscat, and The Blue.

Calumet's Citation was the first horse to win both the Derby Trial and Derby since the Trial was added to the spring program at Churchill Downs. He laso was the first horse to win both the Belmont Futurity and Kentucky Derby. The Derby Trial was first run as a stakes race in 1938 when The Chief ran the mile in 1:35 4/5.

MINIATURE AUTO RACERS TO MEET HERE ON SUNDAY

Monroe Club Preparing For Third Annual Classic At Bernstein Park

Monroe's miniature autobomile racers today begin making arrangements for their third annual miniature speedway classic here next Sunday at the Monroe club's concrete racing oval at the Bernstein Park Hobby Center.

Miniature racers from throughout the south are expected here for the event, one of four being conducted nationally next Sunday. The meetings Sunday serve as qualifying events for the National Miniature Speedway classic to be held in conjunction with the American Miniature Race Car Association's August convention at Indianapolis, Ind.

Contestants are due to begin arriving here Friday, and the Bernstein Park track should be a busy spot for the two days prior to the meet as the entries put their little speeders through tune-up trial runs.

"Fran" Brennan, past regional director of the national association and a leader of the local organization, last night said members of the Louisiana Miniature Race Car Club at Monroe would turnout today for trial runs and also to get their trak in top condition for the visiting racers.

Glen Matthews, Rockford, Ill., president of the national association, also plans to pay Monroe another visit in connection with the meet.

The racers are open to the public free of charge, and next Sunday's show will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue through the afternoon with runs in two classes of miniature machines, the spur-gear cars and the proto type racers.

BUCHANAN TO FACE SIKES IN SOUTHERN ELIMINATION

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 12.—(AP)—Memphian Oscar Buchanan will make his debut in the scramble for a southern heavyweight boxing championship here Monday night at Robinson Auditorium.

He will tangle with Bob Sikes, Little Rock, in the second of a series of fights through which Little Rock promoters hope to determine a publicly recognized, if not official, southern titlist. The scrap is scheduled for ten rounds.

In the first elimination match last month, Sikes decisioned Buddy Scott of Jacksonville, Fla.

The plan, as announced by Promoters Les Call and Jimmy Watts, is that a fighter will remain in the running until he has been beaten twice.

'AA' CROWNS WON BY ST. ALOYSIUS, JENNINGS TEAMS

Holy Cross Boys, Istrouma Girls Beaten In State Title Finals

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP) The Jennings girls and the St. Aloysius boys of New Orleans are champs in Louisiana's Class AA basketball.

The Jennings sextette defeated Istrouma of Baton Rouge, 33-20, tonight.

The St. Aloysius boys beat their home town rivals, Holy Cross, 36-30.

In consolation games the Dominican girls of New Orleans defeated Bolton, 35-34, and the Catholic High boys of Baton Rouge defeated Fortier of New Orleans, 49-41.

In the girls' finals, Jennings led all the way, having a halftime advantage of 22-9. "Red" McCrocklin, Jennings, was high scorer with 14 points.

Holy Cross led in the boys' finals until early in the fourth quarter when St. Aloysius forged ahead. At halftime Holy Cross led, 14-8. Brennan and Peltier, Aloysius, were high scorers with 10 points each. Doll led Holy Cross with eight.

It was the second time in three years the St. Aloysius boys have held the title, having won in 1947. Jesuits, of New Orleans, defending champs, were defeated yesterday by Catholic High, 32-23.

An all-state girls' team selected at the tourney consists of:

Forwards—Archie Pullen, Bolton; Neddie Disch, Istrouma; "Red" McCrocklin, Jennings; Jay New, Jennings; Pincus, Bolton; Gail Groetsch, Dominican. Guards—Johnny Celou, Dominican; Muchirson, Bolton; Nona Lee Tonn, Jennings; Margie Vincent, Istrouma; Jewel Lozes, Dominican; and Barbara Mae Miller, Jennings.

The boys' all-state team:

Chighizola, St. Aloysius; Doll, Holy Cross; Barnett, Fortier; Ruckman, Lafayette; Marks, Holy Cross; Cohen, Peters; Brennan, St. Aloysius; Torregrassa, Catholic High; Major, Catholic High; Clarke, Baton Rouge.

Earlier today Fortier's boys lost to St. Aloysius, 30-50, and Catholic High was defeated, 47-42, by Holy Cross.

Istrouma, defending girls' champions, knocked off Dominican, 23-14, today. Jennings beat Bolton, 24-17.

St. Aloysius' runaway rout of Fortier today was strongly contrasted against the nip and tuck Holy Cross-Catholic High struggle, which went into an extra period.

After a slow start, Catholic High caught fire and tied the score at 38-all when the whistle blew ending the fourth period. The Baton Rougeans were ahead, 42-41, with 40 seconds of the extra frame remaining, but three quick goals wrapped it up for Holy Cross.

Top-seeded St. Aloysius coasted to its 50-30 victory over Fortier. The sharp-shooting New Orleans quintet piled up big scores yesterday also in advancing to the finals, downing Bolton, 68-31, and Lafayette, 65-34.

"We hope to have from six to ten clubs in the proposed league," Johnson said, "and plans right now are to work in games on a home-and-home basis."

The Elks Club of Monroe, Negro organization, will field a baseball club here this year and it was announced last night that the club has named Joe Gulledge as manager of the organization's baseball affairs.

MY REQUEST COPS NEW ORLEANS HANDICAP

ISIGNY FINISHES 2ND IN $25,000 RACING FEATURE

Three Rings Wins At Gulfstream; Provocative Scores At Oaklawn

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—B. F. Whitaker's My Request carried top weight of 125 pounds to an easy victory today in the $25,000.-Added New Orleans Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

J. J. Amiel's Isigny was second and Miss Request, stablemate of the winner, was third.

My Request, four-year-old son of Requested, was given perfect timing by Jockey Claude Erickson. Away in a tangle, he was sent between horses as the 11 starters raced to the first turn in the mile and a sixteenth event.

Shooting ahead as he led the field into the backstretch, My Request opened a lead of two lengths.

Erickson then took his mount in hand, even when Fantasy Farm's Grand Entry stepped up with a brave challenge that got within a length of the leader as the horses entered the home stretch.

My Request came on away and had a lead of five lengths going into the final sixteenth. At that time Isigny, which had been far back early in the running but closed an immense gap, came with a gallant challenge. It was too late to threaten the winner, however.

Miss Request bore in on the first turn, improved her position steadily and finished in a fine performance.

My Request won $20,150. The Whitaker entry paid $3.20, $2.40 and $2.20 in the $2 mutuels. Isigny paid $5.80 and $3.40.

Total attendance was 10,500, second largest day of the season, track officials said, and betting amounted to $592,908.

AT GULFSTREAM.

MIAMI, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Mrs. E. L. Hopkins' Three Rings, four-year-old gelded son of Blue Larkspur, today won the $7,500 Horning Handicap, feature race of the Gulfstream Park program.

Lord Grillo was second and Big Dial was third. Three Rings covered the mile and a furlong in 1:50 4/5 and returned $4.60, $3.60 and $2.30 in the $2 mutuels.

Eight horses went postward with Three Rings the favorite at $1.30 for $1. Three Rings won by half a length.

Agrarian-U, scored by a neck in the Anniversary Handicap, sixth event on today's program. Favored Bug Juice was second and Columa third.

Agrarian-U ran the seven furlongs in 1:23 2/5 and returned $11.30 for $2 in the mutuels.

AT OAKLAWN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 12.—(AP)—Provocative, Mrs. Emil Denemark's candidate for the Arkansas and Kentucky derbies, raced to a three-length victory over Enforcer, his entry mate at Oaklawn Park today in the second running of the $5,000-Added Southland Handicap.

Pomps Gal finished third, a head back of Enforcer, while Quick Tiger, paired with Pomps Gal, was last in the four-horse field, three-quarters of a length farther back.

An estimated crowd of 10,000 saw Provocative make the mile and a sixteenth trip in 1:43.4.

The Denemark entry paid $2.60 straight. There was no place or show betting. Only $19,036 was wagered on the race.

ROBINSON THINKS HE'LL BE HAPPIER WITH WASHINGTON

ORLANDO, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Eddie Robinson says he's happier with the lowly Washington Senators than he was with the World Champion Cleveland Indians.

"Don't make this a sob story," said personable Eddie who was traded to Washington last December with Ed Klieman and Joe Haynes for Mickey Vernon and Early Wynn.

"I think Lou Boudreau is one of the greatest players in the game," he said, "He got us in there last year. That was an experience I'll never forget as long as I live.

"But I do think I'll be happier with Washington, being sure I'll play every day. Just knowing that they'll leave me in here is going to help. It sort of destroys your confidence if you think the manager has the idea that anybody can play first base.

"I'm not criticizing Lou because I was glad to do anything that would help the club—anything that Boudreau wanted was all right with me. But it would get me down when fellows who were not first basemen—like Johnny Berardino and Wally Judnich—would play instead of me.

"I went into a little slump and I was out for six days. Berardino played. Then I got a couple of pinch hits and I was back. After a series in the Yankee Stadium, they took me out and put in Judnich. Toward the end, Judnich was in there most of the time but I finished up the last six against Detroit and played the series."

In the playoff game with the Boston Red Sox, Robinson was replaced as first base starter by Allie Clark, an outfielder who never played first.

"That was all right," said Robinson, "I know Lou wanted to get every bit of his right handed bating power into the lineup to shoot at the left field wall at Fenway Park. I was in there as soon as we got a safe lead and I played the whole series."

Broken Crown is the name of a two-year-old race horse sired by Jack High out of Up The Hill. A full brother is named Pail of Water.

game played here against the Indians.

McNeese Junior College will be here on November 4, to duplicate the resounding beating given the Tribe at Lake Charles last season.

The open date on the Indians' schedule is pending until further notice. It has not been decided as to what the N. J. C. officials will do with the blank date.

Northwest Mississippi Junior College will take over the vacant spot on Thanksgiving left open by Alabama State Teachers. The N. J. C. Indians won the season's opener from the Mississippians, 7-0.

Through the efforts of the officials of the two local high schools and N. J. C. officials, there will not be a conflicting date on college and high school schedules. Last year the college had two games conflicting with high school dates.

This is the order in which the Indians will meet their opponents this year:

Sept. 23—East Oklahoma A. and M., here.
Sept. 30—Kilgore Junior College, here.
Oct. 7—Open.
Oct. 15—Alabama State Teachers (Livingston), here.
Oct. 20—Carthage, Tex., Junior College, here.
Oct. 27—Louisiana State College "B," here.
Nov. 4—McNeese Junior College, here.
Nov. 12—Little Rock Junior College, there.
Nov. 24—Northwest Mississippi Junior College (Thanksgiving), here.

draws a big crowd anywhere he appears, and I do love crowds."

The Purple Heart brothers settled among themselves just which one would be here to meet Laye. "Either one of us can beat him," said Purple Heart No. 1, so designated because he was the first to show here. No. 1 is the choice to face Laye.

Laye also said he would ask a 75-25 split of the gate for the match, but hinted that if the crowd is as big as expected that he will challenge Purple Heart at ring time to wrestle winner-take-all.

For the semi-final event, beginning at 8 o'clock, Kallio has lined up the old veteran, Allen "Sailor" Parker, still one of the best showmen in the business, and Joe Corbett.

The Parker-Corbett scramble will be over an hour time limit route, while the main event will have a 90-minute time limit. Both matches will go two falls to win, and Bill Barney, West Monroe, has been engaged to referee the curtain-raiser.

FOUR-BALL TITLE DUEL SCHEDULED TODAY AT MIAMI

Demaret-Worsham And Kelser-Palmer Teams Bow Out In Semi-Finals

MIAMI, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., battled their way into the finals of the $100,000 Miami International Four-Ball Golf Tournament today with defending champions Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Alexander and Cooper staged a spectacular stretch drive to beat Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Herman Keiser, St. Andrews, Ill., one up.

Middlecoff and Ferrier eliminated Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., two and one.

Trailing one down at the end of the 32nd hole, Alexander took a change on the long par five 15th, drove over a wooded area, and sank a six-foot putt for a two under par three evening the match. On the next hole he sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie two to move his team into the lead. The match ended on the 36th hole.

Slammin' Sammy Snead and his partner, Lloyd Mangrum, early favorites who drew practically all the gallery of 2,000 for the first two days, went out of the 144-hole event at the halfway point yesterday.

Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Mangrum, Niles, Ill., stylist, lost to Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., 2 and 1, to the dismay of the crowd that followed every hole they played.

Defending Champions Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., scored a 2 and 1 victory yesterday over Tony Penna, Cincinnati, and Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C. Leading 2-up after 27 holes, Ferrier and Middlecoff saw their margin wiped out when Penna chipped in on the 29th and Heafner eagled the 30th. Ferrier pulled the game out of the fire on the 33rd and 34th.

MOORE, DICKINSON IN ORLEANS FINALS

NEW ORLEANS, March 12—(AP)—Joe Moore, Jr., and Gardner Dickinson, Jr., tangle again tomorrow in the 36-hole finals of the New Orleans Country Club's 12th annual Invitational golf tourney.

Moore, from San Antonio, Texas, is defending the title he won from his former Louisiana State University teammate last year.

This is the third straight year Dickinson, medalist this year, has participated in the tourney finals. He won the crown from Alpheus Winter in 1947.

Moore played smooth golf today. He eliminated Raymond Salmen, 4 and 2, and then took Bob Rosburg, former junior national titleholder of Los Angeles, 2 and 1.

Morgan and Fottrell, co-medalist in the National Amateur last year, gave Dickinson some unpleasant moments before losing 2 and 1. Gardner went above par for the first time in the tourney as he played against tricky winds.

In quarter-finals, Rosburg took Al Triche, of L. S. U., 3 and 2.

HOUTTEMAN'S CONDITION REPORTED 'ABOUT SAME'

LAKELAND, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Art Houtteman, the Detroit Tigers' big righthand pitcher whose skull was fractured in a serious traffic crash Thursday night, was "about the same" today and doctors grew optimistic over his condition.

Three Boys Signed At Baseball Tryout Camp Here; 4th Undecided

John Smith, David McKenzie Of Monroe Contracted With John Tarver

Three contracts were signed by young baseball talent of this area and a pact was offered to a fourth at the conclusion of a baseball tryout camp conducted here yesterday by the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas League.

The camp was directed by Ed Head, manager of the Asheville, N. C., club of the Brooklyn Dodger system of which the Cats are also a member.

Prospects signed were announced last night by Head as John Tarver, Winnsboro; David McKenzie, Monroe, and John Smith, Monroe. A fourth contract was offered Charles Ruggs, Farmerville, but the Union parish youth declined to sign until he has the approval of his parents.

The two Monroe boys, Smith, 18-year-old outfielder, and McKenzie, a 20-year-old righthanded pitcher, have been assigned to the Paducah, Ky., club, and Tarver, an 18-year-old lefthanded hurler, will go to Sheboygan, Wis.

Smith, a former Neville High School athlete, played for the American Legion Junior baseball club here two years ago, and last year performed in the outfield for the Columbia Ramblers of the semi-pro North Central Louisiana League.

McKenzie was only recently discharged from the navy, and Tarver is one of Coach John Nicosia's products of American Legion Junior baseball at Winnsboro.

There is still a possibility that Ruggs, 17-year-old righthanded chunker for Coach "Doc" Elliott's Farmerville Legion club the last two seasons, may yet decide to accept a contract. Head said Ruggs wanted the approval of his mother before signing. He said the other boys had obtained their parents' consent.

Head, aided in operation of the tryouts by Bob Tarleton, chief Fort Worth scout, and Bill Bagwell, ex-professional ball player of Choudrant, last night said they were mighty pleased with the results of the tryouts.

"Finding four boys with such possibilities as Ruggs, Smith, Tarver, and McKenzie in one group is really more than we bargained for," Head declared. "Usually directors of such tryout camps feel fortunate if they can find one player out of every hundred."

Head, who will leave here tonight on his way to the Dodger system's spring training camp at Vero Beach, Fla., last night said a very brief tryout session would be held this morning at Casino Park for the benefit of athletes from Northwestern State College who had earlier notified him they would not be able to make the Saturday appointment but desired to make the showing Saturday morning. He said he would hold a brief session for the late arrivals at 9:30 a. m.

SYRACUSE EASILY TAKES COLLEGIATE FISTIC EVENT

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 12.—(AP)—Syracuse breezed to its eighth team championship in the Intercollegiate Boxing Association championships tonight, carrying off three individual championships enroute.

The orange-clad boxers piled up 24 points in the scoring for the Edward J. Neil Memorial trophy, emblematic of the team title. The trophy was named in honor of the former Associated Press boxing expert and war correspondent who was killed during the war in Spain.

Penn State edged out Virginia, 1948 team winner, for second place when Chuck Drazenovich beat out Marty Crandell of Syracuse in the concluding bout to retain his heavyweight title.

Penn State collected 14 points to Virginia's 13. Other team scores were Army eight points and Catholic University five. Western Maryland failed to score.

The outstanding absentee from the Derby Trial is Clifford Mooer's Old Rockport, winner of the Santa Anita Derby during the California winter season. Old Rockport was an arrival in Kentucky this week, and while he is not eligible to the Trial it is not unlikely that he will be started at Churchill Downs prior to the "Run For The Roses."

Most of the other 35 eligibles to the Derby which were not named for the Trial are horses which will be given their pre-Derby tests at tracks distant from Churchill Downs. They include a number of Californna and Canadian-owned candidates as well as other colts whose performance at New York at Maryland tracks will determine whether they will be shipped to Louisville to compete for America's greatest turf prize.

Olympia, winner of Hialeah's Flamingo Stakes, was named for the Trial as was his stablemate, Ocean Drive. Other Derby Trial eligibles are:

Blue Peter, Harbourton, Mills Bennett, Certify, Jacks Town, King Afton, Palestinian, Count-A-Bit, Fighting Louie, Bare All, Full Speed, Going Away, Rookwood, Bel King, DeLuxe, Ponder, Whirl Home, Forker, Algasir, Carry Message, Petey Cotter, Commodore Lea, Roundeleer, Flower Bed, On the Eye, Provocative, Air Attack, Engle Man, Capot, Repentance, Wine List, Bolero, Castile, Kit Carson, Shakeme, Pharan, Colonel Mike, Johns Joy, Curandero, Swap Out, Taran, Mail From Home, Lextown, Mr. Biddoo, Solar Lad, Irish Wit, Superb Command, The Poet, Halt, Sport Page, Polly Lass, Mirabeau, Admiral Lea, Teammate, Repetition, Raucous, Senecas Coin, Pansho Supreme, Duplicator, Illuminable, Bar Sinister, Stone Age, Vinita Toney, Bleury Street, Roman Bout, Mr. Smug, Wellsab, Ourquest, Prince Quest, Royal Answer, Wide Request, Angel of War, Fuscat, and The Blue.

Calumet's Citation was the first horse to win both the Derby Trial and Derby since the Trial was added to the spring program at Churchill Downs. He laso was the first horse to win both the Belmont Futurity and Kentucky Derby. The Derby Trial was first run as a stakes race in 1938 when The Chief ran the mile in 1:35 4/5.

MINIATURE AUTO RACERS TO MEET HERE ON SUNDAY

Monroe Club Preparing For Third Annual Classic At Bernstein Park

Monroe's miniature autobomile racers today begin making arrangements for their third annual miniature speedway classic here next Sunday at the Monroe club's concrete racing oval at the Bernstein Park Hobby Center.

Miniature racers from throughout the south are expected here for the event, one of four being conducted nationally next Sunday. The meetings Sunday serve as qualifying events for the National Miniature Speedway classic to be held in conjunction with the American Miniature Race Car Association's August convention at Indianapolis, Ind.

Contestants are due to begin arriving here Friday, and the Bernstein Park track should be a busy spot for the two days prior to the meet as the entries put their little speeders through tune-up trial runs.

"Fran" Brennan, past regional director of the national association and a leader of the local organization, last night said members of the Louisiana Miniature Race Car Club at Monroe would turnout today for trial runs and also to get their trak in top condition for the visiting racers.

Glen Matthews, Rockford, Ill., president of the national association, also plans to pay Monroe another visit in connection with the meet.

The racers are open to the public free of charge, and next Sunday's show will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue through the afternoon with runs in two classes of miniature machines, the spur-gear cars and the proto type racers.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 12.—(AP)—Memphian Oscar Buchanan will make his debut in the scramble for a southern heavyweight boxing championship here Monday night at Robinson Auditorium.

He will tangle with Bob Sikes, Little Rock, in the second of a series of fights through which Little Rock promoters hope to determine a publicly recognized, if not official, southern titlist. The scrap is scheduled for ten rounds.

In the first elimination match last month, Sikes decisioned Buddy Scott of Jacksonville, Fla.

The plan, as announced by Promoters Les Call and Jimmy Watts, is that a fighter will remain in the running until he has been beaten twice.

'AA' CROWNS WON BY ST. ALOYSIUS, JENNINGS TEAMS

Holy Cross Boys, Istrouma Girls Beaten In State Title Finals

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP) The Jennings girls and the St. Aloysius boys of New Orleans are champs in Louisiana's Class AA basketball.

The Jennings sextette defeated Istrouma of Baton Rouge, 33-20, tonight.

The St. Aloysius boys beat their home town rivals, Holy Cross, 36-30.

In consolation games the Dominican girls of New Orleans defeated Bolton, 35-34, and the Catholic High boys of Baton Rouge defeated Fortier of New Orleans, 49-41.

In the girls' finals, Jennings led all the way, having a halftime advantage of 22-9. "Red" McCrocklin, Jennings, was high scorer with 14 points.

Holy Cross led in the boys' finals until early in the fourth quarter when St. Aloysius forged ahead. At halftime Holy Cross led, 14-8. Brennan and Peltier, Aloysius, were high scorers with 10 points each. Doll led Holy Cross wtih eight.

It was the second time in three years the St. Aloysius boys have held the title, having won in 1947. Jesuits, of New Orleans, defending champs, were defeated yesterday by Catholic High, 32-23.

An all-state girls' team selected at the tourney consists of:

Forwards—Archie Pullen, Bolton; Neddie Disch, Istrouma; "Red" McCrocklin, Jennings; Jay New, Jennings; Pincus, Bolton; Gail Groetsch, Dominican. Guards—Johnny Celou, Dominican; Muchirson, Bolton; Nona Lee Tonn, Jennings; Margie Vincent, Istrouma; Jewel Lozes, Dominican; and Barbara Mae Miller, Jennings.

The boys' all-state team:

Chighizola, St. Aloysius; Doll, Holy Cross; Barnett, Fortier; Ruckman, Lafayette; Marks, Holy Cross; Cohen, Peters; Brennan, St. Aloysius; Torregrassa, Catholic High; Major, Catholic High; Clarke, Baton Rouge.

Earlier today Fortier's boys lost to St. Aloysius, 30-50, and Catholic High was defeated, 47-42, by Holy Cross.

Istrouma, defending girls' champions, knocked off Dominican, 23-14, today. Jennings beat Bolton, 24-17.

St. Aloysius' runaway rout of Fortier today was strongly contrasted against the nip and tuck Holy Cross-Catholic High struggle, which went into an extra period.

After a slow start, Catholic High caught fire and tied the score at 38-all when the whistle blew ending the fourth period. The Baton Rougeans were ahead, 42-41, with 40 seconds of the extra frame remaining, but three quick goals wrapped it up for Holy Cross.

Top-seeded St. Aloysius coasted to its 50-30 victory over Fortier. The sharp-shooting New Orleans quintet piled up big scores yesterday also in advancing to the finals, downing Bolton, 68-31, and Lafayette, 65-34.

MANY SURPRISE WINNER IN BOTH MEET DIVISIONS

Becomes First School To Sweep Both State Cage Titles In 38 Years

LAFAYETTE, La., March 12—(AP)—Many High School pulled a trick that had not been performed since 1911 tonight when it wept both the boys' and girls' divisions of the State Class A basketball tournament at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Not since Baton Rouge High School captured both divisions 38 years ago had one high school monopolized top honors i both divisions.

Many had an easy time in breezing through final games.

Guard Leo MacDonald and Forward Gerald Bryant scored 33 points between them to lead Many's Tiger to a 46-27 rout of Bossier City in the boys finals.

MacDonald's floor work and shooting were standouts in the three-day meet.

The Many sextette delivered in the clean sweep by downing Homer, 38-28, in the girls' championship game. Many broke a 13-13 tie in the second quarter and led the rest of the way.

Forwards Nelwyn Hayes and Ann Pearson were outstanding for the champs and scored 20 and 14 points respectively.

JONESVILLE OUT; OAK GROVE JOINS SEMI-PRO LEAGUE

John Blanchard Replaces Gibbs As Loop's Secretary-Treasurer

WINNSBORO, La., March 12—(Special)—The Jonesville Blues, who came in long enough to help organize the new Northeast Louisiana Baseball League, have withdrawn their membership in the semi-pro circuit, Don Mayer, league president, announced yesterday.

Mayer said Oak Grove, which applied for membership two weeks before, had been extended the Jonesville franchise, thus keeping the league an eight-club circuit.

The withdrawal of Jonesville and the admittance of Oak Grove took place at a league meeting here Thursday night.

At the same time the league directors accepted the resignation of Lawrence Gibbs, Monroe, as secretary-treasurer of the organization, and elected John Blanchard, associate editor of the Franklin Sun, to the post.

Mayer also said the league directors had tenatively accepted a 49-game schedule prepared by Paul Martin, sports editor of the Monroe Morning World. The directors took copies of the schedule for study and will make their final decision at the league's next meeting here March 24.

Prospective league umpires are also invited to attend the next meeting as important matters concerning the staff of umpires will be taken up.

In its efforts to attract good umpires, the league has fixed pay rates for the game officials at $20 per day and $10 on days of rained out games. The league plans to play three days each week.

ROBINSON GETS WARNING AGAINST OTHER FLAREUPS

MIAMI, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Jackie Robinson, Negro second baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was called on the carpet today by baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler about his recent flare-up against a teammate at the Dodgers' spring training camp game at Vero Beach.

Chandler expressed annoyance over a statement attributed to Robinson after the game, quoting him as saying: "They (rival players) better be prepared to be rough this year, because I'm going to be rough on them.'

Robinson denied making such a statement and minimized the tiff with his teammate, Chris Van Cuyk, a rookie pitcher.

"It wasn't anywhere as serious as the newspapers made it appear," he said. "We just jockeyed each other as players do once in a while, and I lost myself in the heat of the moment and said something I shouldn't have. I was sorry a minute after I said it."

Chandler accepted Robinson's word for it, but warned him to avoid any unpleasantness hereafter.

3 SOUTHEASTERN CLUBS EXPECTING LARGER CROWDS

Meridian, Jackson, Selma Looking For Record Turnouts At Home

By Sterling Slappey

ATLANTA, March 12—(AP)—Three Southeastern League baseball teams expect to set new attendance records this season while a fourth hopes to outdraw 1948.

Meridian attracted 62,808 last season to set a new local record. This year, C. B. Rawlings, general manager of the Peps, predicts another record-breaker—90,000.

Willis Hudlin, manager of the Jackson Senators, looks for 150,000 in 1949 which would break the 142,000 record set last year. Jackson led the league in 1948 attendance.

The weakest draw in 1948 was Selma with only 38,169 out for Clover Leaf home games. But Charles Slacum, general manager, doesn't expect that to be the case again this year. Slacum predicts a 75,000 turnout which probably would put Selma ahead of about three other teams. Selma's record season was in 1947 when 61,000 came out.

The Montgomery Rebels won the pennant in 1948 but they were 31,000 fans back of Jackson at the gate. This year Maurice Mandelcorn, business manager, expects an increase from 111,000 to 125,000. The Rebels' best year was 1947 with 165,000 fans.

Six Southeastern teams last year drew 613,000. Anniston declined to say what the Rams' draw was or what the outlook is this time.

Here's the order of their 1948 attendance: Jackson; Montgomery; Pensacola with 93,000; Vicksburg, 88,000; Gadsden, 78,000; Meridian, and Selma.

In addition to Jackson, Meridian, Selma and Montgomery, here are the top attendance years by teams:

Gadsden, 1947, 135,000; Vicksburg, 1947, 99,000, and Pensacola, 1946, 126,000.

Although Wally Dashiell, president of the Pensacola Fliers, would not venture out to see how strong his attendance limb might be this season, the Fliers have a good chance to exceed the 1948 draw. New lights have been installed at Legion Field and the team is expected to be stronger than last season's fifth place finisher.

DEMON NINE GETS SPORTS IN OPENER

Northwestern State In First Game Of Season Wednesday Afternoon

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 12.—(AP)—A game with the Shreveport Sports will officially usher in the 1949 baseball season for the Northwestern State College Demons Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., at the Natchitoches baseball park.

With ten returning lettermen, Coach Alvin (Cracker) Brown may be able to field a formidable nine. However, several squad members reported late because of football drills, and an additional three players will probably report after returning from the N. A. I. B. basketball tourney in Kansas City, Mo.

Taking the squad by positions, there are four candidates for the backstop position. Glenn Williams, Shreveport junior, returns for another season. He carried the major catching load last season. Competition for this position will come from big Al Nicosia, Winnsboro junior, who has had considerable experience, and is known as a distance hitter; Sam Harper, Minden sophomore, and Sam Rubin, Monroe junior.

Coach Brown has plenty of pitching prospects. Bill Quinn, Ronda Daville, Bobby Johnson and Jim Willis return from last year's squad. In addition he has some promising hurlers in Ronald Martin and James Cox, Natchitoches lads; Fred Lindsay, Downsville, and Huey Nolan, of West Monroe. Quinn is a senior from Serepta; Davilla hails from far away Cabo Rojo; Johnson, a senior, is from Shreveport, and Willis is from Doyline. Cox is the only lefthander in the group.

The Demons play a full schedule this season, meeting Gulf States Conference opponents and several non-conference foes.

With the return of the basketball squad Linwood Ouzts, Artie Ranew and Willis will doff the cage uniforms and head for the diamond. All three are pitchers and Ranew is reported to be a first sacker as wel as a capable moundsman.

CYCLE ON SIDEWALK BREAKS GIRL'S LEG

Sarah Jane Flacy, 10-year-old daughter of C. W. Flacy, of 410 South Second street, suffered a broken leg early last night when she collided with a bicycle on the sidewalk in front of her home.

The bike, ridden by Sonny Roark, was traveling north on the South Second street sidewalk when Sarah Jane ran out from the side of her home and was struck.

The girl was knocked unconscious and did not regain consciousness until after she arrived at the St. Francis sanitarium, where X-rays revealed that both bones in her left leg were broken just above the ankle.

The little girl said last night she didn't remember the accident but her father, who is a member of the Monroe fire department, witnessed the collision from the front porch of his home.

Sarah Jane is a second grade pupil of the Ouachita Parish Grammar school.

Outfielder George Stone of St. Louis led the American League batters in 1906 with .358, the only rookie ever to top the circuit's hitters.

Pacifist Group To Launch Tax-Withholding Program

150 Members Of Presbyterian Minister's Organization Join Plan

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—A pacifist Presbyterian minister said today 150 members of a peace-seeking group had decided they would not pay any federal income taxes to be used for financing "war preparations."

The Rev. A. J. Muste, national secretary of the Peacemaker, said today he, himself, was one of "about 15" members of the organization in the New York City area who have launched the tax resistance movement.

Muste described the Peacemakers as a "non-violent revolutionary pacifist group engaged in a campaign similar to that of the late Mahatma Gandhi in India." The organization has about 2,000 members, he said.

The 150 persons throughout the country who have joined in the tax resistance movement, Muste said, have either decided "to withhold all their taxes or just that part of them which proportionately would go to war preparations."

In explaining the movement, Muste said:

"The greatest possible evil today is that of atomic and biological war. We must use every possible means, including that of civil disobedience, to stop the possibility of our country waging war."

Asked if he anticipated substantial growth of the movement, Muste replied:

"There would be a great many more people who would participate if their taxes were not withheld by employers under the law."

Muste predicted general resistance to war preparedness in the form of refusals to register for draft and the tax resistance movement would increase.

He said the Peacemakers organization is "completely non-political, opposed to totalitarianism in any form, including communism."

Muste also is national chairman of the Fellowship of Reconciliation which he described as a religious organization numbering some 15,000 and dedicated to peace.

Meanwhile, in Yellow Springs, Ohio, a 75-year-old Quaker widow deducted 32.2 per cent from the first installment of her income tax because she said "war and preparation for war in the atomic area is a crime against humanity."

Mrs. Caroline Urie failed last year in a similar protest. She deducted 34.6 per cent of her estimated tax for the year, but after taxes in her bracket were reduced, she had still paid more than was called for and at the year's end the government owed her money.

Two other Yellow Springs residents announced similar action. They were Dr. Ralph Templin, 55-year-old former Methodist minister who said he has refused to pay anything, and Dr. Horace Champney, 43-year-old psychologist, who said he withheld 50 per cent of his tax.

Mrs. Urie said she had made sure the same things wouldn't happen this year. She said she would withhold the full amount of military taxes by paying only the first installment of the tax now and giving herself until Jan. 15, 1950, to pay the final quarter.

In duplicate letters to President Truman and the collector of internal revenue, Mrs. Urie wrote today:

"I am fulfilling the responsibility implicit in the judgments rendered by the representatives of my government at the German and Japanese war trials that an individual is obligated to refuse participation in crimes against humanity."

The percentages deducted by Mrs. Urie are her own estimates.

"I do not wish to evade contributing my full share toward the welfare of society," she wrote, "and am again making an outright gift of the withheld 32.3 per cent of my tax to three non-profit agencies working for peace and the abolition of war, and am enclosing receipts with my tax return as evidence that the full amount of the tax has been paid."

WIRETAPPING

which criticized O'Dwyer's actions as Brooklyn district attorney.

The mayor, who won fame in his days as district attorney by smashing "Murder, Inc.," took part in the questioning of both Kenneth Ryan and Jones. Associates said he was largely responsible for getting admissions from them.

O'Dwyer went to city hall last midnight and remained until noon today. The building blazed all night. Many high city officials including Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien were there.

Police said a "wiretapping arsenal" was found in Kenneth Ryan's home in Yonkers. They brought the material, which they valued at $10,000, to police headquarters in a van.

At Jones house in the Bronx, police said they found a "walkie talkie" device for use with a portable tape recorder in recording conversations. The recorder is a small spool that can be carried in a vest pocket and the transmitter for it can be carried in the arm pit, they said.

Kenneth Ryan was taken into custody last night after police said they had found a tap on the phone of Hugo Rogers, Manhattan borough president and leader of Tammany Hall, leading Democratic organization.

During the 20 years he was on the police force, the former detective became an expert in wiretapping. One of his duties was to check phones of public officials to see if they were tapped. Among the places he checked was Gracie Mansion, the mayor's home.

Wiretapping without court authorization is a felony in New York state.

Wisconsin had to come from behind to gain a tie. The Spartans were leading 4-3 before Badger Heavyweight Bob Ranck managed a 30-28 decision over Spartan Art Hughlett.

There were no knockdowns or T. K. o's.

Michigan State's Chuck Davey, three-time N. C. A. A. champion and undefeated in college competition, gave Don Dickinson of Wisconsin a boxing lesson to win a clear cut 30-25 decision in a 145-pound bout. The blonde Detroiter was 135-pound champion for the last two years.

Dickinson was the 1948 N. C. A. A. 145-pound champion.

JONESVILLE OUT; OAK GROVE JOINS SEMI-PRO LEAGUE

John Blanchard Replaces Gibbs As Loop's Secretary-Treasurer

WINNSBORO, La., March 12—(Special)—The Jonesville Blues, who came in long enough to help organize the new Northeast Louisiana Baseball League, have withdrawn their membership in the semi-pro circuit, Don Mayer, league president, announced yesterday.

Mayer said Oak Grove, which applied for membership two weeks before, had been extended the Jonesville franchise, thus keeping the league an eight-club circuit.

The withdrawal of Jonesville and the admittance of Oak Grove took place at a league meeting here Thursday night.

At the same time the league directors accepted the resignation of Lawrence Gibbs, Monroe, as secretary-treasurer of the organization, and elected John Blanchard, associate editor of the Franklin Sun, to the post.

Mayer also said the league directors had tenatively accepted a 49-game schedule prepared by Paul Martin, sports editor of the Monroe Morning World. The directors took copies of the schedule for study and will make their final decision at the league's next meeting here March 24.

Prospective league umpires are also invited to attend the next meeting as important matters concerning the staff of umpires will be taken up.

In its efforts to attract good umpires, the league has fixed pay rates for the game officials at $20 per day and $10 on days of rained out games. The league plans to play three days each week.

In the semi-finals, Denham Springs defeated Lake Providence by a 49 to 37 score, and Hall Summitt won over Marthaville, 43-29.

Lake Providence came back from their defeat to win the consolation game over Marthaville by a 46-28 score.

The Baskin girls won their 81st straight game without a defeat by topping Forest, 51-17. Baskin has captured four tournament crowns this year.

Oak Grove of West Carroll parish knocked off Castor's girls, 40-26, to gain the right to play Baskin for the girls' title in the final game.

In the consolation girls contest Castor won over Forest, 35-31.

ROBINSON GETS WARNING AGAINST OTHER FLAREUPS

MIAMI, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Jackie Robinson, Negro second baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was called on the carpet today by baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler about his recent flare-up against a teammate at the Dodgers' spring training camp game at Vero Beach.

Chandler expressed annoyance over a statement attributed to Robinson after the game, quoting him as saying: "They (rival players) better be prepared to be rough this year, because I'm going to be rough on them."

Robinson denied making such a statement and minimized the tiff with his teammate, Chris Van Cuyk, a rookie pitcher.

"It wasn't anywhere as serious as the newspapers made it appear," he said. "We just jockeyed each other as players do once in a while, and I lost myself in the heat of the moment and said something I shouldn't have. I was sorry a minute after I said it."

Chandler accepted Robinson's word for it, but warned him to avoid any unpleasantness hereafter.

3 SOUTHEASTERN CLUBS EXPECTING LARGER CROWDS

Meridian, Jackson, Selma Looking For Record Turnouts At Home

By Sterling Slappey

ATLANTA, March 12—(AP)—Three Southeastern League baseball teams expect to set new attendance records this season while a fourth hopes to outdraw 1948.

Meridian attracted 62,808 last season to set a new local record. This year, C. B. Rawlings, general manager of the Peps, predicts another record-breaker—90,000.

Willis Hudlin, manager of the Jackson Senators, looks for 150,000 in 1949 which would break the 142,000 record set last year. Jackson led the league in 1948 attendance.

The weakest draw in 1948 was Selma with only 38,169 out for Clover Leaf home games. But Charles Slacum, general manager, doesn't expect that to be the case again this year. Slacum predicts a 75,000 turnout which probably would put Selma ahead of about three other teams. Selma's record season was in 1947 when 61,000 came out.

The Montgomery Rebels won the pennant in 1948 but they were 31,000 fans back of Jackson at the gate. This year Maurice Mandelcorn, business manager, expects an increase from 111,000 to 125,000. The Rebels' best year was 1947 with 165,000 fans.

Six Southeastern teams last year drew 613,000. Anniston declined to say what the Rams' draw was or what the outlook is this time.

Here's the order of their 1948 attendance: Jackson; Montgomery; Pensacola with 93,000; Vicksburg, 88,000; Gadsden, 78,000; Meridian, and Selma.

In addition to Jackson, Meridian, Selma and Montgomery, here are the top attendance years by teams:

Gadsden, 1947, 135,000; Vicksburg, 1947, 99,000, and Pensacola, 1946, 126,000.

Although Wally Dashiell, president of the Pensacola Fliers, would not venture out to see how strong his attendance limb might be this season, the Fliers have a good chance to exceed the 1948 draw. New lights have been installed at Legion Field and the team is expected to be stronger than last season's fifth place finisher.

DEMON NINE GETS SPORTS IN OPENER

Northwestern State In First Game Of Season Wednesday Afternoon

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 12.—(AP)—A game with the Shreveport Sports will officially usher in the 1949 baseball season for the Northwestern State College Demons Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., at the Natchitoches baseball park.

With ten returning lettermen, Coach Alvin (Cracker) Brown may be able to field a formidable nine. However, several squad members reported late because of football drills, and an additional three players will probably report after returning from the N. A. I. B. basketball tourney in Kansas City, Mo.

Taking the squad by positions, there are four candidates for the backstop position. Glenn Williams, Shreveport junior, returns for another season. He carried the major catching load last season. Competition for this position will come from big Al Nicosia, Winnsboro junior, who has had considerable experience, and is known as a distance hitter; Sam Harper, Minden sophomore, and Sam Rubin, Monroe junior.

Coach Brown has plenty of pitching prospects. Bill Quinn, Ronda Daville, Bobby Johnson and Jim Willis return from last year's squad. In addition he has some promising hurlers in Ronald Martin and James Cox, Natchitoches lads; Fred Lindsay, Downsville, and Huey Nolan, of West Monroe. Quinn is a senior from Serepta; Davilla hails from far away Cabo Rojo; Johnson, a senior, is from Shreveport, and Willis is from Doyline. Cox is the only lefthander in the group.

The Demons play a full schedule this season, meeting Gulf States Conference opponents and several non-conference foes.

With the return of the basketball squad Linwood Outts, Artie Ranew and Willis will doff the cage uniforms and head for the diamond. All three are pitchers and Ranew is reported to be a first sacker as wel as a capable moundsman.

CYCLE ON SIDEWALK BREAKS GIRL'S LEG

Sarah Jane Flacy, 10-year-old daughter of C. W. Flacy, of 410 South Second street, suffered a broken leg early last night when she collided with a bicycle on the sidewalk in front of her home.

The bike, ridden by Sonny Roark, was traveling north on the South Second street sidewalk when Sarah Jane ran out from the side of her home and was struck.

The girl was knocked unconscious and did not regain consciousness until after she arrived at the St. Francis sanitarium, where X-rays revealed that both bones in her left leg were broken just above the ankle.

The little girl said last night she didn't remember the accident but her father, who is a member of the Monroe fire department, witnessed the collision from the front porch of his home.

Sarah Jane is a second grade pupil of the Ouachita Parish Grammar school.

Outfielder George Stone of St. Louis led the American League batters in 1906 with .358, the only rookie ever to top the circuit's hitters.

The night's new records were by Theyx Stewart, Georgia, in the 150-yard individual medley; Johnny Hiles, Georgia Tech, 440-yard freestyle, and the Tech team in the 300-yard medley relay.

Stewart and Hiles each won two events and set two new records in the meet. Horace Sasser of Georgia was supreme in the diving competition, taking both the one and three meter events.

In the girls' Class C semi-finals, Forest Hill nosed out Noble, 17-13, and Linville eked out a 33-32 victory over Fort Necessity.

Pacifist Group To Launch Tax-Withholding Program

150 Members Of Presbyterian Minister's Organization Join Plan

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—A pacifist Presbyterian minister said today 150 members of a peace-seeking group had decided they would not pay any federal income taxes to be used for financing "war preparations."

The Rev. A. J. Muste, national secretary of the Peacemaker, said today he, himself, was one of "about 15" members of the organization in the New York City area who have launched the tax resistance movement.

Muste described the Peacemakers as a "non-violent revolutionary pacifist group engaged in a campaign similar to that of the late Mahatma Gandhi in India." The organization has about 2,000 members, he said.

The 150 persons throughout the country who have joined in the tax resistance movement, Muste said, have either decided "to withhold all their taxes or just that part of them which proportionately would go to war preparations."

In explaining the movement, Muste said:

"The greatest possible evil today is that of atomic and biological war. We must use every possible means, including that of civil disobedience, to stop the possibility of our country waging war."

Asked if he anticipated substantial growth of the movement, Muste replied:

"There would be a great many more people who would participate if their taxes were not withheld by employers under the law."

Muste predicted general resistance to war preparedness in the form of refusals to register for draft and the tax resistance movement would increase.

He said the Peacemakers organization is "completely non-political, opposed to totalitarianism in any form, including communism."

Muste also is national chairman of the Fellowship of Reconciliation which he described as a religious organization numbering some 15,000 and dedicated to peace.

Meanwhile, in Yellow Springs, Ohio, a 75-year-old Quaker widow deducted 32.2 per cent from the first installment of her income tax because she said "war and preparation for war in the atomic area is a crime against humanity."

Mrs. Caroline Urie failed last year in a similar protest. She deducted 34.6 per cent of her estimated tax for the year, but after taxes in her bracket were reduced, she had still paid more than was called for and at the year's end the government owed her money.

Two other Yellow Springs residents announced similar action. They were Dr. Ralph Templin, 55-year-old former Methodist minister who said he has refused to pay anything, and Dr. Horace Champney, 43-year-old psychologist, who said he withheld 50 per cent of his tax.

Mrs. Urie said she had made sure the same things wouldn't happen this year. She said she would withhold the full amount of military taxes by paying only the first installment of the tax now and giving herself until Jan. 15, 1950, to pay the final quarter.

In duplicate letters to President Truman and the collector of internal revenue, Mrs. Urie wrote today:

"I am fulfilling the responsibility implicit in the judgments rendered by the representatives of my government at the German and Japanese war trials that an individual is obligated to refuse participation in crimes against humanity."

The percentages deducted by Mrs. Urie are her own estimates.

"I do not wish to evade contributing my full share toward the welfare of society," she wrote, "and am again making an outright gift of the withheld 32.3 per cent of my tax to three non-profit agencies working for peace and the abolition of war, and am enclosing receipts with my tax return as evidence that the full amount of the tax has been paid."

which criticized O'Dwyer's actions as Brooklyn district attorney.

The mayor, who won fame in his days as district attorney by smashing "Murder, Inc.," took part in the questioning of both Kenneth Ryan and Jones. Associates said he was largely responsible for getting admissions from them.

O'Dwyer went to city hall last midnight and remained until noon today. The building blazed all night. Many high city officials including Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien were there.

Police said a "wiretapping arsenal" was found in Kenneth Ryan's home in Yonkers. They brought the material, which they valued at $10,000, to police headquarters in a van.

At Jones house in the Bronx, police said they found a "walkie talkie" device for use with a portable tape recorder in recording conversations. The recorder is a small spool that can be carried in a vest pocket and the transmitter for it can be carried in the arm pit, they said.

Kenneth Ryan was taken into custody last night after police said they had found a tap on the phone of Hugo Rogers, Manhattan borough president and leader of Tammany Hall, leading Democratic organization.

During the 20 years he was on the police force, the former detective became an expert in wiretapping. One of his duties was to check phones of public officials to see if they were tapped. Among the places he checked was Gracie Mansion, the mayor's home.

Wiretapping without court authorization is a felony in New York state.

DRILLERS TAME WILD WELL SOUTH OF L. S U.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 12.—(AP)—Grubb and Hawkins' Shreveport office reported Tuesday that their well No. 5 Duplantier in University Field, a mile south of the L. S. U. campus which went wild had been brought under control and all hazard has been eliminated.

The blowout came according to a crew member when a piece of timber struck the casing head valve on the Christmas tree and as it continued to blow sending a towering column of gas and distillate into the air. The well pressure built up to around 3,000 pounds.

It was shut in between 3 and 4 o'clock after being wild for approximately eight hours. The crew cut off the flow by pumping heavy mud into the hole until the well was finally killed. Repair of the Christmas tree was in progress and the well will be revived as soon as preparations are made for cleaning out and getting into production.

DRILL-UNIT CREATION IS TOPIC AT SESSION

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP)—An interim committee of the Louisiana legislature, studying conservation legislation, discussed regulations on the creation of drilling units at a brief session last night.

The committee will meet tomorrow to hear a report by its secretary, State Senator Charles Tooke of Shreveport, on a comparative study of Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and California oil legislation.

Rep. Lorris Wimberly of Bienville parish proposed to the committee tonight a plan under which landowners would share in the savings effected by oil companies when, by unitization, they reduced the number of wells they were required to drill to drain an oil pool. Wimberly unsuccessfully introduced legislation at the 1948 session to carry this plan into effect. He said he planned to reoffer it.

PLANS MEET WITH COM. S. L. DIGBY

Policies Of Unification Of Oil Fields In State Will Be Studied By Committee

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP)—Unitization policies in Louisiana's oil fields are scheduled for study next month by a legislative committee investigating the state's oil and gas laws.

Committee Secretary C. E. Tooke, Jr., state senator from Shreveport, said the group plans to meet April 24-25 with State Commission of Conservation S. L. Digby and members of his technical staff. Expected at the meeting also, he said, are an engineer from the Arkansas oil and gas commission and "a consulting geologist active in representing land and royalty owners associations."

The investigating body, created by the 1948 legislature, met here yesterday and today to compare oil and gas laws in other states and to consider a proposal to standardize gas-measuring practices.

At the April meeting, Tooke said, committeemen will consider factors on which the conservation commission "bases its decisions and rulings with reference to limitation of fields and establishment of drilling units within the fields."

In the discussion of oil and gas laws today, Tooke offerred abstracts of statutes bearing on oil conservation in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and California. He also read a proposal, sponsored by the independent petroleum association of America, to measure natural gas uniformly. He said the variety of systems used in Louisiana is "a source of as many and as much complaints as any other item."

This proposal is scheduled for further study at the May meeting, Tooke added, at which representatives of various state agencies will be asked to outline the effect of a uniform gas-measuring sysem.

Committee chairman is John J. McKeithen, Caldwell parish representative.

OIL PRODUCTION IN U. S. DROPS

Texas Reports Biggest Loss; Nation's Output Drops From 5,179,800 Barrels Daily

TULSA, Okla., March 12.—(AP)—The nation's production of crude oil averaged 5,179,800 barrels daily during the week ended March 5, a loss of 151,350 barrels from the previous week, The Oil and Gas Journal reported. Texas accounted for most of the decrease, falling off 137,875 barrels daily to 2,183,075 as the result of additional cuts in the state's allowables.

Reduced allowables also cut into Oklahoma's production, which dropped 10,900 barrels to 405,750.

Other sizeable declines were reported in Louisiana, down 11,900 barrels to 493,950; Mississippi off 800 to 102,700; Illinois, 1,400 to 177,000, and Wyoming, 1,850 to 122,100.

Kentucky dropped 200 barrels to 23,300, Florida was off to 1,125 to 1,125, Alabama fell 100 to 1,200; Colorado lost 500 to 58,650 and Montana dropped 50 to 24,250.

Increased production was reported in the eastern area, up 700 barrels to 62,800 barrels; Kansas up 10,350 barrels to 286,900, and California, up 800 to 948,800.

Indiana's gain was 500 barrels to 23,200, Michigan increased 400 to 46,850, Arkansas was up to 82,500 and New Mexico gained 400 to 135,300.

Production in Nebraska, 300 barrels, was unchanged.

Averages:

	Mar. 5 Crude Oil	B. of M. Demand	Feb. 26 Crude Oil
Louisiana	493,950	480,000	505,850
North Louisiana	117,950		505,550
South Louisiana	376,000		386,300
Mississippi	102,700	126,000	103,500

NEW OIL PRODUCER IS OPENED IN TIDELANDS

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—Humble Oil and Refining Co., reported a new oil producing area in the Gulf of Mexico tidelands has been opened seven miles south of Timbalier Island.

The location is offshore from Terrebonne parish (county) on the Louisiana coastline southwest of New Orleans.

The discovery followed closely the first oil strike of 1949 in the tidelands area by the California Co.

The Humble well on an initial test flowed at the rate of 337 barrels per day through a one-eight inch choke. Perforation was at 9,550-58 feet.

Tidelands—

Congress Could Determine Ownership By New Measure

Agreement Is Universal That Legislators Have Power If They Use It

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth and last of a series of articles detailing the history of the long fight between the federal government and the states over the oil-rich tidelands, together with an analysis of the present status of the struggle and the prospects for its eventual settlement.)

By Edward Jamieson
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Congress, if it desires, can determine by legislation whether the tidelands belong to the states or to the federal government, irrespective of decisions by the United States supreme court on this controversy.

There seems to be virtually universal agreement that congress has this power, even though the department of justice took the issue to the high tribunal without direction from congress and in face of a majority vote in both the senate and house of representatives affarming title to the submerged lands in the respective states.

What congress will finally accomplish in settling the hotly fought battle, however, remains in doubt.

Eventually, legislation of one kind or another must be enacted. The federal government, despite its victory in the suit against California, has its hands tied in putting the decision into practical effect by lack of necessary legislation. At the same time, the states have begun again their drive for enactment of a bill which would definitely and finally declare the ownership and control of the tidelands in the states.

A number of bills similar to the one passed by both houses and vetoed by the president in 1946, and again passed by the house in 1948, have been introduced in the house of representatives this session. Because of his long leadership in the fight for the states, the measure sponsored by Representative Ed Gossett of Texas, is the one which is expected to be considered.

Meanwhile, administration bills needed to implement the California decision have been introduced in the senate by Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney of the public lands committee and Chairman Manuel Celler of the house judiciary committee. Both men have expressed their determination to press for enactment of their bills, and will fight measures sponsored by the states.

There is little doubt but what the results of last November's election hurt the chances of the states' bill and improved the prospects of the administration measure. The Republican party platform included a flat declaration in favor of state ownership of the tidelands, and G. O. P. vice-presidential Candidate Earl Warren committed himself to the promise.

Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey failed to make a positive commitment during the campaign on the issue, but had been expected to follow the party program.

The states were successful in keeping from the Democratic platform any declaration favoring federal ownership, but could not win an assurance for the states. But when President Truman delivered his state-of-the-union message to congress in January, he bluntly declared:

"We must adopt a program for the planned use of the petroleum reserves under the sea which are—and must remain—vested in the federal government.

This was acknowledged by even the most enthusiastic supporters of the states' position that they face the overwhelming task of passing their state-ownership bill over an almost certain presidential veto. This means that they must secure a two-thirds majority in both the senate and the house.

On the basis of the last vote on this issue in the house, it is probable that the two-thirds majority could be obtained. The last roll-call in the senate, taken in 1946, gives less hope in that body. The vote on the state bill at that time was 44 to 34. There has, of course, been some changes in the make-up of the senate since that time, but as yet, there is no positive indication that views of the present membership on this question have substantially altered this ratio.

As a result, prospects today are that the opposing sides are building stalemate on legislation which may continue for some time, barring a reversal by the the supreme court of its earlier position in the forthcoming cases involving the tidelands of Texas and Louisiana.

Proponents of the state-ownership bill, confident of a majority vote in congress, but not so sure of the necessary two-thirds to override a veto, have no fear that they can block enactment of the administration measure.

Leaders of the states' fight flatly declare that they do not intend and will not compromise the controversy. They insist that there are no grounds upon which a compromise could be based.

On the other hand, there is a hint that the administration is ready to offer a compromise, though no indication as yet what its terms might be.

This hint was disclosed in the O'Mahoney bill, virtually identical to the measure sponsored in the last congress by Vice-President Alben Barkley except for one notable exception. Under the terms of the Barkley bill, which made no headway whatsoever in the 80th Congress, revenues secured by the proposed federal Submerged Coastal Lands Commission from oil and other mineral royalties would have been disbursed as follows:

Fifty-two and one-half per cent of the total would have gone into the federal reclamation fund for expenditures on reclamation, irrigation and power projects as authorized by law.

Thirty-seven and one-half per cent would have been returned to the states adjoining the tidelands, "said moneys to be used by the state or its political subdivisions for the construction and maintenance of public roads or public parks or for the support of public schools or other public educational institutions."

The balance of the money would be returned directly to the federal treasury.

The new O'Mahoney bill significantly failed to include this method of distributing the funds, or any method at all. The explanation was that this should be a matter for Congress to decide. General reaction in Congress, however, when this omission was discovered, was that the Administration was leaving the door open for Congress to return a larger share of the royalties and other revenue to the states, if such a proposal would mean enactment of the federal bill.

Thus far, neither side has made an open move to start consideration of their respective bills, strategy meetings have been held, but plans are being carefully concealed to prevent tipping off the other side.

The battle, when it breaks into the open promises to be a bitter one. The states have some edge but it is impossible to forecast at this time which side will be the final winner, or when the struggle will end.

BLUE BABY OPERATION REPORTED SUCCESSFUL

A recent blue-baby operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., proved successful for 13-month-old Leonard Jack Funderburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Funderburg, of 1004 South Second street.

The baby, accompanied by it's parents and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Jack Funderburg, of Cleveland, Miss., spent seven weeks at Johns Hopkins where two operations were performed by Dr. Alfred Blalock. Prior to the first operation, the child spent five days under observation and examination.

The baby was taken to Johns Hopkins upon the advice of Dr. W. L. Bendell, the family doctor, according to Mrs. Funderburg. Dr. Bendell diagnosed the case as a blue baby and with the consent of the parents made an appointment at the Baltimore hospital.

Since the return home, the baby has been doing very well and shows signs of much improvement, according to Dr. Bendell, who keeps in contact with Johns Hopkins doctors.

Upon their return from Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Funderburg expressed their thanks to their many friends who assisted in financing the trip and operation.

The Funderburg's two year old son, Ralph, Jr., is perfectly normal and has never shown any signs of being a blue baby.

BIG CONVENTION SLATED IN APRIL

Monroe's First Baptist church will be the place where one of the biggest conventions of the year will be held. It will be that of the State Baptist Women's Missionary union and will be in session here on April 5, 6 and 7.

Advance reservations indicate that 1,000 women from all over Louisiana, will attend.

An outstanding speaker will be Mrs. George Martin, Norfolk, Va., who is president of the Southern Baptist mission work in Louisiana.

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The stock market timidly stepped ahead today, apparently a bit tired out after yesterday's substantial rise.

Gains for favored issues ran from fractions to around a point, with the great majority in fractions. Numerous issues remained at Friday's close and a handful backed down a trifle.

Only a moderate amount of business was done. Turnover was at the rate of around 350,000 shares for the full session.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly, with selective demand for rails in evidence.

Some selling continued to be attracted to the market by declining textile production.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

DRILLERS BRING IN FIVE GAS PRODUCERS IN MONROE FIELD

New Oil Wells Are Found At Lake St. John Field In Tensas And Concordia Parishes; Four New Locations Are Cited

Two oil producers and five gas wells were brought in during the past week by drillers in three Northeast Louisiana parishes, the Conservation Department's weekly report showed yesterday.

Another well in Madison parish was abandoned and a location in Union parish was given up. A total of four new locations were staked out in LaSalle, Richland and Union parishes.

The California Company's L. S. J. Unit No. 24, in 29-9-10E of the Lake St. John field in Tensas parish, was brought in with a yield of 833 barrels per day at a total depth of 10,204 feet.

The other oil producer brought in last week was the California Company's L. S. J. Unit 2 Tremont 186 No. 1 in 6-9-10E of the Lake St. John field in Concordia parish. Unearthed at 9,360 feet, the new well produced 273 barrels.

Five new gas fields were struck by drillers in the Monroe field of Union parish. They were:

The South C. C. Interstate No. 1 in 33-22-3E, with an output of 327,000 cubic feet; the United Carbon Company's Frost Lumber Industry No. D-7 in 17-21-3E, 908,000 cubic feet; the United Carbon Company's Frost Lumber Industry's E-1 and E-2 in 8-21-3E, respective yield of 642,000 cubic feet and 687,000 cubic feet, and the United Carbon Company's J. B. Lankford No. 1 in 2-21-3E, 172,000 cubic feet.

The location of the J. A. Funston, et al, Burnside Heirs No. 1 in 30-23-1E if the Truxno field in Union parish, was abandoned.

The well abandoned, the Continental Oil Company's Singer Manufacturing Company No. 4 in 2-15-11E in Madison parish, was given up at 7,070 feet.

New locations for the past week included:

The G. A. Crafton Company's Tom Russell No. 1 in 26-10-1E, and the Phil Marks Company's Tullos Heirs No. 1 in 25-10-1E, both in the Tullos Urania field in LaSalle parish: the William Petty Company's Lane-Cutler Unit No. 1 in 18-17-10E of the Delhi field in Richland parish, and the Marine Oil Company's J. Ramsey No. 1 in the Ora field of Union parish.

In Ouachita parish, the California Company's Brown Paper Mill No. 1 in 10-16-3E, had reached a total depth of 9,476. Drillers were still at work on the potential producer last week.

DRILLERS TAME WILD WELL SOUTH OF L. S U.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 12.—(AP)—Grubb and Hawkins' Shreveport office reported Tuesday that their well No. 5 Duplantier in University Field, a mile south of the L. S. U. campus which went wild had been brought under control and all hazard has been eliminated.

The blowout came according to a crew member when a piece of timber struck the casing head valve on the Christmas tree and as it continued to blow sending a towering column of gas and distillate into the air. The well pressure built up to around 3,000 pounds.

It was shut in between 3 and 4 o'clock after being wild for approximately eight hours. The crew cut off the flow by pumping heavy mud into the hole until the well was finally killed. Repair of the Christmas tree was in progress and the well will be revived as soon as preparations are made for cleaning out and getting into production.

DRILL-UNIT CREATION IS TOPIC AT SESSION

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP)—An interim committee of the Louisiana legislature, studying conservation legislation, discussed regulations on the creation of drilling units at a brief session last night.

The committee will meet tomorrow to hear a report by its secretary, State Senator Charles Tooke of Shreveport, on a comparative study of Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and California oil legislation.

Rep. Lorris Wimberly of Bienville parish proposed to the committee tonight a plan under which landowners would share in the savings effected by oil companies when, by unitization, they reduced the number of wells they were required to drill to drain an oil pool. Wimberly unsuccessfully introduced legislation at the 1948 session to carry this plan into effect. He said he planned to reoffer it.

PLANS MEET WITH COM. S. L. DIGBY

Policies Of Unification Of Oil Fields In State Will Be Studied By Committee

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12—(AP)—Unitization policies in Louisiana's oil fields are scheduled for study next month by a legislative committee investigating the state's oil and gas laws.

Committee Secretary C. E. Tooke, Jr., state senator from Shreveport, said the group plans to meet April 24-25 with State Commission of Conservation S. L. Digby and members of his technical staff. Expected at the meeting also, he said, are an engineer from the Arkansas oil and gas commission and "a consulting geologist active in representing land and royalty owners associations."

The investigating body, created by the 1948 legislature, met here yesterday and today to compare oil and gas laws in other states and to consider a proposal to standardize gas-measuring practices.

At the April meeting, Tooke said, committeemen will consider factors on which the conservation commission "bases its decisions and rulings with reference to limitation of fields and establishment of drilling units within the fields."

In the discussion of oil and gas laws today, Tooke offerred abstracts of statutes bearing on oil conservation in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and California. He also read a proposal, sponsored by the independent petroleum association of America, to measure natural gas uniformly. He said the variety of systems used in Louisiana is "a source of as many and as much complaints as any other item."

This proposal is scheduled for further study at the May meeting, Tooke added, at which representatives of various state agencies will be asked to outline the effect of a uniform gas-measuring sysem.

Committee chairman is John J. McKeithen, Caldwell parish representative.

OIL PRODUCTION IN U. S. DROPS

Texas Reports Biggest Loss; Nation's Output Drops From 5,179,800 Barrels Daily

TULSA, Okla., March 12.—(AP)—The nation's production of crude oil averaged 5,179,800 barrels daily during the week ended March 5, a loss of 151,350 barrels from the previous week. The Oil and Gas Journal reported. Texas accounted for most of the decrease, falling off 137,875 barrels daily to 2,183,075 as the result of additional cuts in the state's allowables.

Reduced allowables also cut into Oklahoma's production, which dropped 10,900 barrels to 405,750.

Other sizeable declines were reported in Louisiana, down 11,900 barrels to 493,950; Mississippi off 800 to 102,700; Illinois, 1,400 to 177,000, and Wyoming, 1,850 to 122,100.

Kentucky dropped 200 barrels to 23,300, Florida was off to 1,125 to 1,125, Alabama fell 100 to 1,200; Colorado lost 500 to 58,650 and Montana dropped 50 to 24,250.

Increased production was reported in the eastern area, up 700 barrels to 62,800 barrels; Kansas up 10,350 barrels to 286,900, and California, up 800 to 948,800.

Indiana's gain was 500 barrels to 23,200, Michigan increased 400 to 46,850, Arkansas was up to 82,500 and New Mexico gained 400 to 135,300.

Production in Nebraska, 300 barrels, was unchanged.

Averages:

	Mar. 5 Crude Oil	B. of M. Demand	Feb. 26 Crude Oil
Louisiana	493,950	480,000	505,650
North Louisiana	117,950		505,550
South Louisiana	376,000		386,300
Mississippi	102,700	126,000	103,500

NEW OIL PRODUCER IS OPENED IN TIDELANDS

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—Humble Oil and Refining Co., reported a new oil producing area in the Gulf of Mexico tidelands has been opened seven miles south of Timbalier Island.

The location is offshore from Terrebonne parish (county) on the Louisiana coastline southwest of New Orleans.

The discovery followed closely the first oil strike of 1949 in the tidelands area by the California Co.

The Humble well on an initial test flowed at the rate of 337 barrels per day through a one-eight inch choke. Perforation was at 9,550-58 feet.

Tidelands—

Congress Could Determine Ownership By New Measure

Agreement Is Universal That Legislators Have Power If They Use It

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth and last of a series of articles detailing the history of the long fight between the federal government and the states over the oil-rich tidelands, together with an analysis of the present status of the struggle and the prospects for its eventual settlement.)

By Edward Jamieson
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Congress, if it desires, can determine by legislation whether the tidelands belong to the states or to the federal government, irrespective of decisions by the United States supreme court on this controversy.

There seems to be virtually universal agreement that congress has this power, even though the department of justice took the issue to the high tribunal without direction from congress and in face of a majority vote in both the senate and house of representatives affarming title to the submerged lands in the respective states.

What congress will finally accomplish in settling the hotly fought battle, however, remains in doubt.

Eventually, legislation of one kind or another must be enacted. The federal government, despite its victory in the suit against California, has its hands tied in putting the decision into practical effect by lack of necessary legislation. At the same time, the states have begun again their drive for enactment of a bill which would definitely and finally declare the ownership and control of the tidelands in the states.

A number of bills similar to the one passed by both houses and vetoed by the president in 1946, and again passed by the house in 1948, have been introduced in the house of representatives this session. Because of his long leadership in the fight for the states, the measure sponsored by Representative Ed Gossett of Texas, is the one which is expected to be considered.

Meanwhile, administration bills needed to implement the California decision have been introduced in the senate by Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney of the public lands committee and Chairman Manuel Celler of the house judiciary committee. Both men have expressed their determination to press for enactment of their bills, and will fight measures sponsored by the states.

There is little doubt but what the results of last November's election hurt the chances of the states' bill and improved the prospects of the administration measure. The Republican party platform included a flat declaration in favor of state ownership of the tidelands, and G. O. P. vice-presidential Candidate Earl Warren committed himself to the promise.

Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey failed to make a positive commitment during the campaign on the issue, but had been expected to follow the party program.

The states were successful in keeping from the Democratic platform any declaration favoring federal ownership, but could not win an assurance for the states. But when President Truman delivered his state-of-the-union message to congress in January, he bluntly declared:

"We must adopt a program for the planned use of the petroleum reserves under the sea which are—and must remain—vested in the federal government.

This was acknowledged by even the most enthusiastic supporters of the states' position that they face the overwhelming task of passing their state-ownership bill over an almost certain presidential veto. This means that they must secure a two-thirds majority in both the senate and the house.

On the basis of the last vote on this issue in the house, it is probable that the two-thirds majority could be obtained. The last roll-call in the senate, taken in 1946, gives less hope in that body. The vote on the state bill at that time was 44 to 34. There has, of course, been some changes in the make-up of the senate since that time, but as yet, there is no positive indication that views of the present membership on this question have substantially altered this ratio.

As a result, prospects today are that the opposing sides are building stalemate on legislation which may continue for some time, barring a reversal by the the supreme court of its earlier position in the forthcoming cases involving the tidelands of Texas and Louisiana.

Proponents of the state-ownership bill, confident of a majority vote in congress, but not so sure of the necessary two-thirds to override a veto, have no fear that they can block enactment of the administration measure.

Leaders of the states' fight flatly declare that they do not intend and will not compromise the controversy. They insist that there are no grounds upon which a compromise could be based.

On the other hand, there is a hint that the administration is ready to offer a compromise, though no indication as yet what its terms might be.

This hint was disclosed in the O'Mahoney bill, virtually identical to the measure sponsored in the last congress by Vice-President Alben Barkley except for one notable exception. Under the terms of the Barkley bill, which made no headway whatsoever in the 80th Congress, revenues secured by the proposed federal Submerged Coastal Lands Commission from oil and other mineral royalties would have been disbursed as follows:

Fifty-two and one-half per cent of the total would have gone into the federal reclamation fund for expenditures on reclamation, irrigation and power projects as authorized by law.

Thirty-seven and one-half per cent would have been returned to the states adjoining the tidelands, "said moneys to be used by the state or its political subdivisions for the construction and maintenance of public roads or public parks or for the support of public schools or other public educational institutions."

The balance of the money would be returned directly to the federal treasury.

The new O'Mahoney bill significantly failed to include this method of distributing the funds, or any method at all. The explanation was that this should be a matter for Congress to decide. General reaction in Congress, however, when this omission was discovered, was that the Administration was leaving the door open for Congress to return a larger share of the royalties and other revenue to the states, if such a proposal would mean enactment of the federal bill.

Thus far, neither side has made an open move to start consideration of their respective bills, strategy meetings have been held, but plans are being carefully concealed to prevent tipping off the other side.

The battle, when it breaks into the open promises to be a bitter one. The states have some edge but it is impossible to forecast at this time which side will be the final winner, or when the struggle will end.

BLUE BABY OPERATION REPORTED SUCCESSFUL

A recent blue-baby operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., proved successful for 13-month-old Leonard Jack Funderburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Funderburg, of 1004 South Second street.

The baby, accompanied by it's parents and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Jack Funderburg, of Cleveland, Miss., spent seven weeks at Johns Hopkins where two operations were performed by Dr. Alfred Blalock. Prior to the first operation, the child spent five days under observation and examination.

The baby was taken to Johns Hopkins upon the advice of Dr. W. L. Bendell, the family doctor, according to Mrs. Funderburg. Dr. Bendell diagnosed the case as a blue baby and with the consent of the parents made an appointment at the Baltimore hospital.

Since the return home, the baby has been doing very well and shows signs of much improvement, according to Dr. Bendell, who keeps in contact with Johns Hopkins doctors.

Upon their return from Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Funderburg expressed their thanks to their many friends who assisted in financing the trip and operation.

The Funderburg's two year old son, Ralph, Jr., is perfectly normal and has never shown any signs of being a blue baby.

BIG CONVENTION SLATED IN APRIL

Advance reservations indicate that 1,000 women from all over Louisiana, will attend.

An outstanding speaker will be Mrs. George Martin, Norfolk, Va., who is president of the Southern Baptist mission work in Louisiana.

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The stock market timidly stepped ahead today, apparently a bit tired out after yesterday's substantial rise.

Gains for favored issues ran from fractions to around a point, with the great majority in fractions. Numerous issues remained at Friday's close and a handful backed down a trifle.

Only a moderate amount of business was done. Turnover was at the rate of around 350,000 shares for the full session.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly, with selective demand for rails in evidence.

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.— (AP) — Cotton futures declined here today under week-end long liquidation and scattered hedge selling.

Closing prices were steady, ten cents to 25 cents a bale lower.

Some of the selling was attributed to easiness in other markets. Trading was quiet throughout the short Saturday session.

Spot cotton declined 25 cents a bale with middling 15/16th-inch quoted at 32.35 cents a pound. Local sales amounted to 164 bales.

New York

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—Cotton futures drifted lower in quiet trading today. Price movements were narrow as dealers awaited Washington developments on ECA funds for exports of cotton. Most of today's activity involved evening up operations in the nearby March contract in which trading will cease at noon on March 17. Some selling continued to be attracted to the market by declining textile production.

Futures closed 10 to 35 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

ARREST YOUTH IN EDUCATOR'S DEATH

Youth Who Was Picked Up By Texas Dean Slays Guardian In Fight

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—(AP)—An 18-year-old youth was arrested here today on a charge of murdering his guardian, the elderly dean of Texas Christian University's gidat social sciene college.

Police Detective E. A. Romero said the young man, Arthur Clayton Hester, made a statement concerning the beating of 70-year-old Dr. John Lord, his guardian. He claimed he did not know Dr. Lord was dead when he fled.

"If he's dead I'm ready to face the music, but I guess I wasn't in my right mind," Romero quoted Hester. The youth was arrested as he walked into the east Los Angeles home of his half-sister, Mrs. Anne Goldberry.

Dr. Lord's body was found last Thursday in his home near Cleburne, Tex., Hester, who lived with the educator, disappeared last Tuesday.

Police said Hester told them he had frequent arguments with Dr. Lord. Last Tuesday, he said, he was refused permission to take his guardian's automobile and go to Fort Worth, 12 miles away.

"I told him I was going anyway," Romero quoted Hester. "I was pretty excited. I guess, and during the scuffle I picked up a piece of pipe and hit him. But I didn't know he was dead. I thought he was just knocked out. I knew I was in plenty of trouble. I took the car and started west, but I had to abandon the auto at Coahoma because the clutch burned out. I guess I set a record for hitch-hiking, though, because it took me only three rides to get out here."

Police said the youth told them he was in the Texas State Orphans' Home when he went to Dr. Lord's home in 1946, begging food.

RETIRED MAILMAN PLANS VISIT TO HOUSTON, TEX.

Ponder, who has been doing quite a bit of fishing since his retirement last month, has often revealed his regret about being away from the mails. fellow employes and all the people whom he served daily while on a carrier's route.

Ponder had been employed with the West Monroe post office department since 1923. He started his post office career in Eros as a rural carrier in 1911.

Thursday night. Miss Marilyn Rosenberg is director.

PLOT OF THREE ACT NEVILLE PLAY GIVEN

March 17 is the date when the second major production of the Neville speech department, "College Daze" by John Rand, will be presented at Neville Auditorium. The curtain will go up on this three-act comedy at 8:00 sharp.

"College Daze" is the story of a rich boy who, in order to inherit his father's millions must graduate from Hartdale, a small midwestern college. Harold Duquet, who was accustomed to the polished life of New York society and a swanky eastern prep school, is thoroughly disgusted with the prospect of life at Hartdale, which has no fraternities or football team.

To enliven his stay there, he hits upon the ingenious scheme of changing identities with Slim Wiggins, a country boy from Corn Hollow, Nebraska, who is trying to work his way through college. Duke becomes Slim, and Slim, a shy, gangling country youth, is required to act the part of a dashing young millionaire from the east!

The possibilities for uproarious comedy inherent in this situation are endless, and Mr. Rand takes full advantage of them. There are any number of complications, climaxed by the big basketball game of the year, when Hartdale wins the Tri-County Championship and Duke becomes a hero and a true Hartdale man. The play moves along at a whirlwind pace from beginning to end.

The public is cordially invited to attend this production which is being directed by Miss Marilyn Rosenberg, head of the Neville speech department.

CATHOLIC ORDER CHIEF IS GUEST

Mother General Of Sisters Of St. Francis Here From Europe

An internationally famous woman, Mother General of the Sisters of St. Francis, the Very Reverend Mother Marguerite, who heads this order, is a visitor to Monroe, having arrived from France on a trip of observation.

Her interest in the United States centers around the only three hospitals that the order possesses in this country, St. Francis Sanitarium in Monroe; the Lady of the Lake Hospital in Baton Rouge and a new hospital to be opened soon in Lafayette.

While in Louisiana she will remain about six weeks and will divide her time between Monroe and Baton Rouge.

In the order are 800 Sisters which she heads. There are 40 hospitals and schools operated by the order in France and 17 in Portugal.

The headquarters of the organization were in Calais, France, until they were bombed. The Sisters and their charges escaped only 24 hours before the Germans destroyed their habitations. When thus driven from Calais they took up their abode and carried on their work in Bourlogne. France.

Very Reverend Mother Marguerite can read English but is unable to speak the language to any great extent.

CAMELLIAS MAY BE HARMED BY INSECT

"Insects on camellia leaves now a danger," according to Mrs. Jewel McQuiller. "You may notice that the leaves on your camellia plants have become sickly-looking, and are falling prematurely. Look closely at your camellias to see whether many tiny, sucking scale insects are causing the damage. If the scale on the camellia leaves is very bad you will see it clearly," states Mrs. McQuiller. Then it's time to spray with a highly refined or summer grade mineral oil. You'll want to use an emulsifiable oil that can be used in a solution of water. C. E. Smith, Louisiana experiment station entomologist, recommends March 15 to April 15 as best times to spray camellias for scale control. Then, in the fall of the year, you'll need to give your camellias another treatment. You can get a leaflet from your home demonstration agent which describes the spray formula and that tells how to use it in spraying your camellias for control of insects. Mrs. McQuiller suggests that you watch carefully for the scale insects so they will not injure your plants.

In the United States in 1948, the Salvation Army conducted a total of 676,000 meetings and 100,000 open-air services.

TIMES NEWSPAPER PLANT ENLARGED

Several Facilities Added To Make Paper One Of Most Up-To-Date

SHREVEPORT, La., March 12—(AP)—Twenty new linotype machines have been installed by The Shreveport Times in an improvement program which includes remodeling of the Times building and acquisition of additional office space in the adjoining Belmont building.

Monday morning the Times will appear in completely new type dress, featuring larger and more readable type faces.

John D. Ewing, editor and publisher of the Times, said today the new composing room linotypes "will give the Times the very latest in typesetting equipment, with every automatic device and improvement perfected up to this moment."

"In re-designing the type make-up of the Times, first consideration has been given to readers and their eyesight," he added.

"The new equipment, with retention of three of the latest-model linotypes now in use, will give the Times a battery of 23 linotypes. This provides an increase of 64 per cent in typesetting, an evidence of the solid growth experienced since the war by Shreveport, the Times and the surrounding territory which the Times serves. It also signifies my confidence in the coming growth and progress of the city and the great Ark.-La.-Tex. region."

Space for the composing room has been doubled in the remodeling, with additional space provided for the news department, display advertising department, classified department, mailing room and photographic department. New fluorescent lighting has been installed throughout the building and a complete change of air every minute and a quarter is provided by a new ventilating system.

Sara Larche Weds New Orleans Resident In Jackson, Miss.

Former Monroe Girl Is Married At Home Of Sister; Monroyans Attend Ceremony

Miss Sara Annette Larche, of New Orleans, daughter of Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Larche and the late Mr. Larche became the bride of Mrs. Charles Perrin McRae, of Lake City, Fla., and New Orleans, in an impressive ceremony which took place on March 5 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Louis L. Langford and Mr. Langford in Jackson, Miss.

Miss Sara Annette Larche, of New Orleans, daughter of Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Larche and the late Mr. Larche became the bride of Mr. Charles Perrin McRae, of Lake City, Fla., and New Orleans, in an impressive ceremony which took place on March 5 at the home of the brides sister, Mrs. Louis L. Langford and Mr. Langford in Jackson, Miss.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of woodwardia fern and evergreen interspersed with white gladioli flanked on either side by cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra. Dr. Girard R. Lowe, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Jackson officiated. Mrs. Sam C. McNeill played a program of nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Langford, wore a sea blue gabardine suit fashioned on dressmaker lines. Her off the face straw hat of sable color was trimmed with small roses and a veil. Her accessories were of toast brown, and she wore a corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. J. Pearson Dunn, of Monroe, was matron of honor. She wore a grey crepe frock and a small, matching ribbon trimmed hat. She wore long black gloves and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Edward H. Widdifield, of New Orleans, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony, when wedding guests were invited into the dining room of the Langford home. The table was overlaid with a cloth of white Italian drawnwork and embroidery, and was centered by the wedding cake which was surrounded by silver candle sticks bearing glowing tapers.

Mrs. Lewis H. Langford served the wedding cake, and Miss Thyrza Branton presided at the silver coffee service. Mrs. A. C. Sanders and Miss Elizabeth Langford and Mrs. Thomas F. Larche assisted in serving and greeting guests.

The bride, a graduate of Randolph-Macon Women's College in Lynchburg, Va., spent her junior year studying at the University of Nancy and the Soroboone in France. She has a master's degree from Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., and recently has been employed by a steamship line in New Orleans.

MAPLE

One of America's most famous nostesses snapped up Virginia Pioneer maple bedroom sets not only for all her own country houses, but for those of her closest friends—eight sets in all. Maybe you have a spare bedroom in the suburb, on a ranch, in the mountains . . . or your own bedroom! That's the beauty of Virginia Pioneer. It fits in everywhere, appeals to everybody.

As in all Virginia House furniture, the chests are sturdy, with smooth-riding drawers of oak, dovetailed both front and back, dust-proof throughout—no exposed edges anywhere; bases are solid on the floor; the knobs are the kind a man can get a grip on. Instead of the usual inch-or-less chair seats, Pioneer's are a hefty inch-and-a-half thick. The hard rock maple has a warm honey color — hallmark of fine maple. NEWS FROM THE PARISH LIBRARY

Many interesting new titles have recently been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, according to Miss Frances Flanders, librarian.

Readers of fiction will find books to suit every taste. "The Heat of the Day" by Elizabeth Bowen is a story of love and treason in the war-torn London of 1942-43. Miss Bowen is a greatly gifted novelist and this is her first book for ten years. It is well worth reading. James A. Michener, who received the Pulitzer prize last year for his "Tales of the South Pacific" has a wide following of discriminating readers, who have been asking for his next book. It is called "The Fires of Spring" and is a compassionate story of the emergence of an American boy from adolescence to the adult world. This is a book for the mature reader.

Evelyn Waugh, whose acid wit appeals to many readers and who reached the best seller lists with his last summer's novel "The Loved One," has a new title called "Scott-King's Modern Europe." It is concerned with the adventures of a middle-aged English school master, who was invited to attend a celebration in a European country ruled by a totalitarian dictatorship. Howard Spring's new book is called "There Is No Armour" and is concerned with the loves and ambition of a Manchester man of the middle classes. Critics say that it is his best since "My Son, My Son."

Although some readers complain that they are weary of historical novels, a good one is always welcome. Such a title is "The Golden Warrior" by Hope Muntz. This story is laid in Feudal England and is concerned with the exploits of King Harold, the last of the Anglo-Saxon Kings, who met defeat at the hands of William, the Conqueror at Agincourt. This is a dramatic and accurate account of the Norman invasion. "Peace My Daughters" is laid in Salem during the witchcraft scare of the 17th century. Handsome John Horne, who was supposed to be the emisarry of the Devil, made many women willing to turn witch. This is the story of one girl who held out against Horne's blandishments to her sorrow and joy. Van Wyck Mason is one of the most popular historical novelists. His new book is called "Cutlass Empire" and is concerned with the exploits of the famous pirates and freebooters in the West Indies. Don't miss this one.

"The Springs," by Anne Goodwin Winslow is a delicate and tender tracing of the flowering of a young girl's personality and a novel of southern manners. It begins with the heroine's seventeenth year, when the opening of a fashionable resort hotel near her home on the outskirts of a southern town provides her first real contact with society. Mrs. Winslow is a mature and discriminating writer and her stories are always worth reading. We predict that "Double Muscadine" by Frances Gaither will be extremely popular. It has everything—suspense, old southern family hints of dark evil, an a setting in Natchez. Be sure to read this.

Readers of mystery stories always welcome a new one by Erle Stanley Gardner, concerned with the exploits of Perry Mason. In the "Case of the Dubious Bridegroom" the confused groom is unsure as to whether he has two wives or not. He drops the complicated problem on the broad shoulders of Perry Mason, who comes through handsomely in a thrilling courtroom scene. "The Hangman's Tree" by Dorothy Miles Disney is a murder mystery with the scene laid in Charleston. This is a harrowing tale for those who love them.

In the field of non-fiction there are several significant titles. "Death Be Not Proud" by John Gunther is a memoir to his only son who died at the age of seventeen of tumor of the brain. This is a father's tribute to his son's personality and his courage and patience in the face of a fatal illness. Profits from sales will be donated to cancer research for children. Walter Duranty, whose articles in the "Saturday Evening Post," have a large following, has written a most interesting account of the men who rule Russia. He calls it "Stalin and Co., the Politburo." "The 49'ers" by Evelyn Wells and Harry C. Peterson is a book of true tales of the California gold rush. This is a history of a fascinating era, of the men who found what they were looking for, and the thousands who failed.

These books and many others can be obtained at any of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are now four branches of the system, the Monroe branch at 418 Jackson, the West Monroe branch at 104 Cypress, the Bookmobile, which covers all of the rural sections of the parish, and our newest branch Carver for colored people at 109 1/2 Powell's alley. Be sure that you are making use of your library.

Another service of the parish library is that of the loan of book projectors and microfilm books to people who are too ill to handle an ordinary book. They are especially useful to people who have to remain in bed for a long time. The library now has three projectors and over 100 books. One projector was donated by the North Monroe Lions Club, one was given by Mr. William Norris in memory of his wife, who died last summer. Mr. and Mrs. Norris lived in the Claiborne community. Mrs. Norris was known for her philanthrophy. Long before the days of the state-wide free lunch program, she organized such a program at Claiborne School. The third projector was given to the library by the Lions Club of Monroe. After the West Monroe Lions Club minstrel, the library will have several other projectors. If you know anyone who could use one of the projectors, please call Miss Frances Flanders, the parish librarian and tell her about your friend or relative. The library is most anxious to loan the projectors to the people who need them.

His new book is called "Cutlass Empire" and is concerned with the exploits of the famous pirates and freebooters in the West Indies. Don't miss this one.

"The Springs," by Anne Goodwin Winslow is a delicate and tender tracing of the flowering of a young girl's personality and a novel of southern manners. It begins with the heroine's seventeenth year, when the opening of a fashionable resort hotel near her home on the outskirts of a southern town provides her first real contact with society. Mrs. Winslow is a mature and discriminating writer and her stories are always worth reading. We predict that "Double Muscadine" by Frances Gaither will be extremely popular. It has everything—suspense, old southern family hints of dark evil, an a setting in Natchez. Be sure to read this.

Readers of mystery stories always welcome a new one by Erle Stanley Gardner, concerned with the exploits of Perry Mason. In the "Case of the Dubious Bridegroom" the confused groom is unsure as to whether he has two wives or not. He drops the complicated problem on the broad shoulders of Perry Mason, who comes through handsomely in a thrilling courtroom scene. "The Hangman's Tree" by Dorothy Miles Disney is a murder mystery with the scene laid in Charleston. This is a harrowing tale for those who love them.

In the field of non-fiction there are several significant titles. "Death Be Not Proud" by John Gunther is a memoir to his only son who died at the age of seventeen of tumor of the brain. This is a father's tribute to his son's personality and his courage and patience in the face of a fatal illness. Profits from sales will be donated to cancer research for children. Walter Duranty, whose articles in the "Saturday Evening Post," have a large following, has written a most interesting account of the men who rule Russia. He calls it "Stalin and Co., the Politburo." "The 49'ers" by Evelyn Wells and Harry C. Peterson is a book of true tales of the California gold rush. This is a history of a fascinating era, of the men who found what they were looking for, and the thousands who failed.

These books and many others can be obtained at any of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are now four branches of the system, the Monroe branch at 418 Jackson, the West Monroe branch at 104 Cypress, the Bookmobile, which covers all of the rural sections of the parish, and our newest branch Carver for colored people at 109 1/2 Powell's alley. Be sure that you are making use of your library.

Another service of the parish library is that of the loan of book projectors and microfilm books to people who are too ill to handle an ordinary book. They are especially useful to people who have to remain in bed for a long time. The library now has three projectors and over 100 books. One projector was donated by the North Monroe Lions Club, one was given by Mr. William Norris in memory of his wife, who died last summer. Mr. and Mrs. Norris lived in the Claiborne community. Mrs. Norris was known for her philanthrophy. Long before the days of the state-wide free lunch program, she organized such a program at Claiborne School. The third projector was given to the library by the Lions Club of Monroe. After the West Monroe Lions Club minstrel, the library will have several other projectors. If you know anyone who could use one of the projectors, please call Miss Frances Flanders, the parish librarian and tell her about your friend or relative. The library is most anxious to loan the projectors to the people who need them.

Girl Workers Unite Is Advice Of Man

By Cynthia Lowry

(AP Newsfeatures)

Harrison Smith, who is the president of the Saturday Review of Literature, thinks women should organize in a women's union and go on strike. Mr. Smith makes his suggestion—which certainly gives you pause—in a recent issue of the Survey Graphic magazine.

The women, if we follow Mr. Smith's program, will be striking agtinst men and the object will be to get something he calls our "rights." He thinks it would be successful, too.

It seems to me there's a little familiar something about Mr. Smith's idea, perhaps the plot of an ancient Greek play called "Lysistrata," and I think that women's strike was successful in calling off a war.

Anyway, Mr. Smith thinks that there's a great big important war on right now between the sexes, and that women are going to get back to the chattel stage in jig-time if they don't get the thing straightened out pretty quickly. His approach to the hash-over situation is a little unusual, however, because he's a man writing about women and he thinks that women aren't the loathsome creatures they've been painted lately.

He says that both men and women—both, the man says—have lost contact with reality. The only way to get this horrible situation patched up is to have women recognized for what they should be, "full time partners of men."

Women may possess three-quarters of the nation's wealth, but economically they are treated like children, says Mr. Smith. Women are potentially a majority vote in the nation—but regard the tiny number of women in congress or in community government. Most teachers are women, says he, but how many women are serving on boards of education?

Relatively few women hold down executive jobs in offices, factories or labor unions and, he continues with fire in his typewriter, women are underpaid, when compared to men, in just about all but wartime jobs. Furthermore, they are underpaid in spite of the fact they do many jobs better than men, are less bored with monotony, less apt to show up with hangovers.

As for the current attack on the housewife, he points out that she's probably only in her forties when the children leave the nest, and what is she supposed to do with the 30 or more years she'll probably live?

And he also has a gentle word for the "career woman" who has been raked over thoroughly by just about everyone. The only trouble with her is that she's apt to be successful, Mr. Smith goes on calmly, and is apt to have more fun than the "office or family drudge." She's ambitious and that's something men are supposed to be, not women. Anyway, the whole career business shapes up to the fact that something that is a virtue to a man is regarded as a crime in a woman.

So, to get going on this partnership which will solve everything, Mr. Smith advises that we organize and get it by force.

It's frightening to contemplate, that first day of the women's strike. No dinner on the table that night, the children uncared for, the telephone service out, no letters typed, no dictation taken, no waitresses to sling hash, no nurses to cool a brow, no hat-check girls, no musical revues, no soap operas, schools closed, no books at the library, no columns like this . . .

The strike sounds like fun, if it were a nice warm day for picketing. But Mr. Smith, don't you think it might make the boys a little annoyed with us? And besides, I'm just a little confused about what rights I'm going to strike for. I don't want to be in congress, I don't want to be a financier. No, on second thought, I won't join the women's union at all.

The Vatican estimates the number of U. S. Catholics increased from about 22,000,000 in 1939 to about 26,000,000 in 1949.

HIROHITO'S PALACE HAS BECOME MAIDS' MANLESS HEAVEN LATELY

By O. H. P. King

(Associated Press News Features)

TOKYO—The American occupation has penetrated or affected almost every place in Japan, but in the inner palace of the emperor and empress more than 300 women live in traditional, unbroken seclusion.

Some little-known facts about palace life are disclosed in the current issue of the magazine Yominono Shunju in an article called "Ladies Around the Emperor."

Thirty or more court ladies serve the royal couple, assisted by 300 maidservants. Except for Emperor Hirohito, NO men are allowed in the inner palace. On occasions when building repairs are necessary, great precautions are taken to keep workers from casual contacts with the palace women.

Tradition rigidly governs the women's lives. Practically all are recruited from Kyoto. Candidates are required to perform "the newcomer's dance" completely nude except for a transparent skirt. Purpose of the dance is explained as intended to permit observation of physical fitness for maid duties, but this is said to be unkown to the candidates.

These attendants must be prepared at any time to die for their emperor or empress. In case of earthquake, fire or other calamity, they are required to rush to the imperial chamber within three minutes to help protect the royal couple.

The maid's jobs are not easy. They must wash quantities of white silk clothing in cold water and with little soap lest they injure the fabric. They are not fed well, because the head maidservant profits by economizing on the food allowance.

Distinctions are sharp between junior and senior maid duties, and the juniors are subject to hazing by the seniors during their training period.

Maids' skirts are worn out within a few weeks, because in helping the court ladies to dress they must remain on their knees.

Kyoto girls nevertheless are eager for places on the palace staff in a manless world.

Incidentally, the magazine discloses, the emperor never bathes in complete nudity. He enters the tub in a white silk bathrobe, after which a court lady pours hot water down his back. He must scrub himself, for nobody is allowed to touch the emperor.

The only trouble with her is that she's apt to be successful, Mr. Smith goes on calmly, and is apt to have more fun than the "office or family drudge." She's ambitious and that's something men are supposed to be, not women. Anyway, the whole career business shapes up to the fact that something that is a virtue to a man is regarded as a crime in a woman.

So, to get going on this partnership which will solve everything, Mr. Smith advises that we organize and get it by force.

It's frightening to contemplate, that first day of the women's strike. No dinner on the table that night, the children uncared for, the telephone service out, no letters typed, no dictation taken, no waitresses to sling hash, no nurses to cool a brow, no hat-check girls, no musical revues, no soap operas, schools closed, no books at the library, no columns like this . . .

The strike sounds like fun, if it were a nice warm day for picketing. But Mr. Smith, don't you think it might make the boys a little annoyed with us? And besides, I'm just a little confused about what rights I'm going to strike for. I don't want to be in congress, I don't want to be a financier. No, on second thought, I won't join the women's union at all.

Expecting a Baby?
Mother's Friend massaging preparation helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use. Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Millions of bottles sold. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin emollient and lubricant. Do try it.

"Send The Red Cross!"

That was the desperate cry of a man calling for help when there was more of Texas City in the air than on the ground—

Remember . . . ?

That same cry rose above the Florida hurricane winds of last year, above the roar of the forest fires that charred dozens of communities in Maine the year before, above the thunder of raging, swollen rivers throughout the country year after year.

For 67 years you have answered that cry for help through your Red Cross. By appointment to the people the Red Cross has served as your representative, translating into action your desire to help men, women and children made helpless by disaster.

Last year, through your Red Cross, in 303 disaster relief operations you brought emergency care and rehabilitation aid to over 300,000 people at a total cost of $12,171,022.

Once a year you renew your appointment of your representative, the Red Cross, by giving the funds to carry out the never ending job of disaster operations.

Now is the time you can help before it happens by giving through your Red Cross.

DOLORES MAY KALIL IS WED TO J. G. NOMEY AT ST. PASCHAL'S

Miss Dolores May Kalil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Kalil became the bride of Mr. Joseph George Nomey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nomey, of Jonesboro, in an impressive ceremony held recently at the St. Paschal's Catholic Church in West Monroe.

The ceremony was performed by Father Natalin, a priest of the church before a background of white gladioli interspersed with greenery.

Miss Margaret Kalil, of New York City, a sister of the bride, sang "Ave Maria and Agnus Dei" prior to the entrance of the bride. She was accompanied by Mr. Fred Parker, Jr. The traditional wedding marches were played by Sister Pancratia.

The bride wore a white satin frock which ended in a full train. The gown trimmed in French lace had pointed sleeves and a full skirt. The dress had a lace trimmed yoke. Her net veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and orange blossoms.

Mrs. Abe Shashy, of Ocala, Fla., a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a white satin frock fashioned on princes lines with a hoop skirt. The frock was trimmed in French lace. Her bouquet was of pink carnations and roses.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Eddie Nomey, of Jonesboro, Miss Marie Nomey, of Jonesboro, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Harry Izen Abboud, of this city, and Miss Sadie Marie Shamis, of McComb, Miss. They wore frocks similar to that of the matron of honor and carried similar bouquets.

Dressed indentically was the flower girl, Barbara Ann Shasy, of Ocala, Fla. The ring bearer who carried a white satin pillow which bore the ring was Donnie Elias, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Elias, of this city.

Mrs. Kalil, the bride's mother wore a grey imported lace frock with a pink orchid. Mrs. Nomey, mother of the bridegroom, wore a toast colored lace frock trimmed in white and an orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Waltz King's Popular Show To Be Given At Neville Monday

A concert program that promises to take the audience "Out Of This World" is scheduled for the Neville auditorium Monday evening, under the inimitable maestro, Wayne King, popularly known as the world's waltz king!

If previous press reviews are to be believed, this variety concert will be one of the cleanest, highest type family entertainments, packed with a seemingly endless parade of top flight musicians and singing stars!

Wayne King has been a familiar and much loved name for the past twenty years, both as a composer-conductor, instrumentalist and soloist. The Waltz King worked his way to fame first with his popular dance bands in the Trianon and Aragon ballrooms in Chicago. Wayne King's RCA-Victor recordings have further increased his high popularity rating. For the part two years, he has taken his famous orchestra, plus a company of the top vocal stars, on semi-annual concert tours, up and down across the country. Invitations and requests pour in continually for additional appearances, and special performances.

This concert on Monday evening will bring forth a large number of talented stars from radio and television fields. Leading star of the company will be Nancy Evans, glamorous, black-haired, black-eyed beauty who has sung over all the major networks, soloed on most of Wayne King records, and who was the first woman in Chicago to have her own television show!

There's "The Double-Daters," two lads, two lasses who think the world was made for fun and frolic. . . . so merrily do they sing.

You'll hear the "Grenadiers," six young lads whose versatility in tones and tunes will leave you humming for many a day.

Last, but by no means least, is the impressive Don Large Chorus, composed of young men and women featured regularly on radio programs originating in Detroit. The brilliant chorus does some most unusual and effective arrangements with both old and new song hits.

Wayne King, who, incidentally, never leaves the stage from the moment of the rising curtain, to the last moment of performance, turns the spotlight of applause continually to the young stars of his company. The Waltz King is widely known for his keen interest in encouraging young people in developing any musical talent or ability they may have.

SOCIALIZING OF MEDICINE HIT

Dr. Rizzo Says Government Plan Destroyer Of Initiative

Dr. Frank P. Rizzo presented the case against the proposed national Health insurance plan before the members of the Optimist Club of Greater Monroe at their regular weekly meeting last Friday. Dr. Rizzo asked, after stating that this nation was founded on the freedom of individual initiative, "Where is there need for a change?"

The doctor maintained that the program projected by Oscar Ewing, the federal security administrator, and supported by President Truman, would tend to eliminate this individual initiative, and create the desire for nothing. "Assembly line medicine would result and the ultimate outcome would not be health insurance, but just another government bureau to which we must pay taxes," continued Dr. Rizzo. He went on to say that the premise of our government that people cannot take care of themselves on a voluntary basis is wrong. "The American way is the voluntary way. Socialized medicine is just another step towards totalitarianism," remarked the speaker. "Besides that, it would add to our already overburdened tax measures, taking more out of our pockets to be put in some government bureau."

Dr. Rizzo also reminded the audience that the Louisiana Medical Association provided a prepaid medical plan for all, which is non-profit. "A doctor has a sacred duty to provide the best of medical care for everyone. Under the proposed plan, he would be just a cog in state controlled medicine."

CHICKEN IN JUG

Fred B. Murphy, of the Farm Service Center, West Monroe, proves in a rather unusual way that a chicken can be successfully raised on only chicken feed and water. "Junior," the chicken, now 59 days old and weighing 2 lbs. 14 oz., was put in the five-gallon jug as a 10-day-old biddy and has been fed 8 lbs. of feed. This amount is high due to waste in the manner of feeding. (News-Star—World photo by Marvin DuBos).

CIVITAN LETTERS TO INVITE AID

Public Asked To Make Donations For Purchase Of Portable Iron Lung

Carrying into execution an ambitious program, the Monroe Civitan Club, youngest service club here, will take necessary steps this week toward financing the purchase of a portable iron lung as additional equipment of the L. B. Faulk American Legion emergency truck.

Cost of the lung will be approximately $1,200 and its purchase will be made possible, the club plans, through the generosity of the public who will recognize in this valuable addition to the truck's equipment, something that is calculated to save many a life.

Every civic organization, as well as every individual in the community, is requested to support this worthwhile project. To this end, approximately 12,000 letters will be in the mails on Wednesday night, directed to persons whose names appear in the Twin Cities telephone directory. The letter will ask for voluntary contributions in an addressed, postage-free envelope enclosed.

During the present week the portable lung, of the Monaghan type, will be placed in a show window of the Palace so that the public can obtain an idea of what the life saving machine looks like. The courtesy of the use of this window was secured by Captain J. W. Faler, an active Civitan Club member, and member of the fire department. To show their appreciation, Monroe fire department members helped very greatly in the work of preparing for mailing of the 12,000 letters.

The type of iron lung selected is light in weight and can be operated by battery, so that it can be put in instant use when called to a scene of an accident such as drowning, asphyxiation, electrouction, carbon monoxide poisoning and many other uses, aside from polio cases. But it does not need to be operated solely by battery. Power also can be supplied by ordinary 110-volt power which as cities furnish.

This lung will be kept at the fire station in Monroe and will be available 24 hours a day, not just in Monroe, or Ouachita parish but for use anywhere there is an emergency in the Ouachita valley area. Because of its life saving possibilities, this project has been carefully scrutinized by physicians, hospitals and members of the emergency truck and they are united in their support of this humanitarian project.

It is not some unknown, untried undertaking. Right now in Vicksburg, a service club is effecting the purchase of three iron lungs like the one to be used here, one lung for each of three hospitals there. Over in Bossier City a service club also is carrying out a similar project with complete success.

Civitan Club members state they have every assurance that they are contributing something worthwhile, and in return they ask that when a householder receives his letter next Wednesday or Thursday that he at once remit whatever sum he feels he can well afford and see that it is promptly returned through the mails.

The president of the Monroe Civitan Club is William (Billy) Gannaway and Captain J. W. Faler, is the chairman of the club's iron lung committee.

CATAHOULA WANTS VACANCY FILLED

JONESVILLE, La., March 12.—(Special)—A second request is being made of Gov. Earl K. Long that a special election be called to provide Catahoula parish with a legislator.

The Catahoula police jury is asking that an election be called within 90 days to fill the post left vacant in January by the death of Russell J. McMillin, member of the house of representatives.

In reply to a petition of the Jonesville Rotary Club for an election, the governor has stated that he would not call one at this time because only one-third of the voters had registered since the first of the year.

The police jury has provided for an assistant to the registrar of voters, so that the poll books might be taken around to various precincts in the parish and the Harrisonburg office remain open at the same time.

CHOUDRANT STORES ARE BROKEN INTO

CHOUDRANT, La., March 12.—(Special)—Forcing their way through either door or window, whichever was easier, burglars entered three places of business here Friday night. Places entered were the cafe owned by Jack Sanderson, the drug store of W. A. Sanderson and the store of J. A. O'Neill.

Cigarettes, candy and snuff were taken from the cafe, $2.50 in cash from the drug store, and three cakes from the general merchandise store of J. A. O'Neill.

Sheriff Dan R. Durrett was making an investigation Saturday.

A 1948 survey showed 51 per cent of American housewives still roll their own pie crust.

MRS. NIXON IS LOCAL SPEAKER

Regional Director N. E. A., Talks To Classroom Teachers Here

Mrs. Ila Nixon, regional director N. E. A., Little Rock, Ark., classroom teacher, chose as her subject for discussion, when she appeared as guest speaker for the Ouachita Parish Classroom Teachers, "Classroom Teachers Organization and Development." Mrs. Nixon based her remarks on two major thoughts—reasons for state department of classroom Teachers and the responsibility of teachers to the teaching profession.

In part Mrs. Nixon said: "There are many reasons why we should have a state department of classroom teachers but the most important are: 1. Relieve state and national associations of some responsibility; 2. Give identity to classroom teachers; 3. Provide avenue for reaching classroom teachers with information; 4. Gives classroom teachers an official voice; 5. Is affiliated with N. E. A. and is entitled to state delegates to N. E. A. and Department of Classroom Teachers Association; 6. Bring classroom teachers together in workshops; 7. Study and improve teacher welfare; 8. Works with state groups of teachers in other states to unify program on national scale; and 9. Organize and feed locals.

"We have a responsibility to the children and the community—Horace Mann very definitely illustrated or demonstrated his interest in bad boys by being instrumental in having an expensive building for correction of bad boys. Asked if he thought one boy was worth that much he replied, "Yes, if he were my boy or yours." In speaking of responsibilities, teachers have a very definite responsibility to the teaching profession. In fact to me there are seven outstanding responsibilities we have to our profession. They are: 1. Public relations program; 2. Teacher recruitment; 3. Better informed teachers; 4. Evaluation of Teaching; 5. Lift professional standards; 6. International relation program; and 7. Last and most important—our personal responsibility to build right attitudes in our own minds and in the minds of the parents and children toward the school and its program.

Teachers must build up their profession and not talk it down. In closing I would like to leave this thought from Fosdick with you:

'They say the little effort that I make will do no good
It never would prevail to tip the hovering scale
When justice hangs in the balance
I do not think I ever thought it would
But I am prejudiced beyond debate
In favor of right to choose—
Which side shall feel the stubborn ounces of my weight.'"

The Salvation Army reports a total of 13,766 conversions was brought about in its work in the United States during 1943.

LIONS CHIEF IS FOND OF CHOIR

President Briggs Praises Centenary Group; Will Sing Here March 18

Dr. Eugene S. Briggs, president of the International Lions Club, as well as president of Phillips University, Enid, Okla., has 47 loyal friends in the Centenary College Choir of Shreveport.

The choir, which has twice sung at International Lions Club conventions in the past two years, was honored with an invitation last fall to sing at a banquet held during President Briggs visit to the Shreveport Lions Club.

Wishing to present a program that was both different and impressive, the choir arranged to sing the "alma mater" of Phillips University. The familiar tune brought Briggs to his feet as a delegate of the choir presented him with a scroll bearing a note of appreciation from the choir and signed by all members, while another presented his wife with a corsage. The scroll was tied with maroon and white ribbon, colors of Centenary, and also the colors of Phillips University. The delegate explained that the note of appreciation was in lieu of an honorary degree, which the choir would have presented it had it had the power.

President Briggs announced that he plans to frame the scroll and hang it in his office.

The Centenary College choir will appear on Friday March 18 at N. J. C. and it is presented under the auspices of Webley Foundation.

Dr. Rizzo Says Government Plan Destroyer Of Initiative

Dr. Frank P. Rizzo presented the case against the proposed national Health insurance plan before the members of the Optimist Club of Greater Monroe at their regular weekly meeting last Friday. Dr. Rizzo asked, after stating that this nation was founded on the freedom of individual initiative, "Where is there need for a change?"

"Assembly line medicine would result and the ultimate outcome would not be health insurance, but just another government bureau to which we must pay taxes," continued Dr. Rizzo. He went on to say that the premise of our government that people cannot take care of themselves on a voluntary basis is wrong. "The American way is the voluntary way. Socialized medicine is just another step towards totalitarianism," remarked the speaker. "Besides that, it would add to our already overburdened tax measures, taking more out of our pockets to be put in some government bureau."

Dr. Rizzo also reminded the audience that the Louisiana Medical Association provided a prepaid medical plan for all, which is non-profit. "A doctor has a sacred duty to provide the best of medical care for everyone. Under the proposed plan, he would be just a cog in state controlled medicine."

CIVITAN LETTERS TO INVITE AID

Public Asked To Make Donations For Purchase Of Portable Iron Lung

Carrying into execution an ambitious program, the Monroe Civitan Club, youngest service club here, will take necessary steps this week toward financing the purchase of a portable iron lung as additional equipment of the L. B. Faulk American Legion emergency truck.

Cost of the lung will be approximately $1,200 and its purchase will be made possible, the club plans, through the generosity of the public who will recognize in this valuable addition to the truck's equipment, something that is calculated to save many a life.

Every civic organization, as well as every individual in the community, is requested to support this worthwhile project. To this end, approximately 12,000 letters will be in the mails on Wednesday night, directed to persons whose names appear in the Twin Cities telephone directory. The letter will ask for voluntary contributions in an addressed, postage-free envelope enclosed.

During the present week the portable lung, of the Monaghan type, will be placed in a show window of the Palace so that the public can obtain an idea of what the life saving machine looks like. The courtesy of the use of this window was secured by Captain J. W. Faler, an active Civitan Club member, and member of the fire department. To show their appreciation, Monroe fire department members helped very greatly in the work of preparing for mailing of the 12,000 letters.

The type of iron lung selected is light in weight and can be operated by battery, so that it can be put in instant use when called to a scene of an accident such as drowning, asphyxiation, electrouction, carbon monoxide poisoning and many other uses, aside from polio cases. But it does not need to be operated solely by battery. Power also can be supplied by ordinary 110-volt power which as cities furnish.

This lung will be kept at the fire station in Monroe and will be available 24 hours a day, not just in Monroe, or Ouachita parish but for use anywhere there is an emergency in the Ouachita valley area. Because of its life saving possibilities, this project has been carefully scrutinized by physicians, hospitals and members of the emergency truck and they are united in their support of this humanitarian project.

It is not some unknown, untried undertaking. Right now in Vicksburg, a service club is effecting the purchase of three iron lungs like the one to be used here, one lung for each of three hospitals there. Over in Bossier City a service club also is carrying out a similar project with complete success.

Civitan Club members state they have every assurance that they are contributing something worthwhile, and in return they ask that when a householder receives his letter next Wednesday or Thursday that he at once remit whatever sum he feels he can well afford and see that it is promptly returned through the mails.

The president of the Monroe Civitan Club is William (Billy) Gannaway and Captain J. W. Faler, is the chairman of the club's iron lung committee.

CATAHOULA WANTS VACANCY FILLED

JONESVILLE, La., March 12.—(Special)—A second request is being made of Gov. Earl K. Long that a special election be called to provide Catahoula parish with a legislator.

The Catahoula police jury is asking that an election be called within 90 days to fill the post left vacant in January by the death of Russell J. McMillin, member of the house of representatives.

In reply to a petition of the Jonesville Rotary Club for an election, the governor has stated that he would not call one at this time because only one-third of the voters had registered since the first of the year.

The police jury has provided for an assistant to the registrar of voters, so that the poll books might be taken around to various precincts in the parish and the Harrisonburg office remain open at the same time.

CHOUDRANT STORES ARE BROKEN INTO

CHOUDRANT, La., March 12.—(Special)—Forcing their way through either door or window, whichever was easier, burglars entered three places of business here Friday night. Places entered were the cafe owned by Jack Sanderson, the drug store of W. A. Sanderson and the store of J. A. O'Neill.

Cigarettes, candy and snuff were taken from the cafe, $2.50 in cash from the drug store, and three cakes from the general merchandise store of J. A. O'Neill.

Sheriff Dan R. Durrett was making an investigation Saturday.

A 1948 survey showed 51 per cent of American housewives still roll their own pie crust.

MRS. NIXON IS LOCAL SPEAKER

Regional Director N. E. A., Talks To Classroom Teachers Here

Mrs. Ila Nixon, regional director N. E. A., Little Rock, Ark., classroom teacher, chose as her subject for discussion, when she appeared as guest speaker for the Ouachita Parish Classroom Teachers, "Classroom Teachers Organization and Development." Mrs. Nixon based her remarks on two major thoughts—reasons for state department of classroom Teachers and the responsibility of teachers to the teaching profession.

In part Mrs. Nixon said: "There are many reasons why we should have a state department of classroom teachers but the most important are: 1. Relieve state and national associations of some responsibility; 2. Give identity to classroom teachers; 3. Provide avenue for reaching classroom teachers with information; 4. Gives classroom teachers an official voice; 5. Is affiliated with N. E. A. and is entitled to state delegates to N. E. A. and Department of Classroom Teachers Association; 6. Bring classroom teachers together in workshops; 7. Study and improve teacher welfare; 8. Works with state groups of teachers in other states to unify program on national scale; and 9. Organize and feed locals.

"We have a responsibility to the children and the community—Horace Mann very definitely illustrated or demonstrated his interest in bad boys by being instrumental in having an expensive building for correction of bad boys. Asked if he thought one boy was worth that much he replied, "Yes, if he were my boy or yours." In speaking of responsibilities, teachers have a very definite responsibility to the teaching profession. In fact to me there are seven outstanding responsibilities we have to our profession. They are: 1. Public relations program; 2. Teacher recruitment; 3. Better informed teachers; 4. Evaluation of Teaching; 5. Lift professional standards; 6. International relation program; and 7. Last and most important—our personal responsibility to build right attitudes in our own minds and in the minds of the parents and children toward the school and its program.

Teachers must build up their profession and not talk it down. In closing I would like to leave this thought from Fosdick with you:

'They say the little effort that I make will do no good
It never would prevail to tip the hovering scale
When justice hangs in the balance
I do not think I ever thought it would
But I am prejudiced beyond debate
In favor of right to choose—
Which side shall feel the stubborn ounces of my weight.'"

The Salvation Army reports a total of 13,766 conversions was brought about in its work in the United States during 1943.

LIONS CHIEF IS FOND OF CHOIR

President Briggs Praises Centenary Group; Will Sing Here March 18

Dr. Eugene S. Briggs, president of the International Lions Club, as well as president of Phillips University, Enid, Okla., has 47 loyal friends in the Centenary College Choir of Shreveport.

The choir, which has twice sung at International Lions Club conventions in the past two years, was honored with an invitation last fall to sing at a banquet held during President Briggs visit to the Shreveport Lions Club.

Wishing to present a program that was both different and impressive, the choir arranged to sing the "alma mater" of Phillips University. The familiar tune brought Briggs to his feet as a delegate of the choir presented him with a scroll bearing a note of appreciation from the choir and signed by all members, while another presented his wife with a corsage. The scroll was tied with maroon and white ribbon, colors of Centenary, and also the colors of Phillips University. The delegate explained that the note of appreciation was in lieu of an honorary degree, which the choir would have presented it had it had the power.

President Briggs announced that he plans to frame the scroll and hang it in his office.

TRINITY CHURCH STARTS EDIFICE

Parsonage Will Be Erected Following Sanctuary Completion

Monday, March 7, was a great day for Trinity Church. The pastor, Rev Filer J. Seal, and members of Trinity started their second building program in less than two years. Having entered their new church edifice on Sept. 5 last, they now plan building a new parsonage in the location where the old church building stood.

The pastor's new home will be of brick veneer and will have seven rooms and two baths and will be built mostly with donation labor.

Trinity church was organized on August 1, 1940 and has been one of the fastest growing little churches in the Twin Cities. Rev. J. T. Hinke served as pastor from August, 1940, until September, 1946. In December, 1946, Rev. Filer J. Seal came from Second Baptist Church, Bogalusa, to serve as pastor.

With only $5,500, Trinity Church, under the leadership of Reverend Seal, launched out on faith to build the new church building in the spring of 1947. The estimated cost of the new church is $75,000, and only a small percentage of indebtedness is against the new building. Most of the labor used in the construction of the new building was donated.

Besides the material gains, Trinity Church has had 336 new members added to the church roll in the 26 months Brother Seal has served as our pastor. One of our deacons, Brother George Womack has been called to the ministry.

SHORT CUTS FOR SEWING PLANNED

On Wednesday, March 16 at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. Mildred Swift will give a demonstration on "Short Cuts in Sewing." The meeting will be held at the agriculture building, 704 Cypress street, West Monroe. All ladies of Twin Cities are invited to attend.

Mrs. Swift states "Our aim in sewing is to give garments the commercial look. Quick sewing and handling the garment as little as possible help to give this look. The more short cuts we know, the shorter the construction period." The agent advices bringing a notebook.

BREAK GROUND FOR PARSONAGE

Shown above is Pastor Filer J. Seal, shovel in hand, as he moves first earth for the foundation of the pastor's home to be erected in West Monroe by Trinity Baptist Church. The church recently completed a beautiful sanctuary that is today estimated as valued at $75,000. It is nearly debt free.

CRIPPLED UNIT HOLDS MEETING

Easter Seal Sale Plans Are Formulated; Other Plans Discussed

The Ouachita Unit of the Crippled Children's Society met at the Hotel Frances for their monthly noon luncheon with Rev. A. M. Serex, chairman of the board, presiding.

Final plans for the forthcoming annual Easter Seals drive were discussed.

In connection with our clinic, now being held bi-monthly, announcement was made that children come to the clinics from 14 parishes. In many cases, they must leave home at 3:00 or 4:00 a. m. in order to make the trip. A committee was appointed to invite the mayors and other prominent civic officials of leading towns in these parishes to visit at the future board meetings of the Ouachita unit in view of organizing Crippled Children's Societies in other parishes.

Reports from the sick room of Dr. J. Scott Hamilton have it that this active member of the society is much improved.

It was announced that several of the board members were instrumental in providing transportation for a crippled young lady to come to Monroe to secure employment.

Members present were: Mrs. Simmie Heninger, co-chairman; John Breard, treasurer; Mrs. Mae Modes, secretary; Mrs. H. F. Madison, Underwood Fourmy, Clay Albright, F. J. Brennan, Tom DuPree, Mrs. Ben Stern, Mrs. Meyer Glazer, Dr. N. B. Album, Dr. Bert Heinberg, Charles Mitchell, Jack Hayes, Mrs. W. J. Veazey, Miss Freeda Michel, Alan Sugar, Mrs. Sid Walker, Dr. Catherine Michel Foster, Mrs. L. A. Masterson, Mrs. Leo Baer, and Mrs. Allen Ritter.

MRS. PETERSON TO REVIEW NEW BOOK

Mrs. F. H. Peterson will attend the meeting of the Monroe Assembly No. 103, S. O. O. B, in Masonic Temple next Friday night. She will present the book, "Cheaper by the dozen" She is well known for her skill in reviewing books.

Besides this address there will be initiations held.

Members of Monroe Commandery No. 7, Knights Templar are cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Parsonage Will Be Erected Following Sanctuary Completion

Monday, March 7, was a great day for Trinity Church. The pastor, Rev Filer J. Seal, and members of Trinity started their second building program in less than two years. Having entered their new church edifice on Sept. 5 last, they now plan building a new parsonage in the location where the old church building stood.

The pastor's new home will be of brick veneer and will have seven rooms and two baths and will be built mostly with donation labor.

Trinity church was organized on August 1, 1940 and has been one of the fastest growing little churches in the Twin Cities. Rev. J. T. Hinke served as pastor from August, 1940, until September, 1946. In December, 1946, Rev. Filer J. Seal came from Second Baptist Church, Bogalusa, to serve as pastor.

With only $5,500, Trinity Church, under the leadership of Reverend Seal, launched out on faith to build the new church building in the spring of 1947. The estimated cost of the new church is $75,000, and only a small percentage of indebtedness is against the new building. Most of the labor used in the construction of the new building was donated.

Besides the material gains, Trinity Church has had 336 new members added to the church roll in the 26 months Brother Seal has served as our pastor. One of our deacons, Brother George Womack has been called to the ministry.

SHORT CUTS FOR SEWING PLANNED

On Wednesday, March 16 at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. Mildred Swift will give a demonstration on "Short Cuts in Sewing." The meeting will be held at the agriculture building, 704 Cypress street, West Monroe. All ladies of Twin Cities are invited to attend.

Mrs. Swift states "Our aim in sewing is to give garments the commercial look. Quick sewing and handling the garment as little as possible help to give this look. The more short cuts we know, the shorter the construction period." The agent advices bringing a notebook.

BREAK GROUND FOR PARSONAGE

Shown above is Pastor Filer J. Seal, shovel in hand, as he moves first earth for the foundation of the pastor's home to be erected in West Monroe by Trinity Baptist Church. The church recently completed a beautiful sanctuary that is today estimated as valued at $75,000. It is nearly debt free.

CRIPPLED UNIT HOLDS MEETING

Easter Seal Sale Plans Are Formulated; Other Plans Discussed

The Ouachita Unit of the Crippled Children's Society met at the Hotel Frances for their monthly noon luncheon with Rev. A. M. Serex, chairman of the board, presiding.

Final plans for the forthcoming annual Easter Seals drive were discussed.

In connection with our clinic, now being held bi-monthly, announcement was made that children come to the clinics from 14 parishes. In many cases, they must leave home at 3:00 or 4:00 a. m. in order to make the trip. A committee was appointed to invite the mayors and other prominent civic officials of leading towns in these parishes to visit at the future board meetings of the Ouachita unit in view of organizing Crippled Children's Societies in other parishes.

Reports from the sick room of Dr. J. Scott Hamilton have it that this active member of the society is much improved.

It was announced that several of the board members were instrumental in providing transportation for a crippled young lady to come to Monroe to secure employment.

Members present were; Mrs. Simmie Heninger, co-chairman; John Breard, treasurer; Mrs. Mae Modes, secretary; Mrs. H. F. Madison, Underwood Fourmy, Clay Albright, F. J. BIBLE FILM IS TO BE SHOWN

Trinity Church Will Have Interesting Program For Tonight

Have you ever seen sheets of paper as large as a dining room table, but as thin as a human hair, fed into huge presses that work with the precision of a fine watch? Do you know how sheets of pure gold thinner than finest tissue are permanently affixed to the edges of Bible leaves? How is a book sewed together? Have you ever seen a Bible printed in Chinese?

These and a host of other intriguing things about the Bible are shown in a 12-minute film you will want to see tonight at 7:30 at Trinity Lutheran Church. Other films on the program, besides "Book of Books," described above, are: "His Bequest," and "American Anniversary."

In the film "His Bequest" are shown the advantages that a child of God has as his inheritance from Christ. A most interesting as well as instructive film, it is one of the best on that subject.

"American Anniversary," tells the story of the young immigrant, Joe Karnak, who seemed a "suspicious character" to the officer who watched him eating a huge cake marked with the American shield, right in the public square! But to Joe, the cake symbolized America. How Joe learned to appreciate the many freedoms and opportunities in this nation is told by his friends as, nearly 25 years later, they prepare to attend a dinner in his honor.

The entire program will run only about 45 minutes, and visitors are urged to attend. The Lutheran Church is just south of the junior college.

Europe expects to have 350,000 American tourists in 1949 and 500,000 in 1952.

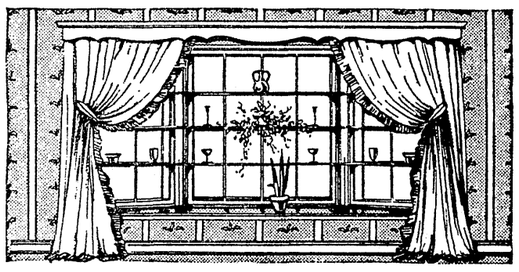
THAT GIVE YOU MORE LIGHT AND AIR
...THAT HELP YOU SAVE MONEY, TOO!



"Bill and I were sold on the idea of good windows for our home. We wanted lots of them for the light and air they'd give and for the decorative effect. I love a home with large windows."

"... But I wondered about fuel bills, until I heard about Silentite. These 'insulated' windows are fully weather-stripped to help us save on fuel! And what a relief to have windows that won't jam, stick or rattle. Silentite has no old-fashioned weights, pulleys and cords to get out of order."

DR. POLING WILL SPEAK AT TECH

Noted Philadelphia Pastor And Editor Slated At College Assembly

RUSTON, La., March 12.—(Special)—Ministers of several faiths have been invited to hear Dr. Daniel A. Poling, pastor of the Philadelphia Baptist Temple and editor of The Christian Herald, when he addresses an assembly audience at Louisiana Tech at 10 a. m. on Wednesday, March 16.

Appearing on the program with Dr. Poling will be the Right Reverend Monsignor J. C. Marsh, pastor of St. Matthew's Church in Monroe, who will give the invocation. Rabbi David Lefkowitz, Jr., who is serving in the pulpit of B'nai Zion congregation in Shreveport, will deliver the benediction.

Dr. Poling will be introduced by Rev. Guy M. Hicks, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Shreveport. Rev. Hicks, who represented Louisiana and Arkansas at the Ecumenical conference in Springfield, Mass., in 1948, was formerly pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church in Ruston.

Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, Tech president, will preside at the assembly. Platform guests will include Dr. Edgar Godbold, president of Louisiana College; Dr. Joe Mickle, president of Centenary College, and Dr. Rodney Cline, dean of Northeast Junior College of Monroe.

As president of the World Christian Endeavor Union, an international movement more than 50 years old, Dr. Poling is a leader of Christian youth around the globe. Termed "America's spiritual ambassador of good will" by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Poling completed six overseas missions during World War II. He was later named to serve on President Truman's advisory committee on universal military training.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Mrs. Williams urged that when some of these bills are before our congressional session of congress now being held in Washington, D. C., that we should contact our Senators Russell Long and Allen J. Ellender and our Representative Otto Passman. Write them a letter and let them know of our personal interest. She stated that we should also visit our state legislature.

Mrs. Dale Cobb, president of W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A. made the following announcements: The Fifth district P.-T. A. meeting would be held Saturday, March 19, at the College Place Baptist Church, registration to begin at 9:00 a. m. The state P.-T. A. convention would be held in Alexandria, April 21, 22, 23. BIBLE FILM IS TO BE SHOWN

Trinity Church Will Have Interesting Program For Tonight

Have you ever seen sheets of paper as large as a dining room table, but as thin as a human hair, fed into huge presses that work with the precision of a fine watch? Do you know how sheets of pure gold thinner than finest tissue are permanently affixed to the edges of Bible leaves? How is a book sewed together? Have you ever seen a Bible printed in Chinese?

These and a host of other intriguing things about the Bible are shown in a 12-minute film you will want to see tonight at 7:30 at Trinity Lutheran Church. Other films on the program, besides "Book of Books," described above, are: "His Bequest," and "American Anniversary."

YES, CHIEF, THE RESTAURANT COOK APPARENTLY WAS READY TO TURN SLEET IN.

THIS IS THE LETTER AND THE PIECE OF CLOTH, BOTH FOUND IN AN ENVELOPE IN THE DEAD MAN'S POCKET.

To the Police: Sleet worked in the Kitchen of Jacko's Grill. I found this identification mark cut from a tan uniform in the waste can. A Friend.

WOMENS PRISONS 207 36

DO YOU THINK SLEET KNEW HE HAD HER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER?

I THINK NOT. IT'S MY IDEA THAT HE INTENDED TO BLACKMAIL HER, AND HADN'T FOUND IT NECESSARY TO MAIL THE LETTER.

HEY, TRACY, I GOT NEWS!

SAM! H'M?. WHAT HAPPENED TO THE EYE?

IN ONE OF THE TAVERNS WHERE THEY HAVE A MIRROR ACT WITH A WOMAN POSING — SLEET HAS A JOB THERE. I SAW HER. I WANTED TO NAB HER — AND I GOT BEAT UP.

EH?

TWENTY MINUTES LATER.

ALL RIGHT — SO NONE OF US KNEW YOU WERE A COP, SEE? NATURALLY, WHEN YOU TRIED TO GO DOWNSTAIRS, THE BOYS GOT A LITTLE ROUGH.

NOT SO LOUD, YOU DOPE! — AND DO I LOOK LIKE A WOLF?

THAT'S NOT THE SAME GIRL!

NO, THE GIRL THAT WAS POSING WHEN YOU WERE IN HERE IS OFF DUTY TILL 4 O'CLOCK.

FOUR O'CLOCK!

YOU CAN SEE SEVERAL PICTURES OF HER! HOW IS THAT DONE?

THE GIRL POSES IN A LITTLE ROOM BELOW THE BAR.

YOU SEE, THERE'S A BUNCH OF STRONG LIGHTS AND SOME MIRRORS — COME ON DOWN, I'LL SHOW YOU.

TRACY, IT'S TEN TILL FOUR. SHE'LL BE HERE SOON

AND A FEW BLOCKS FROM THE TAVERN, SOME PAINTERS ARE AT WORK.

GRAB IT! MY HANDS ARE SLIPPING!

I TOLD YOU IT WAS TOO WINDY TODAY TO TAKE DOWN STORM SASHES.

I'VE HEARD THE STORY BEFORE, MR. COLDWELL! I UNDERSTAND NOTHING OF THE NATURE OF A POISONED PIN WAS EVER FOUND IN THE DOLL.

THAT'S CORRECT, MR. PADDOCK.

RENE CONFESSED TO THE MURDER UNDER TORTURE, BUT THE TORTURE KILLED HIM BEFORE HE TOLD HOW HE DID IT!
